Advice to the Lovelorn

Love Comes Unbidden and, "To Love or Not We Are No More Free Than the Ripple to Rise and Leave the Sea."

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

After the Minister. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: We are asking you for a little advice. We are sisters, 19 and 20 years of age. We are both dark-complected and considered very good looking. Are we too young to go to dances with boy friends? How should girls of our ages wear their hair? What length should we wear our dresses? What can we do to win the love of a young minister? Please send us a list of new names for a baby girl and also a baby boy, as we have a new baby in our home whom it is very difficult to find a suitable name for. What can we do to reduce our weight, as we weigh 180 and 200 pounds. Please answer this by Tuesday. JESSIE AND ETTIE.

You are old enough to attend nice dances with boy friends. The style of hair dress for grown girls depends upon many things, such as color, thickness, coarseness, waves or straight lines and the height of the forehead. Your skirts should be quite long and narrow this season. I am unable to advise you definitely how to win a minister. Do you both wish to win him? Ministers are usually quite human, however, and require no special inducement to fall in love. Ruth, Barbara, Jane, Elizabeth, Peggy, Polly, Maggie and Sue. Reggy, Solomon, Clarence, Bill, Gordon, Jack, Clifford, Robert. Eat no meat, milk, butter, candy or sweets. Walk in the open air every day.

His Father His Rival. Miss Fairfax: I am in trouble and come to you for advice. I will simply state my case and you will greatly oblige me by giving me your honest opinion of it, and suggest something for me to do. I am a married man and have one child, a boy 6 years old. About a year ago my father left my mother. Now they are divorced and living apart. My father staid on the farm with my wife and I moved on the farm with him. Now Miss Fairfax, my father seems to have fallen in love with my wife; he doesn't allow me on the place any more. We haven't agreed in any way since we moved in with him.

She, my wife, seems to be just as fond of him and has already applied for divorce from me. What should I do, allow her a divorce or not? And what ought to be done with my father? Thanking you in advance, I am sincerely, A READER.

What should you do indeed? This is a strange position that you find yourself in, but I would give her just one more chance before yourself and the attractive father. If she just can not give him up, she surely is not worthy of your worries about the divorce.

Mourning. Dear Miss Fairfax: I am a girl of 18. About two months ago I lost my mother. She died of the influenza. I am the only child, have a nice home, and a father who could not be better to me. I live in a small town, and am lonely a great part of the time. Do you think it would be disrespectful to the memory of my mother to go to public affairs before morning. D. P. Your husband cannot take the children from you unless there is something against your character. If he is a cruel, worthless man, he would have trouble to get them under any circumstances. You might write to Mrs. George Doane of the Associated Charities, or Miss O'Brien in the court house basement. They both manage employment bureaus.

Finish School. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I have been reading your advice and think it very good. I am a young gentleman 18 years old and in love with a girl 12 years my senior. I do not care much for her, but she is very wealthy but unattractive. I am sure she loves me dearly. I am a junior in high school and very good looking and smart in my books. The girls in school are simply crazy about me. I am very much worried. Should I marry this girl or finish school? How is my writing? Please answer soon. POMPADOUR.

Finish school by all means. By the time you are old enough to marry you will have found the right girl.
