Money Is Missing After Agent's Visit, Is the Charge Made

For the third time within a month householders whose places have been searched by state liquor agents have reported to the police that money and jewelry was missing after the search.

The third complaint was made to police, Thursday by T. Tamassello, 2013 Pierce street, whose residence was entered by State Agents Buel, Flanagan and Bunker while the family was away.

Tamassello said a purse containing $100 which was hidden in a bed was missing when the family returned. He found a copy of a search warrant lying on a table.

Attorneys for Tamassello said yesterday a complaint charging burglary and larceny would be made to the county attorney. Police have taken no action in the Tamassello case.

The first charge made against state officers was on February 26, when Mrs. Kate Champenoy, 1208 South Tenth street, reported that her rooming house was searched and $102 in bills taken from a hiding place behind a mantle.

The house, according to Mrs. Covington, was broken into and the furnishings turned upside down. The men left without securing the doors of the place. A warrant without an address, and describing merely a "story and one-half house in Douglas county," and without street number or lot and block numbers was left on the kitchen table.

The three state agents mentioned in the complaints denied any knowledge of the disappearance of the articles alleged to be missing after the various searches, and declare they do not believe any valuables were lost.

George H. Harries in Paris to Report to War Council

Paris, March 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Brigadier General George H. Harries, commander of the American military force at Berlin, has been here for several days to appear before the supreme war council to render a report on the military and economic situation at the German capital and throughout Germany.

During the more recent disorders in Berlin, the electric lights have been extinguished, street cars stopped, telephone and telegraph wires cut, newspaper presses left idle and stores closed, yet the public, according to General Harries, shows little evidence of panic.

Thousands of Russian prisoners, General Harries says, are clamoring to return home, but this would present a serious problem, as it would mean the sending of 60,000 Russians into the hands of the bolsheviks.

The American forces in Germany outside of the occupied zone, consist of 80 officers and 600 men, a considerable part of the contingent being stationed at 20 camps at various places in Germany, where 600,000 Russian prisoners are being cared for by the Americans.

Veteran Traveling Man Dies Following Fall in His House

George W. Tracy, one of Omaha's pioneer traveling salesmen, died at his residence, 3115 Leavenworth street, Thursday evening, following a brief illness.

Mr. Tracy was one of the first salesmen employed by M. E. Smith & Co. of this city, entering their employ nearly 40 years ago, and remaining with them ever since. He was intimately acquainted with hundreds of retail merchants in this territory, and was active in the business almost until the time of his death, although he had not traveled for many years.

Three weeks ago he missed his footing and fell part way down stairs in his residence. No bones were broken but the shock put him in bed, and he never arose. Death was due primarily to advanced age.

Mr. Tracy was a veteran of the civil war, enlisting when but a young lad. He was born in Hinsdale, Mass., but spent most of his life in the great west which he loved.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. H. B. Allen of Janesville, Wis., and his widow. Funeral services will be held at the home, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and interment will take place at his former home, Janesville, Wis.

A written report on the incident has been made by a lieutenant of detectives. In closing his report, which includes the translated version of Johnson's statement as published here today, the detective says:

MAYOR ASKS MEN BE GIVEN TICKETS INSTEAD OF CASH

Thinks Uncle Sam Should Help the Boys Back to Their Home Towns.

Mayor Smith believes that the federal government would be doing a better service by furnishing discharged soldiers with transportation to their homes, instead of giving them the money.

"The result in many instances is that these men dispose of their money in cities other than their places of residence and thus they add to the difficulties of replacing the returned men," the mayor said.

"If a soldier left civil life in Wahoo, for instance, he should return to civil life in Wahoo," he added. The mayor's comments were in connection with a letter from Secretary Woods, assistant to the Secretary of war, asking what Omaha is doing in caring for returned soldiers.

The mayor replied that Omaha will take care of the men who left civil positions to take up arms. He outlined in detail the co-operation of a bureau in the Chamber of Commerce and of other efforts to meet the situation.

In connection with those who were in the service of the municipal government, the mayor said he did not know of a case thus far of a man who has returned and who has not been given his old position if he wanted it.

Before Throne Tattered.

It happened in the German capital. Two German socialists were standing talking on the street, and one becoming excited exclaimed: "I tell you what, that idiot of an emperor—" His discourse was cut short. Turning quickly he was confronted by a German policeman, who informed him that he was under arrest. "What for?" asked the captive, beginning to tremble. "For uttering treason against your emperor." "Oh, but you didn't let me finish. I was going to say 'that idiot of an emperor of Japan.'"
