

WRITER ASSERTS BOLSHEVISM IS GERMAN MADE

Isaac F. Marcossou Speaks in Omaha; Declares Monster Discord Threatens the World's Safety.

"We must have a peace treaty with fangs in it that will put the German in his place and keep him there. It must be a peace of action and result, not a peace of phrases. We should use the big stick, not the soft, humane word, for the tragedy of the war is that the Germans have not been beaten badly enough."

These are sentiments voiced today by Isaac F. Marcossou, noted writer and lecturer on economic subjects, who addressed the Fine Arts society in the Fontenelle Friday on "The War—and After." Marcossou returned from Europe six weeks ago.

"Find jobs at once for returned soldiers. If we don't, industrial unrest, coupled with German propaganda, will spread bolshevism, the world menace, so fast in this country that nothing can stop it," he warned.

Propaganda is reptile. "German propaganda is a reptile that merely lies stunned. Bolshevism is one of the prize packages of discord that is handed out to the world. This whole monster of discord was virtually framed and financed in Germany," he said.

"I was in Petrograd a year ago when Lenin opened his Pandora box of discord and I have watched its poisonous fumes in half a dozen countries since that time. Wherever you find bolshevism there you also find the German box office and the German agitator. Unless we scotch that snake now, we will have its hideous head reared in our midst."

Marcossou, who was sent to Russia, where he also met Kerensky and Trotsky, by Lloyd-George on a British destroyer, advocates an army of occupation in Russia.

Maybe God Can't. "No one but God can save Russia and sometimes I doubt whether even He can," said Marcossou.

Colonel Roosevelt told me shortly before I went to Russia, that he could clean up the whole situation there with two divisions. It could have been done then if Kerensky had been a strong enough character but he lacked power and decision.

Marcossou's experiences and economic observations in his tour of European countries during wartime are embodied in a series of articles now being published in the Saturday Evening Post. His first visit to Omaha in 1905 was while he was connected with World's Work.

Mr. Marcossou passed the morning in company with Victor Rosewater, editor of The Bee, a friend of many years' standing.

Directors of the Fine Arts society entertained Mr. Marcossou and leading newspaper men at luncheon at the Fontenelle.

Robert H. McGaffin Almost Struck by Body of Falling Woman

Robert H. McGaffin, chief clerk in Sheriff Clark's office, was almost struck by Mrs. Dovey Heitzman when she leaped to death from a seventh-story window of the Brandeis building in an alley through which McGaffin was walking.

McGaffin was only a few feet in advance of the spot where the woman struck. He heard the thud in his rear and turned around to view the gruesome sight.

"I was walking down the alley to a 10-cent store and saw a matter of about two stories from the scene of the fall to where I heard the thud," he stated.

Mr. McGaffin is a member of the St. Andrew's Ambulance society of Glasgow, Scotland, an organization for volunteer first aid and relief. He was the first person to examine the body of Mrs. Heitzman, finding her dead and covering her face with a coat. He suppressed a dog fight which occurred within a short distance of the body.

Nearly All Grammar School Graduates to Go on to High School

A trend toward more education is seen by Superintendent of Schools Beveridge in the proportion of eighth grade graduates who intend to continue their studies in higher schools.

The first semester ends Friday and there are 565 graduates from the eighth grades of the city schools. Of this number 524 have signified that they will continue to the high schools and other institutions and only 41 will quit school.

This is believed to be a much greater proportion going on to higher schools than ever before. Superintendent Beveridge has made addresses in the eighth grades, urging the pupils to get all the education they can, pointing out that education pays even in the monetary sense in the long run.

The enrollment in the Central high school is the highest it ever has been. With those coming in from the eighth grades Monday the total enrollment for the year will be more than 2,100.

The four weeks lost because of the "flu" have been more than half made up by adding 15 minutes to the daily sessions.

All Over But the Shouting!

It would be interesting to trace the origin of most of the catchy phrases and expressions in such general use in this big land of ours. The above headline doubtless came into use through a remark of umpire, captain or onlooker just before the end of a stubbornly contested game, perhaps of base ball or foot ball. The phrase-maker saw the inevitable ending and felt that nothing was lacking but the shouting of the victors.

We have been battling with yardstick and pencil, measuring and counting, day after day, all the myriad mountains of merchandise in this Mammoth Dry Goods Store, and now we see the end—It's "all over but the shouting" and on.
