

HUN ANTI-TANK GUN IS SHOWN AT THE C. OF C.

Negro Trooper Who Captured It Killed German With a Razor; Property of the Trimble Brothers.

One of the famous, and unsuccessful German anti-tank guns, captured by a colored trooper of the 92d division in the Argonne forests September 28th, is now on exhibition in the reception room at the Chamber of Commerce. The gun bears a label explaining that it was turned over to H. R. Trimble, of Omaha, who was in France in Y. M. C. A. work, and is the property of Trimble Bros. commission company.

The gun is about two feet longer than the ordinary rifle, but weighs a great deal more in proportion, being about all a man can lift.

The label explains that the negro trooper captured it from an old German soldier about 65 years old, the colored man cutting his throat from ear to ear with a razor while in the act of relieving him from his burdensome artillery.

A regulation size German army gun is also on exhibition with it, having also been sent by Mr. Trimble.

Sarpy County Commissioner Attacked by Charles Hutter

Charles Hutter, former sheriff of Sarpy county, attacked and is alleged to have beaten John Lilley, a commissioner, over the head with his fists. It is alleged that the attack grew out of an action by the county commissioners of Sarpy county to oust Hutter from office.

A formal charge of failure to give bond as provided by law was filed in the county proceedings, but residents of Sarpy county say that taxpayers long have been dissatisfied with the conduct of the sheriff in office.

He is under a $3,000 judgment in Douglas county on a charge of oppression in office. A suit is now pending in Sarpy county in which Mike Zweibel asks $10,000 damages. Mr. Zweibel, village marshal of Papillion, alleges that Hutter jailed him when he tried to stop the sheriff from speeding in the village streets.

Millers Now Permitted to Buy Wheat from Storage

Nebraska millers who were given a scare, thinking that perhaps the government was going to take all the wheat offered on the Omaha market, have found relief in the announcement that Uncle Sam is going to permit them to buy for their needs from the stocks in storage.

In the Omaha terminal elevators at this time the accumulated wheat stocks held by the government aggregates some 5,000,000 bushels. It appears that the government has figured that it is not going to need all of this for export and as a result millers have been notified that they will be permitted to take over such quantities as they may need. In doing so they will be required to pay the original price, storage charges and a reasonable profit. The government bought this wheat all the way from $2.09 up to $2.20 a bushel, the price depending upon the quality and kind.

FORMER OMAHAN TWICE WOUNDED; IS GASSED ONCE

Private Peacock Says Huns in Argonne Forest Offensive Dropped Like Wheat in Hail Storm.

Pvt. William J. Peacock, 1805 Seventh avenue, Council Bluffs, a former Omaha boy, returned home Thursday wearing two wound chevrons for injuries received in the battle of the Argonne forest. Young Peacock was active in fighting six weeks after he stepped from the train to Camp Funston, having been inducted into the overseas regiment immediately upon his arrival at the training camp. He landed in France the first week in August and fought with the 77th infantry division.

It was after having gone over the top three times that Peacock was injured by flying stones and shrapnel when a 45-centimeter shell burst a few feet from him, killing three men outright, who were with him. Peacock was buried in a shell crater beneath stones and debris for three hours before he was taken to a first aid station. Several days after he was again in the front line trenches in the Argonne forest, and was gassed. He still suffers from the effects of the penetrating gas.

Huns Fell Like Wheat in Hail.
"That Argonne forest was a veritable hell," he said, "and the doughboys helped enlighten it. The Germans met their Waterloo when they met the cold steel of the American troops. Twice when German troops attempted to rush us in mass formation, we opened up on them with machine guns and they fell like wheat in a hail storm. When the dirty dogs felt the grit we had in us, they turned toward Berlin or shouted 'Kamerad' when we went over the top."

Peacock rallied between life and death in a hospital in France for two months besides two weeks that he spent in a hospital in New York City recuperating from his injuries. He was discharged at Camp Dodge and will resume business in Omaha.
