

HUFFMAN'S AUTO OFFICE RAIDED BY LIQUOR SQUAD

Automobile Dealer Fails to Appear in Police Court on Charge of Having Supply of Intoxicants.

W. Lee Huffman, Omaha automobile dealer, failed to appear in police court Tuesday morning when a case charging unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor against him was called. Huffman's bonds of $105 were declared forfeited by Police Judge Fitzgerald. He was arrested Saturday afternoon by the morals squad after the policemen had made a search of Huffman's place of business on Farnam street, and the police said they found champagne, wine, whisky and beer concealed in a desk. Huffman gave a fictitious name. When taken to the police station he at first gave the name of J. B. Walters, Sanford hotel. The name "W. Lee Huffman," was afterward written in the record. The liquor seized by the raiding squad was a choice variety and included "Four Roses," considered the highest grade domestic whiskey distilled, and an imported champagne. Court officials declined to state whether a judge's capias would be issued to compel Huffman to appear in court. This action has been taken several times by order of city officials.

Kidneys Stop Death Follows

If the kidneys are overworked beyond their capacity to throw off the poisons from food-waste, sooner or later they quit, and Bright's Disease claims another victim. If food-waste lies in the bowels it ferments and creates dangerous poisons which pollute the blood. The kidneys do their utmost to discharge these poisons from the system. If you allow this accumulation of food-waste to continue, you're doomed. Your druggist has a product called SALINOS, which will completely empty the bowels, including the lower bowel, where most poisons are formed. It is pleasant to take, pleasant in action. Get a bottle. Be on the safe side.—Adv.

Salter Says Mask O. K. for Smoke Fighting; "Useless" Opinion of Mining Expert

Omaha Fire Chief Orders 60 Army Gas Masks After Tests in a Smoke-Filled Room at Fire House Proved Successful—Further Tests of Masks for Chemical Fires to Be Made.

Chief Salter of the fire department takes issue with Dr. Van H. Manning of the United States bureau of mines on the value of army gas masks as an adjunct in connection with fighting fires. "The field of usefulness of the army gas mask," the doctor is quoted in a telegram from Washington, "is confined to certain chemical industries, around smelters and roasters, where sulphur fumes are given off, and in industries using chlorine and bleaching powders." "We have been making tests with these gas masks in a smoke-filled room at one of our fire engine houses," said Chief Salter, "and we have proved to our satisfaction that these masks may be used with advantage at least in cases of ordinary dense smoke. Our men remained in dense smoke for half an hour with these masks and could have remained longer if necessary," Chief Salter stated. "Satisfactory for Smoke." "I am not prepared to state that these masks would serve us in cases of gas fumes or, for instance, in a drug store fire, but for ordinary smoke I am satisfied that these masks will serve a good purpose. We have demonstrated the fact in tests. "We will make further tests for gas fumes, but it is probable that we will have to use special protection in cases of fighting a fire when we encounter gas fumes from chemicals or other sources. "It is my opinion that the dealers of the high-priced masks made especially for fire department purposes are doing all they can to discourage the sale of army gas masks which are being sold for $15 each. "Sixty Masks Ordered. "We have ordered 60 of these army gas masks for use here and I know that they will prove to be valuable accessories in connection with combating ordinary smoke." Dr. Manning pointed out that it was particularly dangerous to use the army gas mask where gas was confined as it was intended for use in the open. "Furthermore," he said, "carbon monoxide, one of the most dangerous gases in civil employment, can be combated with the army mask." The doctor insists that they are almost worthless in civil employments.

Constable Got Rings and Linens But Could Not Catch Terrier

Constable Zach Ellis, attached to the municipal court, threw up his hands when he endeavored to serve a writ of replevin on one fox terrier dog, at the home of Irene Younger, colored, 1014 South Tenth street. The writ called for a pair of diamond earrings, fox terrier dog, linens, curtains and clothes. The constable was successful in his work until he tried to take the dog into custody. The dog led the constable a merry chase, upstairs and down, and then ran around the house until the constable's feet refused to co-ordinate with his sense of duty. After running something like 20 miles around the house, Ellis gave it up.

Woman Wants Custody of Only One of Her Six Children

Bertha Moulton in her suit for divorce from Charles Moulton asks that he be given the custody of five of their six children. They range from 6 to 17 years of age. Mrs. Moulton asks to be given only one, a 12-year-old daughter. They were married at Stanton, Neb., in 1901, and the wife alleges that within a few weeks after the wedding her husband struck her in the face, called her names and otherwise mistreated her.

Verdict of One Cent Awarded in Case in Municipal Court

A jury in Judge Baldwin's division of municipal court awarded a verdict of one cent to Sunderland Bros. company in a replevin action against Mrs. A. N. Larr, dressmaker, 1809 North Twenty-fourth street. Mrs. Larr last month ordered two tons of coal sent to her address C. O. D., and when the fuel had been placed in her basement she refused to pay until an alleged claim against the company had been settled. The coal was taken out of the basement through a replevin action. At the hearing Mrs. Larr contended that an order of coal received last July was not to her liking, so she sought to adjust matters according to her own ideas of justice. She had to pay the costs of the suit and her attorney, and also lost her time attending court.

Omahan on Transport Nearly Sunk by Heavy Running Sea

An Omaha soldier, Pvt. Abraham Cohen, was aboard the United States steamship West Hosokie, which landed in New York Monday after a rough passage from Bordeaux, which port the ship left February 14. The boat was nearly sunk by the weight of its gun and cargo, due to the running sea. "I commenced first to be bothered with my stomach. Every little bit I ate would sour and form a sort of gas which caused me the most awful suffering. This gas would press against my heart and I would be so short of breath for hours that I could not walk. If I even tried to walk I would get so dizzy, weak and tremble that I would lose my balance. My nerves got in such a bad shape that I could hardly sleep and would just roll and toss all night long. I just couldn't stand a bit of noise. Just the chickens cackling would almost drive me distracted. I had no appetite and what little I did eat caused me so much pain that I would almost die. I kept going down until I was almost a complete wreck. I had lost so much in weight that none of my clothes fitted me and I was so weak that I could hardly walk across the room, let alone do my work. "I tried most everything, but nothing helped me and I had given up nearly all hope of ever being well again. While I was on the lookout trying to find something to help me a friend of mine who had taken Tanlac with wonderful results advised me to try it. I started on Tanlac and the way it helped me right from the start was almost like a miracle. I have taken twelve bottles now and have not only been relieved entirely of all my sufferings but I am enjoying better health than I have in thirty years. My meals taste as good to me as they did years ago. I can eat just anything without the slightest trouble afterwards and I simply sleep like a child. I can now easily do all my work, including my washing, and my strength for a woman of my age is just remarkable. I am perfectly well and enjoy life as well as I ever did. Just lots of people have asked me what I have been taking to make me look so well and it's a pleasure for me to tell them Tanlac. I know as well as I know I am here that I owe my health and happiness to this grand medicine and I will always praise it." Tanlac is sold in Omaha by all Sherman & McConnell Drug Company's stores, Harvard Pharmacy and West End Pharmacy. Also Forrest and Meany Drug Company in South Omaha and the leading druggist in each city and town throughout the state of Nebraska.—Adv.

Light Plant Owned by City Is Opposed by Local Manufacturers

The Omaha Manufacturers' association is opposed to House Roll No. 450, providing for the establishment and operation of a municipal electric light plant operated under the direction of directors of the Metropolitan Water district. "The Manufacturers' association is opposed to this bill, or any other measure that provides for the confiscation of private property, for the reason that it is not only an unjust measure, but will have the effect of discouraging the further investment of capital in industries in this city. "There is at present a law on the statute books, passed by the last legislature, which provides means for the acquisition of public utilities by the vote of the people. It is the wish of the people of Omaha to acquire an electric light plant then the owners of the present plant should be given the opportunity to realize on the amount invested in the existing property," say local manufacturers.

MRS. BURR, AGE 79 GAINS 27 POUNDS TAKING TANLAC

Illinois Woman Suffered Thirty Years — Her Health Restored.

"I have actually gained twenty-seven pounds by taking Tanlac and while I am now past seventy-nine years of age I declare I don't feel that old by forty years," was the remarkable statement made by Mrs. Mary E. Burr of Bradford, Illinois R. F. D. No. 1, recently. Mrs. Burr relates some very trying experiences of Civil War days, one of which was the loss of her first husband, who was killed in the great conflict. At the close of the war she moved to Illinois with her parents, in an "old covered wagon," and remained a widow until November of last year when she was happily married again, becoming the wife of a prosperous farmer of Bradford. "Those Civil War days certainly were dark ones," said Mrs. Burr, "and if I should live to be twice as old as I am now I could never forget the terrible suffering and sorrow so many had to go through. I feel sure the nervous strain and hardships that came to me was what caused my health to break down later on. But while I have seen the dark and bitter side of life I have also enjoyed the greater part of it. I had always been blessed with fairly good health until about thirty years ago, when all of a sudden I just seemed to collapse almost completely. This was about the hardest trial of my life, as I had always been in the habit of getting out doors, raising chickens, gathering fruit and doing lots of outdoor work. "I commenced first to be bothered with my stomach. Every little bit I ate would sour and form a sort of gas which caused me the most awful suffering. This gas would press against my heart and I would be so short of breath for hours that I could not walk. If I even tried to walk I would get so dizzy, weak and tremble that I would lose my balance.
