

APPLEBY HELD WITHOUT BOND IN BANDIT CASE

Reif, Witness for State, Positively Identifies Him as the Man He Saw Leap from Roof.

Frank Adams, alias John Appleby, alleged Malashock diamond bandit, was held yesterday for the murder of Detective Frank Rooney and remanded to jail without bond.

Detective Rooney was wounded in a gun battle with bandits in a bungalow at 3207 North Fourteenth avenue, four hours after the Malashock jewelry store, Sixteenth and Dodge streets, had been robbed of $20,000 in diamonds and jewelry January 30, 1918, Rooney died the following day.

The hearing was held in police court before Judge Fitzgerald. It occupied 90 minutes.

Insist on Hearing.

The defense played a trump card by insisting on a preliminary hearing. It had been expected this preliminary hearing would be waived.

Claude Reif, Delmar hotel, was the principal witness for the state. He lived next door to the bungalow where the gun battle took place.

On the witness stand he positively declared Appleby was a man he saw leap from the roof of the bungalow while the battle was in progress.

The defense failed to shake his testimony. County Attorney Shotwell by direct examination brought out the statement that Reif had seen Adams visit the bungalow the day before the Malashock robbery.

Jacob Malashock, one of the proprietors of the jewelry store, said he "thought" Adams was one of the bandits. Nathan Horowich, a clerk there, merely echoed his employer's statement.

Appleby Not Called.

Adams, the accused bandit, listened grimly to the testimony. Occasionally he would glance at the witness to Judge Fitzgerald to see the effect on the judge when the witnesses identified him as the robber. He was not called to testify.

Chief of Police Eberstine was called by the defense. His testimony related only to the method by which Adams was captured. He said the capture was effected by means of a communication. He did not state from whom the "tip" was received.

Adams was arrested a week ago at Gordon, Wis. He fought extradition.

Beryl C. Kirk, "Big Wally" Martin, Sam Stone and Harry Williams, all well-known criminals, are "doing" time in the Nebraska state prison on the same crime.

Police officers who participated in the gun battle were called. They described the battle at the house. None of them could say they saw a man escape from the house.

Final trial for Adams will be given some time during the spring term of court.

Prefers to Live Among Strangers Than in House of Relatives

Jennie Pecha, 16-year-old South Side girl, expressed a preference to a juvenile court to live with strangers, although three married sisters, her mother and stepfather, and her own father, had homes for her.

She charged her stepfather with unkind treatment and said she was willing to live with the strangers, although her father, whose lack of proper home surroundings were not approved by the juvenile court.

Two sisters of the girl quarreled in court as to which lived nearer to the girl's employment in a packing house.

The girl was insistent that her own welfare would be better served if she abided in the house of strangers.

May Be Delay in Air Service Extension to West from Chicago

There is a hitch in the appropriation for the extension of the aerial mail service, now before congress, according to a telegram received from Washington by John A. Jordan, representative of the aerial mail service of the department, before he left for Chicago Friday night. Mr. Jordan said the senate committee had acted favorably, but the appropriation is meeting with difficulties before the house committee.

Mr. Jordan and his assistant, Mike Ebersole, while in Omaha got all the necessary information, and wired Washington that Omaha was ready to go ahead. He then received the wire from the Postoffice department informing him of the unfavorable action of the house committee, saying that there would be a probable delay in extending the service farther than Chicago for the present.

Mr. Jordan is going to stop in Chicago and will then advise Chamber of Commerce officials here the length of the delay. Before leaving Omaha, he said that it was his opinion that the delay would be short, and that he felt he could almost guarantee aerial mail service to Omaha by July 1.

McKenna Describes How Auto Bandits Do Their Hard Work

James McKenna, noted automobile thief, under arrest now in Omaha, has revealed some inside "dope" about the methods of this gang. People who think their cars are safe when they have a log chain locked around the front wheel are mistaken, he says. The up-to-date auto thief carries under his coat a pair of specially made chilled steel machinist's nippers. This is made with a "fold" in the two arms of the handles so that it can be folded up and carried under the coat. These nippers will cut through the links of a heavy chain easily.

In the case of automobiles on which the ignition is locked by a key, a piece of fine wire is inserted in the keyhole and thus the ignition is turned on.

KEEP WIFE HOME AND WORK, JUDGE TROUP ORDERS

Wife Should Care for Children, Court Rules in Hearing Case Against Lewis Mandle in District Court.

Judge Troup in juvenile court yesterday disposed of a delinquency case in an unusual manner by ordering that Lewis Mandle, 1519 North Twenty-fourth street, shall immediately take charge of his restaurant business and permit his wife to properly care for her children.

"You are not doing the father's part. You should either sell the restaurant or keep it yourself. Your wife belongs in her home and she should be given an opportunity to take care of her children," was the rebuke administered by the judge to Mandle. The court added that Mandle is capitalizing his wife's ability as a cook merely to make money at the expense of his children's welfare.

A volunteer juvenile court worker asked the court for a complaint forthwith, charging Mandle with aiding and abetting in the delinquency of his son, Philip, whose case before the judge developed into the situation which involved the father.

Philip, who is 14, has been selling newspapers since he was 8 years old. He was credited with general good deportment, and it was added that he needed a "boy's chance." The mother also was recommended.

"There's the trouble: No mother in the home," added the judge. The father is a painter and paper-hanger, but he promised to try his hand as chef in the little restaurant which his wife has been operating.
