FARMERS' POSITION HOOPER'S CONCERN

Protection of Producers Until Peace Is Restored Held Necessary by Food Administration.

Paris, Jan. 26.—Herbert Hoover, United States food administrator and director general of the international relief organization, gave out the following statement today: "The dominating food problem in the United States at this moment is a very much bigger problem than the Chicago packers. It is a problem of the American farmer."

"If the packers profit of 2 or 3 per cent on his turn over is too high it is the duty of congress to tax it on him. If the farmer's prices threaten to fall below the level of a fair return, it behoves the country to do some quick, clear thinking. The perplexities arising out of the inability to demobilize totally the food situation of the world in the period between the armistice and peace make the farmer's position in the matter of much more immediate concern than the future of the Chicago packers."

"Supplies enormously increased. Taking it broadly, before the European war began we exported about 5,000,000 tons of food a year. This year we are prepared to export at the rate of from 15,000,000 to 20,000,000 tons. The increase represents the patriotic service of the American farmer, plus the voluntary sacrifice of the average American under the stimulation of the pleas from the allied governments that without an enormous increase in our food supplies their very lives would be menaced."

"We are thus faced with a serious problem with respect to our own supplies, patriotically accumulated. In an early peace is signed and the markets of Europe are opened freely to trade, there will be a greater demand for food from the new mouths than ever this surplus could supply. But in the periods between the armistice and peace we have a very difficult situation."

Uncle Sam Wondering How Far He Will Have to Go to Enforce Prohibition Law

Revenue Department Already Has Big Force of Raiders; Cities May Furnish Bigger Problem Than Mountain Districts of the South; Penitentiary Offense to Manufacture Liquor.

By ROBERT W. HOBBS. Staff Correspondent of Universal Service. Washington, Jan. 26.—Uncle Sam is wondering just how far he may have to go to enforce the war-time prohibition law, which goes into effect July 1. After that it's going to be unlawful to manufacture or sell liquor and the internal revenue bureau expects a great outbreak of "moonshining." It is somewhat fearful also lest there be increased activity among peddlers of illegal drugs.

The law puts the enforcement of war-time prohibition up to the commission of internal revenue and legislation is now pending in congress, appropriating $1,500,000 for an enforcement division of that bureau. But a million and a half would not go far in policing the country against "booze" and the commissioner knows it.

No plans are making for a federal police system. "We expect to secure the enforcement through the local and state officers," said Acting Deputy Commissioner Gaylord, in charge of the preliminary work the bureau is doing in the matter. It is probable that special United States attorneys will be assigned each state to co-operate with the district attorneys offices to prepare cases for prosecution under the war prohibition law and there will be a director of investigation in each. His duty will be to arrange for co-operation with the local and state authorities and will himself direct investigations on which prosecutions will be based. No plans have been made as yet looking to the number of assistants these directors may have in any territory. "Those matters must be matters of development," said Mr. Gaylord.

PICHON SAYS AGREEMENT ON LEAGUE IS NOW ASSURED

No Responses Yet Received From Russian Elements to Invitation to Hold Conference.

By Associated Press. Paris, Jan. 26.—Stephen Pichon, the French foreign minister, received the Associated Press and American, British, Italian and Japanese newspaper correspondents at his private office in the foreign office today, and talked freely and frankly of the status of the big foreign questions as they are affected by the conference. The meeting was in the same room where the council of the great powers meets.

"We have no response from any of the Russian elements," said the minister, answering the first question relative to the invitation to the Russians to meet at Princes islands for a conference with the allied and associated powers. "The minister was asked if non-official statements were accepted as indicating that the meeting at Princes islands would not take place. "There is some doubt as to that," replied Pichon, "but the bolsheviks do not say positively that they will not attend, but merely present some objections."

As to whether a meeting could be arranged elsewhere than Princes islands, the minister replied that was a question for the council, and as he was only one of the members he could not say what they would do. The minister added, however, that the opinion expressed by the Russian groups in Paris seemed to embody the views of the governments they represented. If no meeting took place on Princes islands, it would then be for the council to say what the next step with reference to Russia would be. When asked if the bolsheviks were de facto government, the minister answered: "They have a de facto existence and this has led to their being invited with the others."

Concerning the various interests in Syria and Arabia, M. Pichon expressed the belief that all "can be reconciled by mutual concession." The conference also went on record in favor of incorporating the league as an integral part of the general treaty of peace and admitting to the league "every civilized nation which can be relied on to promote its objects."

President Wilson Voices His Admiration for Work of French Women in War

Tells Delegation Suffrage Is Domestic Question for the Several Nations, But Expresses Hope That Cause of Women All Over World May Receive Consideration of Peace Conference.

By Associated Press. Paris, Jan. 26.—The text of President Wilson's address to a delegation representing the working women of France, who called on him at the Murat mansion to urge that the peace conference might be offered for the case, not only of the women of France, but of their sisters all over the world, to be presented to the consideration of the conference. "The conference is turning out to be a rather unwieldy body, a very large body representing a great many nations, large and small, old and new, and the method of organizing its work successfully, I am afraid, will have to be worked out stage by stage. Therefore, I have no confident prediction to make as to the way in which it can take up questions of this sort."

"But what I have most at heart today is to avail myself of this opportunity to express my admiration for the women of France and my admiration for the women of all the nations that have been engaged in the war. By the fortunes of this war the chief burden has fallen upon the women of France, and they have borne it with a spirit and a devotion which has commanded the admiration of the world. "I do not think the people of France fully realize, perhaps, the intensity of the sympathy that other nations have for the women of France."

On the other hand, close friends of the former king, who hitherto had denied rumors that he had left England, refused today to comment on the report that he had entered Portugal.

Portuguese Cabinet Resigns.

Lisbon, Jan. 26.—The Portuguese cabinet has resigned. In an official note the government explained that although the monarchist government in Braganza, Lisbon and other places has been overcome, in still other districts the military and civil elements are seeking to revive quarrels among the republicans. Wherefore, the members, not desiring to weaken the republican forces in the present grave hour, decided to resign, but will continue their functions until a new government is formed by a coalition of republican and monarchist forces. The royalist movement in the north, which was restricted to Oporto and Braga, is now being put down by concentration of republican troops. The movement has been completely stamped out in Lisbon, where some infantry, cavalry and artillery occupied the two forts of Monsanto hill and hoisted the royalist flag Wednesday. These forces surrendered last night after a prolonged bombardment by government troops, aided by marines and battalions of civilian volunteers who enthusiastically offered their services for the defense of the republic. Republicans United. This movement has had an excellent effect in uniting all republicans to the cause of putting aside differences. The political prisoners taken in the recent Santarem rising offered unconditionally their services to the government against the royalists. These men included Major Castro, who had escaped from prison. The casualties resulting from the fighting in Lisbon aggregated 12 dead and 51 wounded. Troops from Lisbon are now proceeding to the north. Government troops attacked the rebels and inflicted severe losses upon them in bayonet fighting which proceeded the withdrawal of the insurgents from Monsanto hill. Two batteries of artillery and many prisoners were captured. A republican airplane flew over the city Saturday, dropping leaflets, and the president rode through the streets, being received with enthusiasm. Incendiary fires, kindled in the outskirts of Lisbon during the day were quickly extinguished. Wire communication with Braga, Oporto, Vienna and Vizeu is still interrupted.

Body of Richly Clad Young Woman Found on Jersey Palisades

Tenafly, N. J., Jan. 26.—Hunters today discovered the body of a richly-clad young woman concealed by two huge boulders at one of the loneliest spots on the Palisades overlooking the Hudson. The fact was swathed in bandages over which apparently had been poured the contents of a chloroform bottle, found nearby. The young woman appeared to have been dead three or four weeks and the body was frozen. Though circumstances indicate suicide the authorities think the young woman may have been murdered. There was nothing on the clothing to give any clue as to her identity. Even the name of the dress, from which the chloroform was purchased had been erased from the label on the bottle. Keisuke Mochi Suki and others have criticized the government with placing the Siberian interests of Japan under American control and have argued that the projected league of nations would prove futile. The unequal treatment of the Japanese by the United States has been likewise pointed to, as has the probability of American naval expansion. General Bliss Decorated. Paris, Jan. 26.—Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, American military representative on the supreme war council, was decorated this morning with the distinguished service medal by Gen. John J. Pershing.
