Shelton Farmer Pins Swede Champion Twice and Proves He Is One of World's Greatest Wrestlers.

The pride of Shelton, Nebraska, John Pesek proved that he is to e rated among the foremost wrestlers in the world by his decisive defeat of the Swedish champion, John Freberg of Chicago in two straight talls at the Omaha auditorium last night. Pesek won the first fall in one hour, twenty-three minutes and seventeen seconds with, a toe hold, forcing the Swede to concede the fall. The farmer boy had Freberg's leg across his thigh and Freberg had to concede to suffer a severe injury to the limb. The second fall was quick, considering the time consumed for the first one, it being after 10 minutes and 30 seconds of hard wrestling. For the second fall, Pesek used a head scissors and a half nelson.

The first fall was bitterly fought and up to the time that Pesek secured his toe hold it was in doubt. The men had wrestled on fairly even terms up to that time, both men proving fast on their feet and adept breaking an opponent's grips. Freberg tried to escape the gruelling grip but found his efforts were useless and signaled referee Sandy Griswold he would give in. Sandy patted the Shelton farmer on the back and the house went wild, upward of 2,500 spectators cheering till it was feared the plastering would

Savage Challenges Winner.

The men took a 20-minute rest in their dressing rooms and returned to the ring. It was announced that Sandy Griswold had been taken sud-denly ill and would be unable to finish the match and Bert LeBron was introduced as the referee to finish the match. A telegram was read, from Steve Savage, challenging the winner, within three weeks, with the toe hold barred and for a side wager of $500. He stated in his wire that if Omaha did not want the match, the Collseum club of Chicago would stage it Pesek and Freberg shook hand for the second session and went right after one another. Pesek was the first one to get behind, but he missed a grip and Freberg turned and was on top. The local idol scrambled loose and they fought around the ring, each trying for a hold and went to the mat with the farmer behind. He missed a chance for another toe hold and the Chicago Swede again turned and came up behind. At nine minutes, Freberg tried a wrist lock and Pesek spun on his head turning around facing his op-ponent and hopped astride of his head clamping his knees down hard. the mat. Referee LeBron patted Pesek's back and the match was over with the Shelton farmer boy winner by two straight falls, thus proving to the world that he is one of the world's greatest heavyweight wrestlers.

Zerson and Stangl Open.

The show opened with a short match between Ben Zerson of York, Neb., and Joe Stangl of Omaha. These two young heavies appeared fairly evenly matched and the quick finish was a surprise to the spectator. Stang! squirmed out of a dangerous looking head scissors and secured a crotch hold with a half Nelson and pinned Zerson's shoulders to the mat. Some of the spectators were dissatisfied with the fall and cried "rotten," but it was a fair fall and Zerson was pinned. When Clarence Ecklund, lightheavyweight champion and George Sauers of Cheney, Neb., were introsecond bout and was roundly hissed by spectators, but apparently paid no attention to it. Ecklund and Theatrical Magnate Sauer proved fast wrestlers, first one and then the other squirming out of dangerous holds. Ecklund finally got Sauers in a dangerous position and would probably have downed his man in the end, but Referee Ryan acted a little too hastily and before the Cheney man was fairly pinned, patted, the light-heavyweight champion, on the back, declaring him the winner in 18 minutes and 34 seconds. Catcalls and hisses came from the crowd in great volumes when the fall was declared. It was a good house, there being between 2,500 and 3,000 persons present, 200 of whom were Shelton resi-

Around Christmas time the department stores will flash signs like this: CARRY FLIVVERS AND OTHER SMALL PACKAGES HOME. If you intend to purchase one of the latest vest pocket size cars, buy a nice beaded one that the wiff can carry for a hand bag. It has been a Detroit boast that all Ford cars outlast their owners. Sure thing. Just like a lemon squeezer outlasts a lemon.
