All are architects of Fate. Working in these walls of Time. Some with massive deeds and great. Some with ornaments of rhyme.—Langfellow.

Why, what should be the fear? I do not set my life at a pin's fee. And, for my soul, what can it do to that. Being a thing immortal as itself.—Shakespeare.

YOU CAN MAKE YOUR SHOE BILLS LESS

From Globe, Arizona, comes this recommendation of Neolin Soles. I. B. Medlyn sends it. He says: "I have never had my Neolin-soled shoes repaired as the soles always outwear the tops. The position I hold keeps me on my feet most of the time, and I can say that for comfort and wear Neolin is the only shoe sole."

When I'm Cranky

There are days when I feel everybody is wrong; I mean everybody but me. They're all in my way as I'm walking along. They're just where they oughtn't to be. What's worse, all my friends want to say "Howdy do!" I cannot be pleasant that day. You'd think that my manner would show them I'm blue. Or all out of sorts, anyway.

Heart Beats

Hurray! Said we of the Writing profesh When Richard Carle Appeared upon the Scene Without his actor Clothes. We looked And looked again And then we Shot those meaning Glances At various members of the staff For there went "Dick" Minus hat Minus coat Minus spats In shirt sleeves and With that "at home" Stride He Strode Into the inner Sanctum-sanctorium. Does Carle smoke? Asked one damsel In green waist, Whose big blue eyes Followed the pipe. He didn't in the "Spring Chicken," Said another. And he didn't in "Mary's Lamb" Said still another. Not in "Furs and Frills" Nor in "Tenderfoot." Beastly obesity Is taking a firm Hold on our Celebrated comedian. Ventured Brown-hair With-the-red-collar. But none of us Could figure out Why Richard Carle Should come Into a newspaper Office In this wholly Unprofessional Manner And march straight Into the "Inner Shrine" Without being Announced anything. We wasted a few Minutes in Speculation But before we had Decided whether We liked Carle best. Fat or thin Out walked the Man subject Of our debate And he grinned And drawled "Go'mornin'!" And we looked again, Behind a brand new Pair of Horn-rimmed spectacles We found Doane Powell, Our artist-writer Of Bug Page fame. SELAH!

For Kiddies' Hair Quinegg Shampoo

If you want your girl or boy to have a thick, luxuriant growth of hair that will last, and to keep their scalps free from dandruff, do not shampoo their heads with soap, but use QUINEGG SHAMPOO. Teach the youngsters to be as watchful of their hair as of their teeth. Quinegg Shampoo costs but a trifle and keeps the hair soft, fluffy, vigorous and healthy. Try it yourself at our risk. The druggist will gladly refund your money if it fails to please you. Shampoo your own head. Keep your scalp cleaner and your hair more beautiful with a fraction of the money you spend at the barber shop or hair dresser's. Large bottle only 50c, everywhere Voeuburg—Chicago If your druggist does not have Quinegg Shampoo, you will find it on sale and recommended by Sherman & McConnell Drug Store, Beaton Drug Co., Merritt Drug Co.—Adv.

Beatrice Fairfax's Lovelorn Advice

Letter Problems.

Miss Beatrice Fairfax: I am coming to you for advice. I am 16 and am in the 11th grade. How long should I wear my dresses? I am light complexioned, have blue eyes and dark brown hair. I have a round face and am small for my age. How should I wear my hair? I have a boy friend who lives in another town and he has been writing nice friendly letters to me until about two weeks ago I heard from him and I answered his letter, but he hasn't written since. Now Miss Fairfax do you think he is mad or doesn't he care to write to me? Is it wrong to accept a present from a boy and is it wrong to wear a boy's ring? Hoping to see this in Wednesday's paper. Thanking you a thousand times. I am, MARY ANN.

Wait another two weeks. There is no reason why he should reply by return mail if your letters are just friendly. He is probably busy. It is bad practice to wear a boy's ring.

Freckles and Rings.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am writing to you to ask your advice. I am 15 years of age, light complexioned, light hair and light blue eyes. How should I wear my hair? Is it proper to have an engagement ring? Is it proper to wear high heeled shoes? I am in the 11th grade. Can you give me a name of a lotion to remove freckles. MATHILDA S. I cannot tell you how to wear your hair. It is proper to have an engagement ring if you are engaged, but you are too young for that. High heels are all right for dress occasions, but the low heel will keep your feet in better shape. High heels are very apt to spoil the arch for a girl of 15. There are several good lotions for removing freckles, but I cannot give you the names through this column. Ask your druggist or someone in the beauty parlor.

Difference in Age.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am 26 years old, and am engaged to a man 26 years old. Do you think 11 years too great a difference in marriage? LOVEVE.

Magazines for Children.

My Dear Miss Fairfax: Can you tell me of a child's magazine that buys stories? GUNEVRE.

P. S.—Please answer in The Bee some time this week. Youth's Companion, American Boy, Girls' Companion, Boys' Companion, St. Nicholas, Every Child's Magazine, Omaha, Neb.

Daily We Discuss Our Affairs and Bring the Sad and Gay Together for Sifting, Assorting and Untangling.

No joke about it for to me it is a very serious business and I really need your help. Hoping that you will come to my rescue, I am sincerely, TROUBLED.

Your letter is far too long and would never have found its way into print except that it is unusual. I think you are one of the best little "scouts" I know of to handle such a vital matter in the way you describe. I should like to know you. Simply tell these "prospects" that you do not love them—surely that is sufficient reason for not marrying them. However, if you do love one, why not marry him. This will be the easiest way in the world to forget the first love. Remember this, dear child, love is like ether—the influence is strong while it lasts, but one recovers completely with a little fresh air and diversion. He (and his memory) will fade into the distance—it only takes a little time and another—well, let's say, someone to care for you.

Afraid.

Dear Miss Fairfax: You certainly have some responsibility in answering these young and foolish boys and girls. I am interested in "Afraid," whose letter appeared in last night's paper, and if she will indicate through your column that she would in confidence make her identity known, I, the mother of a daughter, would be glad to talk with her and be a friend in any way possible. Surely it should be pointed out to her that she is dealing with a scoundrel. A man who will threaten a woman—and particularly to expose love letters, is a coward, as anybody but a young and foolish girl knows. Kindly publish this soon that it may come to the eye of "Afraid." M. L.

In Doubt—Certainly I should not continue to go places with a man I no longer cared for. Not even if for four years you had no other friends. It is very unreasonable to be angry if you merely talk to another. I should certainly not consider that.

Betty C.—You do not give your age, therefore, I cannot advise. I see no harm in the young girl's question calling occasionally, or taking you to the movies, unless your parents object for some specific reason.

Troubled—You are funny, foolish, joke—that is all. Perhaps it was a joke only in your eyes to run away from two boys who were taking you home. I should say that you do not know what love means yet. It is much easier to keep people's friendship than to regain it just remember that when you look at your list of "eight lost friendships." Better explain to the whole eight and start a "new record."

Helen Hale—Your letter exceeds 200 words, therefore I cannot print it. I am sure that you are innocent so far as any wrong thought is concerned, but in this world we must consider others, their opinions and the world-regulated customs unless we wish to become a target for criticism. I judge this is not your aim. It was indiscreet—your kissing this young man, even though you had known him since childhood—not wicked. Display of affection never interests the public and I advise you to keep your kisses for your husband.

Peggy and Dolly—I certainly could not advise you to marry those little boys—17 and 18. There is no particular harm in holding hands while walking but what is the good? Yes, there is a reason why you should not kiss all the boys. The preservation of your self-respect. There is a letter on my desk now from a young man who will not consider girls whom he classes "out of the question" as he does not wish to be one of the "57," referring, I suppose to Heinz "57" varieties. Gentlemen take the outside of the walk. How many times should you kiss a fellow in one evening? Oh, aren't you silly! Yes, you should see your callers to the door in a graceful, sweet manner, but not affectionately. One way increases popularity and the other kills it.
