Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—Word that the food administration favored maintaining the present standard value of hogs had a decidely bullish effect today on corn. The close was atrong, 1% to 2c and higher, with February, $1.51% to 1.11% and May $1.25% to 1.26%. Oats gained % to 1.9 1%. Provisions finished irregular, ranging from 75c decline to 35c advance.

Corn broke sharply at the start, but som began to climb, and throughout the rest of the day ascended without any sorious check. The temporary initial seiback was ascribed to agitation for a lower living cost. Bearish sentiment, however, appeared to evaporate under the influence of goestp that during February the existing hog price would remain under seat-er impetus after definite amountement, that a spokesman of the food administration had said an abandonment of the price agreement policy as to here would not be recommented at the meeting of the hog

New York, Jab. 21.—The conspicuous feature of today's broad stock market was the determined and partly successful offort of bear traders to extend their advantage of recent days. In which they were sided by the pessimistic views attributed to industrial leaders and railroad executives. United States Steel was the pivot around which the market revolved and it is likely to retain this position for another week, when the directors meet to approve the last quarterly statement of 1918 and take action of the common dividend.

Omaha, Jan. 21, 1819.
There was a continued good run of cornoday with 131 cars as compared to 127 arm last Tuesday and 184 cars a year ago. Other receipts were 29 cars of wheat, 46 arm of oats, 5 cars of rye, and 14 cars of outer.

cars of oats, 5 cars of rye, and 14 cars of barley.

There was an excellent demand for corn at prices ranging generally from unchanged to B cents higher, the bulk bringing an advance. Chicago options were higher, due largely to the prespect of February hog prices being fixed at the January figure of $17.50 per hundred. This coupled with probability of lighter seceipts here were factors in giving strength to the market. Oats were unchanged. Rye was unchanged and barley I cant off to I cent up. DOROTH In Her Latest Special Production

GENEVRA FRENCH thought that she would be able to do as she pleased when she married Lawrence Tabor, the youngest member of her stern father's circle of friends. To her the marriage ring meant a declaration of independence. She neither loved, honored, nor obeyed.

In the unrestrained pursuit of happiness and freedom she became involved with a man-about-town. Her name became linked with his in society gossip, and her honor was a jest to be bandied about among men. Yet through a most ingenious trick of psychology her nusband was able to bring her to her senses and to make of her a good wife; and what is more, a good

How this was accomplished forms the theme of "Talk of the Town." It would not be fair to tell you in what way Lawrence Tabor restored his wife to himself when she appeared to be public property. To know you must see "Talk of the Town."
