

SAM CHEPELWITZ ROBBER VICTIM IN OWN HOUSE

North Eighteenth Street Man, Bound, Gagged, After Which Three Men Carry Off His Property.

Sam Chepelwitz, proprietor of a furniture store at 1136 North Eighteenth street, yesterday was bound and gagged by three robbers in his bedroom and then rendered unconscious by a scintillating anaesthetic which the men poured on a handkerchief and held to his nose, according to the story he told police.

Unconscious One Hour.

Chepelwitz thinks he was unconscious for about an hour. After regaining his senses, he writhed free from cloth thongs with which the robbers had bound his hands. He said he writhed about three hours before he freed himself.

The robbers, he said, struck him several times because he failed to open his mouth quick enough so they could insert a gag.

A .38 caliber revolver was found by Chepelwitz on the floor of his room.

He told police it belonged to the three robbers. So far no arrests in the case have been made.

Omaha to Have School to Train Auto, Truck and Tractor Drivers

A training school for auto, truck and tractor drivers is proposed for Omaha by J. M. Gillan, industrial secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Plans for the training school will be developed as soon as possible.

"There is a great demand for these drivers and a school of this sort has been successfully operated in Kansas City," said Mr. Gillan.

"The saving of damage to machinery done by inexperienced drivers alone would make the school worth while.

"Our plan, which is to center especially on teaching all about tractors, is to arrange short courses of a week or 10 days that boys from the country can come in and take advantage of," he said.

Army training has given a great stimulus to the desire of young men to be connected with motor transportation.
