Advice to the Lovelorn

Love Comes Unbidden and, "To Love or Not We Are No More Free Than the Ripple to Rise and Leave the Sea."

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Thanks for the Tip. Dear Miss Fairfax: I wonder if you will be kind enough to change for a little information. For several weeks past it has been one of the diversions of a set of Omaha High school pupils to send you various communications describing certain of their number plainly and then making a play on their peculiarities (real or fancied), and ask you all sorts of silly questions.

Many and almost all of the high school set are reading your answers daily. Very truly, "HONEST".

A Simple Kiddie Frock

Dear Miss Fairfax: I read your "Advice to the Lovelorn" every day and think it is excellent. You must be well versed in love affairs to be able to answer all these love questions.

Very Young.

Dear Miss Fairfax: I read your "Advice to the Lovelorn" every day and think it is excellent. You must be well versed in love affairs to be able to answer all these love questions.

I am 15 years old and in second year high, how tall should a girl my age be? I have a few gray hairs in my head, what do you suppose causes them? What can I do to get rid of them? I do not worry in the least. Should a girl my age go out evening with a gentleman friend: if so, how often?

Hoping I will find this in the Evening Bee soon. I remain, MRS. JIGGS DAUGHTER, ROSIE.

Suppose you just wait until he returns. You are very young to be serious about boy friends. You are doing nicely in your studies I do not know how tall you should be. Gray hair is beautiful, but if you wish to keep it dark, there are several dyes. An escort is not objectionable if he is the right kind, but surely I would not consider any young man a sweetheart, if I were you.

To Bachelor Farmer. Dear Miss Fairfax: Have read with interest the answers to "Bachelor Farmer's" letter, but have noted no comments or ideas on his problem. Can a happy and peaceful home be maintained where the two persons have only admiration and respect for each other and no love.

Isn't that what you meant, "Bachelor Farmer"? You are wondering if it would be safe to love the one girl who most nearly approaches your ideal, and "take a chance"?

Since no one with experience has given his or their results, I, an inexperienced one, will venture my opinion.

And that opinion is—it would never, never be successful. For isn't love the foundation of "home"? That's what you wanted, Bachelor Farmer, a "home," but would it last long without the foundation? And would it be a real home at all? Not the kind we all look forward to, at least, where perfect congeniality reigns because love is there.

Believe every normal man and girl have stored away somewhere (although sometimes loathe to admit it even to themselves) a vision of their ideal and we constantly seek the realization of that vision. But I sometimes ask myself this question: Have I set my standards too high, forgetting perchance my own shortcomings? Don't are we all, unfortunately, too often blind to our own defects while we readily notice and prejudice them in another?

But I believe that Bachelor Farmer, that as yet, fate has not smiled upon you (in regard to the girl), for if you have met the really, truly, person you would have no doubts for Miss Fairfax to solve. (Isn't that true Miss Fairfax?) So wait a little longer. That girl is also waiting for you. Then all good stories end. You'll live happy ever after. Very sincerely, "HAPPY GIRL." A few uninteresting letters have been received in reply to our friend's inquiry, but most people seem reticent about expressing an opinion on marriage without love.

She Wants to Finish School. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I have to write not only for advice, but to tell about myself. Now, Miss Fairfax, I know that what I'll say is almost unbelievable, but, "honest, I'm telling the truth. My letter is quite long, but it ought to be printed, for it's not one of those silly letters that you have had to take patience with, but it's a letter over which the reader should have pity. I am a child, 13 years old, have stopped school already, and not even finishing the seventh grade. I can cook, sew, knit, tat, crochet, and I have a very good voice. It seems terrible that I had to stop school, and I lost what I loved the very best on earth. And, Miss Fairfax, I bet you wouldn't believe I am a housekeeper already. Yes, I cook and keep house for my brother. I would have gone to school had it been possible. I am of a family of 10, and you may imagine what a lot school in this fashion and they have the added advantage of the refining influence of educated people. If any matron in Omaha is interested in you I sincerely hope they will write to me.

An Address. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Please forward enclosed letter to party who signed self as "Friend and Lover of Innocent Children." Thanking you, in advance, I remain, yours truly, HOPFUL.

I do not know the address of the one who signs "Friend and Lover of Innocent Children." Wish I did, but I wear my dress quite short as yet, for they're just below my knees. I used to comb my hair in a braid or curl down my back, but I wear my hair up now. Am I too young for this? I will soon be 14. I don't correspond or keep company with boys. No! Never! Is it sinful to powder and paint? I don't paint, but I use cold cream and powder once in a while. Folks say I'm good looking, but I don't want to "show off" with myself. This is all, with hope to see my letter in print. BLUE EYES.

Surely it is a shame that you should have to quit school so early. Lack of education will be a great handicap when you are grown. Could your mother spare you in case some good father in Omaha should offer you a home and schooling in return for your help after school? There are girls working their way through are his friend. However, it seems to me that he should speak to you for that is rather inexcusable.

Blacky and Snip—If your parents do no like these boys far be it from me to tell you are right in going any way. I don't believe you're really in love with them now, and better not. Suppose you learn the reason why they aren't welcome at your home.
