

GOV. M'KELVIE TO REQUEST FUND FOR NEB. GUARDS

May Ask Legislature to Appropriate $135,000 for Upkeep of State Troops if Congress Gives Support.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, March 3.—The sum of $135,000 will be asked as an appropriation to rehabilitate the Nebraska National Guard, providing congress makes the necessary provision for its support by the federal government.

Announcement was made today by Governor McKelvie, following a conference with Adjutant General H. J. Paul, who has just returned from overseas service. Col. J. A. Storch of Fullerton, who has been acting adjutant general pending Paul's arrival, was also present at the interview and concurred in the recommendation.

If congress makes federal funds available for National Guard maintenance, the state must have organizations with a total membership of 4,000 men in order to secure its share. This will make it necessary to organize two regiments, with possibly some independent companies like the signal corps and the sanitary troops. Should congress not do its part, Governor McKelvie does not think it advisable for the state to attempt to keep up the National Guard by itself.

Governor McKelvie has not fully decided on the amount he would ask the legislature to set aside for prohibition enforcement during the next two years.

New Civil Code Bill, in Printed Form, Now Ready for Consideration

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, March 3.—(Special.)—The McKelvie civil administrative code bill—a volume of 512 pages—is back from the printer and is in the hands of the secretary of the senate. The bill is now ready to be referred to a senate committee, or to several committees, for public hearing.

All bills passed by both branches of the legislature affecting any section of the present statutes will be held in abeyance by the officials of the two houses until after the code bill is disposed of. If the bills passed are in harmony with the provisions of the code bill they will then be drafted into the code bill. If not, they will automatically be indefinitely postponed.

New Taxes Nearly Double State Fund in Month

Lincoln, March 3.—(Special.)—Late receipts of new taxes and the annual settlements with county treasurers nearly doubled the cash balance in the state general fund during the month of February.

The books of State Treasurer Cropsey show $479,000 on hand in that fund at the close of business for the month, as compared with $273,000 at the beginning.

The total balance in all funds stood at $1,771,000 on the first of March. The temporary school fund contains $212,000 as a starter for the next semi-annual state school apportionment.

Man Who Distrusts Banks Loses Money by Theft

Beatrice, Neb., March 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Rather than trust the banks with his hard-earned savings, Samuel South, a drayman of this city, planted $720 in a can, then hid the improvised bank in his cellar three weeks ago. Today he discovered bank and money were missing. Lester Reddick of this city was arrested at Greenwood, Neb., today, suspected of the theft of the money. South asserts Reddick called at his home last week and placed some jars in his cellar, which casts suspicion against Reddick.

Spiritualistic Marriage Broken by Materialistic Things of Woman's Life

Wealthy Chicago Pythagoras No. 2 Separates From Wife Who Prefers Dad's Palatial Mansion on Riverside Drive to Crawling About in Indian Temples Trying to Locate Whereabouts of Heaven.

San Francisco, March 3.—A romance that had its birth with the study of the occult in Los Angeles has been shattered at the Golden Gate because the ideals of the principals could not be squared with the earthly things of life.

The climax to a year of marital happiness delving into psychology and philosophy of life came here Saturday with the filing of an annulment suit by George Joseph Taylor, philosopher, lecturer and writer, against Marie Zentgraf Taylor, student of the occult and heiress to a million dollars from the estate of her father, William Zentgraf, New York banker.

A Mismatched Marriage.

In explanation Taylor said: "Our marriage was a mismatch. There were obligations on both sides which neither could carry out. We decided rather than to hamper the careers of either that it were best to separate. There is to be no breaking off of our spiritual relations."

Their discovery came in the midst of Taylor's studies and attempts to define and place the whereabouts of heaven.

Taylor and his bride had come up from Los Angeles on an automobile trip around the world, their object being chiefly to visit India and Egypt and there study the teachings of the ancient masters and peer behind the veil in the age-old temples of the mystics.

Overcome by the materialistic things of life as they were about to take passage on a steamer to the orient, Taylor and his bride he says, came to a realization that it would be better for both to separate here rather than among strangers.

Crimp in Activities of Independent Men in Market for Cream

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, March 3.—(Special.)—"Concentration" cream-buying stations must deduct from the purchase price of cream the cost of shipping the cream to a central market, according to an opinion by Attorney General C. A. Davis, in reply to an inquiry by Charles A. Goss of the City National bank of Omaha. This forbids the many cream stations over the state classed as "concentration" centers from paying the market price at a central market to producers of cream.

Independent buyers, Mr. Davis says, cannot buy cream from producers at any price and then auction it to the butter manufacturer. The law, according to Mr. Davis, was passed for the protection of the producer, who should be paid a uniform price for the cream.

Lemons Beautify!

Strain lemon juice well before mixing and massage face, neck, arms, hands.

Here is told how to prepare an inexpensive lemon lotion which can be used to bring back to your skin the sweet freshness of which it has been robbed by trying atmospheric conditions. Wind-chafe, roughness, tan and redness are warded off and those tell-tale lines of care or of age are softened away.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, makes a whole quart pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan, and is the ideal skin softener, smoothen and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any pharmacy and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands, and see for yourself.—Adv.

STATE AGENTS WITHIN THE LAW, SAYS M'KELVIE

Governor Does Not Deem it Necessary to Make Further Investigation of Millard Episode.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)
Lincoln, March 3.—(Special.)—Governor McKelvie does not think the situation at Millard, where several state prohibition agents were defied by angry men with guns last week, is such that it calls for a special investigation. Reports of the affair, which he received from Chief Prohibition Officer Gus Hyers and Special Prosecutor Holland say that the agents acted in the manner provided by the law and that no serious trouble resulted.

"There has been more publicity about this matter than the facts warrant," said the governor, "and the press has been giving undue encouragement to the opposition to law enforcement. Even at that, if the people would read the subject matter more carefully and pay less attention to the headlines they would get a better idea of what actually took place."

An Omaha newspaper published a picture of "the minute men of Millard" in its Sunday issue, showing four men armed and ready for business. Their names were also given. Governor McKelvie said he had information that three of these men have been convicted of bootlegging and the fourth is the mail carrier from whom state agents ascertained they retrieved about 40 pints of liquor in last week's episode.

As to posting up a notice on the door of the house where one of the men lived, the governor says the facts have been misrepresented.

Section 42 of the prohibition law, he says, requires this notice to be tacked up when the person sought is not on the premises. It is the minute men and the family living there, not the state agents, who have refused to let the notice be taken down, Chief Hyers reported.

RECRUITING IS REOPENED HERE IN REGULAR ARMY

One Year Enlistment Feature of Inducements Offered to Men Seeking Place in Peace Time Force.

Recruiting for the regular army of the United States has reopened in Omaha, with headquarters at the Army building.

This is to carry out the orders received from Washington according to the new bill calling for 175,000 men.

All branches of the regular army are open and the pay is as yet based on the war-time basis, ranging from $30-$81 per month, in addition to board, room, clothing and medical attention.

One-Year Enlistment.—The enlistment period for those who have had previous service is one year, and at the expiration of that time all connection is severed.

For those without previous service the enlistments are for three years, and in both cases men, physically fit, between the ages of 18 and 40 are eligible.

Married men are accepted providing they can waive the exemption claim, as no family allowances are in force. Staff corps and department men up to the age of 55 are accepted.

At the close of the recruiting period in August, 1918, Omaha's district ranked first among the 64 divisions throughout the United States. Before the office was opened Monday morning, the first applicant had appeared. Frank J. Bowers from Genoa, Neb., who had served in the army but was discharged for physical disability. He was not accepted.

GOVERNOR SAYS "PRIVATE WIRES" ARE ON DEAD LINE

McKelvie Writes Letter to Senator Hitchcock's Secretary, Informing Him a Change Has Taken Place.

When Governor McKelvie received a letter from Senator Hitchcock's secretary, advising him to "keep in touch with this (the senator's) office," he made the following reply:

I certainly apologize to you for having been so delinquent in answering your letter of February 13. I do not want you to feel that I overlooked your injunction to "keep in touch with this office and you will be of more service to the people of the state than by keeping solely in touch with some offices I could mention."

Taking your own word for it, according to newspaper reports, that I did not even know how to find the capitol when I got down to Washington, I think you will pardon me for not being able to find the office of the senior senator from Nebraska, unless it might be assumed that I could have more easily located the latter by not going to the capitol.

"Small Town Fellow." In writing me, I would suggest that you keep in mind that I am a small-town fellow and am entitled to some charity on that account. I think it was O. Henry who said that "You can take a boy out of the country, but it is hard to take the country out of the boy," and I claim to be no exception to that truism.

I did, however, immediately upon my arrival in Washington, succeed in having a conference with Secretary Baker, and during the time I was there I succeeded in locating the office of the provost marshal general, the Department of Commerce, the office of Senator Norris, the house of representatives chamber (where I visited Mr. Sloan), the surgeon general's office, and the Department of Justice, considering

Y. M. C. A. Worker Tells of American Soldiers in Battle

Fremont, Neb., March 3.—(Special Telegram.)—Rev. H. H. Harmon of Lincoln talked to members of the Noonday club at the weekly luncheon today on his experiences in France as a Y. M. C. A. worker and later as assistant chaplain. He gave a vivid story of the part the American soldiers played in the big war. Mr. Harmon in the forenoon addressed the ministers of the Platte Valley Ministerial union at the Y. M. C. A.

Don't Change Your Husband.—Adv.

that I did not arrive until 10:30 a. m. and left the same day, the time was fairly well occupied as it was, though I assure you I do not contend that it might not have been better occupied had I spent the major portion of my time in the office mentioned in your original injunction.

Filled Mullen's Shoes.

By the way, I note that you filled the shoes Arthur Mullen in a conference at the White House yesterday, and I congratulate you upon the honor thus conferred. If you are to continue to act in that capacity, you may be interested in knowing that the private wires, which seemed to have connected the office of that estimable gentleman with this office during the past few years, have been placed on the dead line, so your duties to that extent will be less trying and arduous.

All of which is by way of pleasant, but not devoid of the truth. Sincerely yours, (Signed) SAMUEL R. MCKELVIE.

Shamed By A Breath

What makes you more ashamed than to know your breath is sickeningly offensive? Others notice it and avoid you—can you blame them?

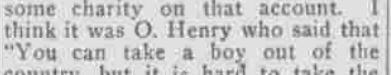

Usually bad breath can easily be avoided. If the system is kept free from decaying food-waste there will be no gases created to spoil the breath.

Your druggist has a product called SALINOS, which will completely empty the bowels, including the lower bowel, where most of the trouble starts. It is pleasant to take and pleasant in action.

Get a bottle. Avoid bad breath and other troubles which come from the same source. Take SALINOS first thing tomorrow morning.—Adv.
