

'RAINBOW' READY AND AWAITING ORDER TO MOVE

Forty-Second Division About to Leave Germany; Huns Manifesting Hostile Spirit to U. S. Army.

By Associated Press.

Coblentz, April 4.—The 42nd (Rainbow) division is all packed up and awaiting the final order, "all aboard for home." The first troop train from this division is scheduled to leave Ahrweiler Sunday morning. The personnel on this train will consist of the division headquarters staff and several smaller units.

Two trains will leave Sunday afternoon and four daily thereafter for six days. The transportation officers figure on average time schedule from the Rhine to Brest of 60 hours. Official cognizance has been taken by the third army of the increased spirit of enmity shown by civilians against Americans in the occupied area. Thursday's intelligence summary says of this condition:

"There is considerable feeling against our strict enforcement of the civilian circulation regulation. Inhabitants Unfriendly."

"This is especially so with reference to the circulation on the left bank of the Rhine between the several occupied territories."

Regarding bolshevism and the opinions of civilians in the occupied area, the summary says:

"The general idea is that bolshevism will die of its own accord, and satisfaction is expressed that it cannot make much headway in the American zone. While recognizing that the inhabitants owe the quiet in the region to the American troops it is evident that the population has no really friendly spirit for our soldiers."

Rainbow Assigned to Convoy.

Washington, April 4.—Assignment of the complete 42d (Rainbow) division to early convoy home was announced today by the War Department. There is serious doubt whether the Rainbow division can be paraded as a division in Washington or elsewhere, Secretary Baker said today, because of the difficulty of landing all units at or near the same time.

Beer Test Suit Begun.

New York, April 4.—The James Everard's brewery, sued by a minority stockholder in an injunction suit brought to test the constitutionality of the wartime prohibition act, and the validity of government rulings that beer of one-half of 1 percent or more alcoholic content is intoxicating, filed an answer in the federal court today, asking for a judicial determination of intoxicants.

GERMANS LOST HOPE AFTER THE DEFEAT, AUG. 8

replying to the note in a dignified tone with due regard to the empire's interests. An abandonment of the U-boat war could not be considered. Admiral Scheer, former chief of the German admiralty staff, spoke in the same sense. This conception also continued to be held for some days in the war cabinet. Dr. Solf (former foreign minister) however, requested Count Wolff Metternich and others to create a more yielding atmosphere. Success fell to Solf. The U-boat war ceased and the path to capitulation was trodden. Von Hindenburg immediately protested against this and proposed an appeal to the nation.

Government Lost Heart.

"It was clear from President Wilson's third answer that our opponents wanted to destroy us. Von Hindenburg and myself had no doubt that if we must fight we could still continue the war for some months."

"The utmost exertion of strength might, perhaps, have had a sobering effect on enemy peoples and brought us a bearable peace. On October 25, Von Hindenburg and I submitted this idea to the Kaiser and later to Vice Chancellor Von Payer. We gained the impression that the imperial government no longer was willing to fight, but was ready to accept the hardest conditions."

"On the 26th, I wrote my resignation, but at Von Hindenburg's request I did not dispatch it. I immediately afterwards learned that the supreme command had been violently attacked in the reichstag on account of its order relative to the third Wilson note. This order had been rejected by me with the injunction 'let the matter become clear.' Only as the result of clumsiness did the order get placed before Von Hindenburg and then it went out without my knowledge."

ance, and could not remember who paid him the money or what for. "You realize, Mr. Witt, that your explanation is entirely unsatisfactory," Chief Counsel Byers asked. "I know that," replied Witt, "but I can't recollect where I got the money."

Thorson was called and testified that he had been employed as a state secret service agent during 1918 at a salary of $125 per month and expenses on work for the governor. He said that he had paid Witt a total of $965 for aiding him in promoting wrestling matches, held during the spring and early summer, and had paid him $750 of this sum in installments of $250 and $500 dated September 15 and October 6, respectively. The money was for publicity assistance, he said, and was paid in currency.

Witness said that he could not account in any way for two checks of $250 which he deposited, and did not remember for what he had received the money.

In his last appearance on the stand, Attorney General Haver told the committee that neither he nor anyone else had found any evidence at any time that Governor Harding had received one penny in the pardon matter.

This admission came after the attorney general had been on the stand for several hours.

He said, as to the Ruthbin affidavit, that he had gotten it to protect himself as chief law officer of the state.

Lt. John Beveridge Returns After Year's Army Service

Lieut. John V. Beveridge and Mrs. Beveridge returned last evening from Camp Lewis, Wash., where Lieutenant Beveridge has been in the national army service. Lieutenant Beveridge was assigned as second lieutenant to the 347th Machine Gun battalion of the 91st or "Wild West" division, which saw such severe service on the French war fronts, but when the 13th division was being organized, he received a promotion to first lieutenant, and was assigned to the 39th Machine Gun battalion in that outfit, which was on the point of departure for France when the armistice was signed.

The young officer's brother, Bode Beveridge, who is in the 123d Field Artillery, went through all the heavy fighting and escaped unscathed. The machine gun battalion of the 91st division, to which Lieut. John Beveridge was first assigned, was almost annihilated in the Argonne battle, and many of his brother officers who trained with him, were killed.

Women's Emancipation Bill Advances in British Commons

London, April 4.—The second reading of the women's emancipation bill was moved in the house of commons today by William Adamson, chairman of the labor party and leader of the opposition. Mr. Adamson explained that the object of the bill was to remove certain restrictions and disabilities still imposed upon women, entitle them to hold certain civil and judicial appointments and remove the disqualifications which prevented women from sitting and voting in the house of lords. The house unanimously adopted the second reading of the measure.

Strife in Shipyards Ends.

comradeship and abundant food and opportunity for violence prevail."

Americans to Withdraw.

Paris, April 4.—The situation in the Archangel region in northern Russia has been forcibly brought to the attention of the peace conference by the publication in Paris of the British statement that the troops in the Murmansk and Archangel districts were in danger of extermination unless they were speedily reinforced.

Brig. Gen. W. P. Richardson, U. S. A., is on his way to take command of the American forces in north Russia and is expected to reach Murmansk with 200 soldiers in a few days. There is apparently no change, however, in the avowed intention to take the American troops out of the region at the earliest possible date.

Gen. Tasker H. Bliss and other American representatives here, while admitting the gravity of the situation, are inclined to believe that the troops at distant outposts can retreat, if necessary, before an advance by the bolsheviks, as armored trains are available for all the Americans in the region south of Archangel and Murmansk.

Relief of Archangel from the sea probably will not be possible before the end of May because of the ice, but the forces in the city are well equipped with artillery and ammunition. There is no direct communication at present by either land or sea between Murmansk and Archangel. Murmansk, however, can be relieved immediately from the sea.

The feeling in American circles here is that the British statement overemphasizes the gravity of the situation, because of the desire to send large reinforcements and, perhaps, because there may be an announcement soon of the allied policy toward the bolsheviks.

Reconsideration of Anti-Trust Laws Is Urged of Congress

Washington, April 4.—Reconsideration by congress of all anti-trust legislation is recommended by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States as the result of a referendum vote of its affiliated trade and commercial organizations. Complete returns from the referendum, made public today, show that the membership voted in favor of all four proposals advanced by a special committee which studied the subject.

Congress should be asked immediately to consider the present situation of all statutes constituting our anti-trust legislation.

In consideration of existing anti-trust legislation there should be formulation of standards of general business conduct to be administered by a supervisory body.

An enlarged federal trade commission should be made the supervisory board.

In view of the importance of the functions of the trade commission as they should exist, the membership of the federal trade commission should be increased to nine.

The subject of anti-trust legislation will be taken up at the seventh annual meeting of the chamber to be held at St. Louis April 28 to May 1.
