NELSON FINED $100 IN MILLARD RUM RAID CASE

Witnesses Testify That Nelson Had But Recently Brought the Liquor to His Room.

Maurinus Nelson of Millard was fined $100 and costs by County Judge Crawford yesterday afternoon after a hearing on the charge of being in unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor. This is the case in which Nelson and his friends were reported to have resisted search of the premises when the state officers arrived there.

Special Liquor Prosecutor Holland offered a number of witnesses yesterday to prove that Nelson had brought the liquor to his place recently. George Barrett said he heard "something heavy being dragged into Nelson's room a few days before the liquor was taken." Mrs. Nellie Andreesen, in whose house Nelson roomed, said she never noticed the case of whisky in his room until a few days before it was captured.

Special State Officer Smith had the "task" of tasting each of the 24 bottles in the case. He pronounced the contents of each to be whisky.

At the close of the prosecution's testimony the attorney for the defendant declined to offer any testimony but accepted a fine and took an appeal to the district court. Judge Crawford fixed bond at $225. The defendant will base his case on the proposition that the search was made unlawfully by the state agents.
