Valentine dance, when they will make provisions to take the wounded Nebraska soldiers from Walter Reed Hospital, who are able to get out, to look on at the dance if not to take an active part in it.

Mr. William Henry Harrison third left on Thursday for Omaha where he spent only a few days with his uncle, State Legislator Charles Saunders, intending to go on to Lincoln tomorrow or next day and enter the state university to take the agricultural course. When that is completed he will go on a farm, probably the Saunders farm in Nebraska, to practically work out what he learns in Lincoln.

His tastes are for the rural and the open, and it has been recommended particularly on account of his physical condition, which prevented his remaining in the service, either army or navy.

His father was for many years solicitor of the State department and his experience and knowledge was of great use to Mr. Penfield. Miss Penfield, sister of Mr. Penfield, is spending the winter here with them. Mr. and Mrs. Penfield are being widely entertained before their departure.

Girls Prepare for Them for Sure as the Dawn Breaks They Are Here

The long narrow skirt has arrived! We have heard that it was on the way, whispers have come from New York and now it is in our midst. Mrs. Barton Millard is wearing such a smart one-piece tailored dress of dark blue embroidered in black, with long, narrow skirt. Mrs. W. D. Hosford has an attractive model of brown duvetyne with which she wears a small hat of brown straw and georgette.

Miss Regina Connell's tailored gown is very becoming, as it is of a soft blue made with a tiny vest. Miss Virginia Offutt's dress is also of blue with the chenille trimming and Miss Helen Ingwersen has a smart one-piece tailored gown, her hat is of black straw with a beaded taupe band. Mrs. Louis Nash, brown gaberdine.

False Friends and True

The former "tire" if the road is rough—the latter "go all the way."

There's a wonderful difference between "friends" and "acquaintances."

To quickly appreciate this fact, tell a hard luck story, and note how many offer advice, sympathy, and criticism—HOW FEW offer their hand.

While prosperity smiles, and your name is on every tongue, every "acquaintance" is your "friend"—but lose your health, your money, your reputation—and you will never have to lose your "acquaintances" they WILL LOSE THEMSELVES.

That is one of the blessings of adversity—a man can always make sure where his friends stand.

It has never been my misfortune to be placed in a position where the friendship or patronage of "acquaintances" could either materially help or injure me—but during the years I have been upbuilding this dental practice—introducing modern methods, "revising the tariff downward" and demonstrating the success of local anesthesia—I have been "put on the defensive" by force of circumstances at times, and invariably my REAL FRIENDS have come forward with proffers of aid that make a man feel glad he is alive.

The pretty part, the compliment paid me, is the fact that people who know me intimately—know my plans, my aims, my motives, BELIEVE IN ME and think I AM WORTHY of their friendship.

Such things make life worth living, spur a man on to do things worth while.
