

WIFE REPENTS WHEN DIVORCE SUIT IS FILED

Pretty Mrs. C. E. Brewer Says Lawyer Put Untrue Statements in Petition; Forgive Husband.

A week after she filed a suit for divorce in district court Mrs. Charlotte Eulalie Brewer has withdrawn it and "made up" with her husband. Mrs. Brewer, a strikingly beautiful young woman, dressed in the latest mode, says that Attorney Mike Harrington wrote out the petition and made allegations which were totally untrue.

"I don't want a divorce now, anyway," said Mrs. Brewer, toying with a jeweled vanity case. "The minute my husband saw that article in The Bee he took the first train for Omaha and came to see me. I live at the Sanford hotel with my mother. And when I saw what the petition stated I was amazed, and so Steve and I fixed it up and I ordered the divorce petition withdrawn."

Petition Charged Cruelty.

The petition as prepared by the attorney and filed 10 days ago in district court stated that the defendant had "assaulted, struck and beaten the plaintiff," that "when she was seriously ill he abandoned her and left her alone and refused to provide a doctor for her," and that "he never bought any clothing for her nor furnished her money for any purpose."

"I just was a little bit provoked I imagine when I went and asked the attorney to file suit," she said. "I told him just to make the grounds nonsupport and nothing further because Steve would never dream of treating me in any such way as the petition said. The attorney told me I didn't need to read the petition over but just to sign it. I should have read it and then it never would have been filed."

Husband Is Merchant.

Mrs. Brewer is a daughter of Edward Edwards and was born and brought up in Omaha. She was educated in private schools.

She was married November 25, 1916, in Omaha. She and her husband went to Gordon, Neb., where he owns a clothing store. His mother lived with them there.

He went into the navy last summer and was discharged in February of this year. Mrs. Brewer came back to Omaha in June, 1918, and has been living with her mother at the Sanford hotel. She is employed as private secretary in a wholesale lumber firm here.

"I really can't say whether we will live together again," she said with a smile. "That is all dependent upon developments. I do like the city and would much prefer to live here rather than in the small town."

Krug Park to Have Largest Swimming Pool in Country

Omahans need no longer go out of the city to take a good plunge and swim, as the management of New Krug Park is constructing the largest swimming pool in the world for citizens to enjoy during the hot summer months.

The pool will cover more than an acre of ground, accommodate 5,000 bathers at a time and have an ocean sand beach some three feet deep and 40 odd feet wide encircling the entire pool.

The water in the pool is entirely changed every two hours. It is filtered, aerated, sterilized and ozonated by an entirely new process of water purification making it absolutely pure at all times—even fit to drink; the water taken into the pool is ozonated under high pressure, killing all germ life and germ matter. The water is distributed into the pool at equal distances of 50 feet, leaving no dead pockets as it is in constant circulation over entire area. A pin in this pool of water can be seen at the greatest depth, while it is next to impossible to locate a silver dollar at the same depth in the water one drinks.

The bath house, some 400 feet long, having about 100 showers and accommodations for some 5,000 bathers at a time, is approached by long winding walks from the main entrance. This building contains all the laundry equipment, which is the newest and most up-to-date procurable. A 100-horse power boiler working under 100 pound pressure provides the live steam for the laundry machinery as well as a means of heating the water for the showers and providing hot air for the hair dryers which will be installed for the convenience of the ladies.

Omaha's new bathing pool requires upwards of 1,000,000 gallons of water to fill and the special wave making machines installed at two different places produce a most natural ocean wave.

Special rooms may be secured by the season, consisting of lockers, dressing room and showers for the convenience of those who desire special accommodations.

enormous mixing towers where ozone is forced into the water at a high pressure.

The pool is constructed of concrete with white surfacing and is unsurpassed any place in the world. A beautiful rock work cascade over 12 feet high, located at the north end, besides being a work of art, further aerates much of the water taken into the pool.

The water taken into the pool is first screened and filtered through three of the largest type filters made. From the filters it passes into an ozonating system of high voltage from which it passes into

South Side CONTRABAND LIQUOR STILL IN EVIDENCE

Police Gather in Bootleggers, Who Are Well Stocked Up, But Number Does Not Grow Less.

The amount of contraband liquor on the South Side has not been perceptibly diminished by the frequent raids made upon it by police officials. It is estimated by police authorities that at least 500 pints of liquor have been confiscated during the past two weeks.

But the bootleggers seem to be in possession of an inexhaustible supply.

Three negroes, each wearing overall jumpers, the inside lined with pockets for 24 pint bottles of liquor, were each arrested by Detectives Turner and Lepinski at Twenty-fourth and N streets. The pockets contained 72 pints of liquor. The three men gave their names as Andrew Latt, 2208 Webster street; Walter Scott, 2506 Michigan avenue and Fred Porter, Sixth and Webster streets.

The men were arrested as they stepped off a Benson car.

It is believed that the liquor had been furnished by men in Omaha and was being transported to the South Side at their request.

Employment Agency Has Garden Seeds in Stock

A large quantity of garden seed of all kinds has been received by the South Side Federal Employment Agency from former Congressman Lobock. The seeds can be obtained free of charge by residents of the South Side by calling at the agency, located in the city hall, Twenty-fourth and O streets.

At least 25 laborers are needed for packing house, construction and sewer work according to E. J. Doran of the South Side agency. Clerical positions are also open. Discharged soldiers are urged to register, as many calls for help are being made at the South Side agency.

DRESS UP WEEK TO BE OBSERVED BY OMAHA FOLKS

Special Menus at Hotels With Dinner Dances and Bands Inducement for All to Dress Up.

Governor McKelvie has indorsed "dress-up week," which has been announced for March 31 to April 5, under the auspices of Associated Retailers of Omaha.

Features of the occasion will be lavishly decorated show windows, special menus at the tables, after-dinner dances, bands playing in the streets and other appropriate diversions and observances.

The Omaha Retail Merchants' association will co-operate. Merchants will add an educational feature by demonstrating and explaining the new modes and ideas for all classes of people. The philosophy of the occasion is explained by the promoters, who state that many have sacrificed during the period of the war, even to the extent of denying themselves their usual quota of new garments. With the advent of spring, and peace on earth being realized, it is deemed a fitting time to dress up without indulging in extravagance.

Gov. McKelvie wrote the following letter to Charles Black of the Associated Retailers:

"I feel very highly complimented in being asked to lend my co-operation and support, and the co-operation and support of the people of Nebraska, to the splendid 'dress up week' campaign now being launched. I am confident that progressive Nebraska business men, with the best grace in the world, will set out to make this the biggest educational movement that has ever been staged in the middle-west."

Our "What Is Love?" Contest

AWARDS SUNDAY, MARCH 23.

So many good answers have been submitted in this contest that we will continue to print them from day to day as space permits and announce awards at the conclusion, next Sunday.

No. 552.

Love is a feeling of a lover from his heart to the heart of his sweetheart. Love is also kindness from one to another and often leads to a kind and loving marriage and life.

No. 560.

Love passeth all understanding, but where are you going to find it?

No. 315.

Love! What is it? It is the deepest emotion of the human race. It has the power of making one happy or sad; it can be very sweet or as bitter as gall. It may be the cause of all the kindness and tenderness in the world, and again it may be the cause of all the cruelty and pain.

This quotation expresses it exactly: "Love comes and goes, like the sunshine. Love, dear, may rise but to fall," by Charles Pevin. Love is constantly changing, and most people love many times, but a few do remain true and have but one love in their life; even then their love is not the same all the time, for it dies down and springs up again like a fire.

However, this is rarely the case, for every one has loved, but not always the same thing or the same way. Love then is the deepest emotion of the human being.

No. 328.

Love is the controlling force of life and the greatest emotion in the world. Through divine love God created the universe and all that is therein. His first commandment is to love Him and His second to love each other.

The force of love flows from our hearts through all the channels of our body in a continual stream of ecstasy and bliss, bringing to each of our senses complete physical satisfaction and to our souls, perfect spiritual accord and rapture.

The emotion of love harmonizes all the lesser feelings of life. When the smile of trust freezes on our lips, when the jewel of faith melts into nothingness in our hearts, when the blindness of hate hides the stars from our eyes, when the hand of unbelief in humanity and ourselves, presses in sorrow on our brow; then love brings laughter to our lips, bliss to our hearts, the light of hope and happiness to our eyes and sympathetic understanding to our fellow men.

In every thought, wish, act and movement of our daily lives we are seeking this force and emotion called love. For love is the "home sweet home" of both body and soul.

No. 332.

What is pleasure but delusive dream. What is wealth but a momentary bubble, I will open a brighter volume of human life. Dost thou see yonder star how gloriously it shines in the morning robe of heaven? Everybody loves that star; the astronomer spend whole nights looking at it; sailors love it as children love their mothers; sweet maidens speak of it at their home and to loved ones. That star is love. Love rules the world. Love is to regard with affection and fondness at heart and keeps the heart young. Love is peace of mind and contentment. Without love life would not be worth living. Love is a gift from God. Love is universal. It gives highest thoughts.

No. 360.

Love is like a Ford engine. It has its clutches, reverses and breaks (brakes). It is accelerated by gas, ignited by sparking which usually results in an explosion and finishes with an exhaust of the pocketbook. It dies down when the spark is retarded. Sometimes the "cutout" is used.

No. 448.

Love is the first and strongest act of nature. It is the greatest act of life and the most irresistible. It is a massive pleasure two people offer to each other in acknowledgment of total dependence upon each other. Love is that which dawns; one cannot start or stop it. True love between man and wife is divine.

Passionate devotion of a mother to a sick or dying child is the most beautiful spectacle that human life affords. Contemning every danger, triumphing over every difficulty, outlasting all fatigue, woman's love is here invincibly superior to anything.

No. 344.

Love—The heaven of life.

Love—The home's guardian angel.

Love—The fuel that keeps the homes fires burning.

Love—The heart's refuge and joy.

Love—The soul's sanctuary.

Love—Death's pilot and support.

Love—The link binding humanity to God.

Love—Divinity made manifest.

Love—The undying, eternal "all" of life here and hereafter.

No. 452.

Juliet says: "My heart is as boundless as the sea—my love as deep. The more I give to thee the more I have, for both for infinite."

That is a sufficiently comprehensive definition of love. Love is one thing that reverses the laws of mathematics: Subtraction is equivalent to addition.

Love is an infinite capacity for service and suffering, but as it manifests an increased service its suffering grows less.

Love never seeks its own aggrandizement. It never asks: How can you serve me? but always: What would you have me do, my beloved? It is modest and unassuming. It seeks nothing for itself. It gives all. It is the most absent where it is more professed.

Love is the foundation of all things.

No form of restraint, other than that which it placed upon itself, ever held love within bounds. Its own bonds intensify and make it substantial, but it becomes as vapor when there is placed upon it restraining chains.

Love seeks nothing that cannot be shared by all. Its small manifestation for private ends is only a varicoid form of disease, for which marriage is a potent cure.

Love is the eternal paradox. It pervades everything, else would the universe vanish, yet it is the rarest thing in the world.

A New Car That Men Have Long Wanted

Thousands Ride In It—Will You?

Note what all are saying about the Essex.

In hundreds of cities it has awakened a greater motor car interest than anyone has seen in years.

More than a hundred thousand have ridden in the Essex. Ten times as many have seen it.

The qualities in the Essex which appeal most are those very qualities that are most attractive in the light, cheap car and those of the large, costly one. They are comfort, riding ease, endurance, and elegance at a moderate cost for purchase and operation.

Every Essex Sales Room Now Holds Motordom's Interest

People instantly admire Essex beauty. They speak of the detail and care with which it is finished. They note its lines and talk of features that have been exclusive to costly cars. They are enthusiastic over its riding qualities as shown over rough roads and worn-out pavements. The Essex does not pitch its passengers about. It remains rigid and firm and free from rattles and squeaks no matter how rough the service. There is no need to drive miles out of the way to avoid a rough stretch of road. It goes over the worst roads like a big, costly car.

The Essex is demonstrated on the same steep hills that are used to prove climbing ability by high-powered and costly cars. Speed is shown over the same course that fast cars are demonstrated. Its acceleration is compared to the few cars noted for such performance.

Buyers Being Placed On Waiting List

Dealers have already booked orders for more cars than they are scheduled to receive before midsummer.

It is doubtful if anyone will be able to get an Essex as promptly as he may want it. But by ordering now the delay won't be quite so long.
