By HENRIETTA M. REES THE MacDowell Club of Omaha will entertain Mrs. Edward MacDowell widow of America's foremost composer, at a tea this ifternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Borgam, 2661 Douglas street. During the afternoon, Mrs. McDowell will give an informal talk, and will tell something of the work which has been done at the Peterborough colonly for creative artists, during the past year.

The MacDowell Club of Omaha was formed with Mr. A. M. Borgium as president after the first recital here by Mrs. MacDowell two years ago. Last year, Mrs. McDowell came to Omaha in a lecture recital, and a tea was given her by the club at the Borglum residence the fol-lowing day. The present membership of the club consists of all those who gave a dollar as membership dues last year, which money was sent to the MacDowell Memorial fund. No meetings of this club were held during the past year. The Oma-ha Clef club has been invited to be present at the tea this afternoon, and anyone desiring to become a member for the succeeding year, and who wishes to have a share in this fund, will also be welcomed.

After the death of Edward Mac-Dowell, many of his admirers wished to take part in erecting some suitable memorial to his name and fame as a composer. They consult-ed Mrs. MacDowell. She told them of the farm at Peterborough, N. H. and of the quiet and picturesque surroundings, which had been a constant source of inspiration to Mac-Dowell and where he had found it possible to do some of his finest work. She also told of his dreams to sometime found a colony there where creative artists of recogniz-ed ability could come for a certain number of weeks during the summer, and at a moderate expense, to devote themselves to their work, amid favorable surroundings, and far from the maddening humdrum of daily routine. No one knew bet-ter than MacDowell how the necessity of making a living often used up the time and vitality in more material work, which could have been concentrated in giving expres-sion through some line of creative
