Wife No. 1 With Wife No. 2 Relentless Before Grand Jury Which Indicts Harris

Des Moines and Council Bluffs Women Who Were Duped by "Baby Blue Eyed" Harvey Harris Testify Against Him and He Must Continue On Kitchen Police Detail Until District Court Hears His Case.

Mrs. Clara B. Harris, Des Moines, wife No. 1 of Harvey Floyd Harris, accused at Council Bluffs of bigamy, is "through" with her husband. His "baby-blue eyes" have no more charm for her.

Chiefly upon her testimony an indictment was returned yesterday at Council Bluffs against the man and his bond was increased from $700 to $1,000, which he could not give.

The wife from Des Moines lodged complaint against Harris, following the publication of his marriage to Mrs. Isabella Young Benjamin, January 20 last. He will remain in jail here until his trial is concluded in district court.

The soulful eyes of the woman-chamber lost their luster Wednesday afternoon and became suffused with tears. From his quarters in the Pottawattamie county jail, Harris could see the north entrance to the court house, and from his work in the jail kitchen, he could cast furtive glances across the yard to the doorway of the sheriff's office.

There he glimpsed a thrilling vision.

Two of his last wives, Mrs. Clara B. Harris, the womanly matron of his cozy bungalow in Des Moines, and Mrs. "Babe" Young-Benjamin Harris, Council Bluffs bride, entered the court house together, and stood on the stone steps at the north door, chatting pleasantly just before they were to appear before the grand jury.

Harris pleaded with passionate earnestness for an opportunity to talk to his wives, but his request was denied by the officials. He was particularly anxious for another conference with the Des Moines Mrs. Harris before she went into the grand jury room, but she did not entertain the request.

Means Much to City.

The change means much to the city and surrounding community, officials of the auto show declare, in that thousands of automobiles that heretofore were shipped direct from factories to dealers and distributors in Nebraska and Iowa hereafter will be sent to Omaha to be turned distributed to out-of-town dealers affiliated with motor car concerns established in Omaha.

Omaha was chosen several years ago as a central distributing point for the Cadillac, Overland, Hudson, Oakland, Oldsmobile, Buick, Westcott, Allen, Lexington, Maxwell and Grant.

Will Increase Bank Clearings.

The choice of factory representatives in naming Omaha as a point of distribution in the automobile industry is heralded by the Chamber of Commerce as meaning bigger automobile establishments, increased bank clearings and the advent of more residents to the city.

Last night's augmented program of classic and popular music drew constant applause from the multitude of automobile spectators and eager listeners. Fully 10,000 persons crowded through the doors of the Auditorium. The Trinity Cathedral choir, conducted by Ben Stanton, kept the famed Auditorium in silence during the singing of secular selections. For awhile more interest centered upon the varied program of music than upon the glistening beauty of automobiles and the spels of automobile salesmen.

Society Night at Show.

Though officials of the show chose no special night for society patrons, last night appeared as the unannounced occasion of ball-room gowns and dress suits. Sedans served for lounging dens for many of the social set. Even the truck department shared in entertainment, for a three-piece orchestra played jazzy tunes that tickled the toes of many a listener.

Yesterday, exhibitors and local dealers did the largest day's business since the opening of the show. More than 100 cars were sold. It is estimated that 3,000 automobile dealers of Nebraska and Iowa attended the show and many renewed contracts for cars in lots. One local distributor sold 60 touring cars to an Iowa dealer.

Today being Army and Navy day, Clarke Powell, manager of the show, has issued an invitation to officers and enlisted men of Fort Omaha and Crook to attend the show.

He cordially invites every service man, whether in army, navy or marine uniform, to be our guests tonight," he said.

Tomorrow will be the last day of Omaha's grandest automobile show.

OMAHA TO BE CENTER OF TRADE IN AUTOS

Bruised Body of Woman Reported Victim of Flu Found in Shed on Farm

Josef Blazka, Who Stabbed Boy To Death Year Ago In Cherry County, Charged With Murder of His Wife, Who Recently Left Home To Obtain Divorce But Was Induced To Return by Her Children.

Ellsworth, Neb., March 13.—(Special Telegram.)—Word received here this morning as to the death of Mrs. Josef Blazka, who was reported by her husband to have died with influenza at the home place in Cherry county, 23 miles northeast of here, has upon investigation by neighbors been practically proven a foul murder with all indications pointing towards the husband as perpetrator.

The first intimation the neighbors had of the affair was when two of the Blazka boys called on Lawrence Bixby, a neighbor, and asked for assistance to bury their mother, who had, as they claimed, died of influenza.

Being suspicious, because of Blazka's unsavory reputation, Mr. Bixby called upon Lige Thayer and Fred Engle and together they went on their apparent mission of mercy.

Body in Calf Shed.

Upon arrival together at the Blazka place they were told that the body was in the calf shed but they were not permitted to see it. After some wily maneuvering they obtained access to the body and found that the chest of the woman bore heavy scratches and black bruises. At once they notified the sheriff, who arrived late this afternoon. Upon a more detailed investigation they found the body a mass of bruises from the hips to the neck and upon the breast was found two apparent knife wounds.

Upon sharp questioning by Sheriff O'Rourke, Blazka admitted he had whipped his wife with a harness tug with iron hook attached, but declared that he did not kill her.
