

WOMAN'S SECTION OF THE BEE

Can man or woman choose duties? No more than they can choose their birthplaces or their father and mother.—George Eliot.

We rise by the things that are under our feet: By what we have mastered of good and gain; By the pride depicted and the passion slain; And the voluptuous life that we hourly meet.—Holland.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Love Comes Unbidden and, "To Love or Not We Are No More Free Than the Ripple to Rise and Leave the Sea."

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Substitutes. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am a daily reader of your Lovelorn column and have sure found some good advice in it. Must say that I am a lonehearted girl and would like to know such people as "The Bachelor Farmer" of almost 23 years. Am just one year younger. I live on a farm, but most of the time now I stay in town with my older sister that got married two weeks ago. My sister was just taken away from me, so you see how lonesome I would have to be yet without her, for we always stayed together wherever we went. I have had friends, and still have them. But one most dearest was taken from me to the war just as it broke out, and last month I have received sad news that he was killed in action. And we were engaged. Miss Fairfax, I would like to ask a little advice from you. Would it be proper for me to find another steady lover, for I don't think I could stay without one? Now, Miss Fairfax, tell me if I have the right idea about thinking of the Bachelor Farmer, aged 23 years, as very experienced in keeping company with the boys. Hoping to see my letter in print soon and thanking you in advance, yours truly, B. B.

Seventeen. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I have been reading your advice to "Lovelorn" and I, too, would like to ask you a question. I am almost 17, and I have been going with a young man of 21. I'm quite sure I love him, as I don't care for anyone else's company any more. I think of him continually from morning until night and I am always happy when he is around. He always says he loves me and that he doesn't care to go with anyone but me, and, therefore, he wishes me to do likewise. Is it possible that you can possess true love at the age of 17? Is it wrong to let this boy kiss me? I know he means it in a good and true and clean way. Thanking you very kindly in advance, I am "A BRUNETTE."

The symptoms indicate love, but at 17 love has so many next-of-kin that closely resemble, one is hardly safe in pinning one's faith to them. Yes, true love has appeared at 17, but these are the rare exceptions. Seventeen is blinded by bubbling youth and blinding romance. Yes, of course, he is clean and moral, because he is young. The middle-aged are the satiated sinners, if sinners they be. Remember what Laurence Hope said in her "Indian Love Lyrics": "The sins of youth are hardly sins, so frank they are and free. 'Tis when middle-age begins we need morality." The reason is that at middle age men and women should have judgment and balance. Most of them have, but those few who haven't are, as I said, satiated sinners, because they sin with their eyes open. Enjoy the friendship of your boy friend with clean thoughts and marry him some time in the future.

Her Bell Boy.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: While I was down to Omaha I met a bellboy whom I like pretty well. I wasn't there long enough to know him very well and didn't learn his name. Now, I wish you would try and find out what his name is. He is at the Conant hotel. He is quite short and well built. He is dark-haired and good looking. Do you think it would be immoed to write to him if you learn his name? He seems like a nice boy. I suppose you'll think I'm older than I pretend to be and that this is all a lie, but it is all true, every bit. A bellboy, too. Well, maybe I'll be too little for him, anyway. The age I gave before was the correct one. A bellboy is as good as anyone else. Hoping to see this in print, your friend, H. J.

We are not personally acquainted with all the bellboys in the hotels. They change quite often, too, so that perhaps he is no longer there. I hope that he comes to the rescue.

Too Severe.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I can't understand why so young a girl of 14 would take my letter so seriously of recent date in "Anybody interested." I do not know what her real name is only she signed her letter "Miss Gray." She asked me to put my name in the paper so she can write to me. "That I shall not." Why did not she give you her name and address that I might write to her, would be more proper. There is only one credit I can give you, Miss Gray; you say you are a good housekeeper, well not very many girls of your age can say that, and what's more I advise you to get out your

NEARLY everybody who has seen the lady who is five feet and no one-hundredths inches tall on the screen is a Shirley Mason fan. but here is a close-up of one she is particularly proud of. She is a collector of fans, by the way, and has a rare collection, including one said to have belonged to Madame Pompadour of France. YOUR IDEAL

Now, now! Don't be unkind. I am not too sure that you would make a good husband if you would be so severe with little "Miss Gray." I wish I knew why my reader-friends fail to furnish me with their names and addresses—it would save much unnecessary worry.

Is He Joking?

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Have been reading your wonderful advice to others and think you must be a very very little girl to answer them foolish questions the way you do, and thought that I would come to you with my troubles. Was married to one of those painted dolls last December and we were very happy together until I had to take a night job to keep from starving to death. Then she started to run around with other men and when I call her attention to the fact, and ask her if she thinks that is the right way to do she gets mad and hits me on the head with the rolling pin, blacks my eyes, pulls my hair and does a lot of other things too numerous to mention.

Now Miss Fairfax do you think that that would be sufficient grounds to get a divorce on. PUMP.

Rolling pins and black eyes properly used and exhibited are excellent grounds for divorce. Are you sure you take the right view of this situation? You should be proud of so athletic a wife.

Darling Wife.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Have been a constant reader of your column and have come to you for some of your wonderful advice. Am a married man and have a night job, and while I am at work my wife goes out with other men, and when I ask her if she thinks that is the right way to do she gets mad and hits me with the rolling pin, blacks my eyes, throws me down the stairs and refuses to cook for me.

Now Miss Fairfax what would you advise me to do; get a divorce or hand her back some of her own remedies. Yours sincerely, G.

Is this your second letter? I recognize the symptoms. If you haven't already given her some of her "own medicine" I advise you not to try it at this late date, after she is all trained n'everything. I have a suspicion that she no longer loves you.

Anxious—Just remember that dreams are all right if you can "dream, but not make dreams your master." You are building a foolish dream and one that will bring unhappiness when you believe that in reality this man prefers you to his wife. If he did, he would not have married her and I'm afraid that even dreaming it

WHAT WILL SAVE HIS HAIR?

What Action is Needed—but it can be done says man of much Hair Knowledge

This Married Man Advised Not to Wait Longer, for Parian Sage is Just What is Needed.

Thousands of men and women are growing bald every day and don't know the reason why. This is indeed a pity, because baldness usually comes from carelessness, and anyone who sheds the hair just a little attention should always have an abundance of good, healthy hair. Dandruff and dirt cause baldness by clogging the pores in the scalp, and giving the dandruff germs fertile ground for prolific breeding.

The treatment is very simple: remove the dirt by shampooing at least once in ten days and destroy the dandruff germs by frequently applying a little of the genuine Parian Sage, a most efficient anti-septic liquid that Sherman & McConnell sell the best drug stores everywhere are now recommending as one of the quickest and best treatments to arrest the falling scalp and falling hair, remove all dandruff and to properly nourish and invigorate the hair roots.

Parian Sage is also in great demand by discriminating women because it is delicately perfumed, does not color or streak the hair and gives it a softness and luster that fascinates and compels admiration.—Adv.

THIN PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

How it Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances

"Take plain bitro-phosphate" is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more

Miss Josephine Davis, reporting her own experience with BITRO-PHOSPHATE, says "It is remarkable what it did for me. After a few days I began to regain my strength, felt fat, and I felt, and sleep soundly and all my little troubles seemed to disappear. I gained twelve pounds in four weeks."

phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by Sherman & McConnell in Omaha and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphate food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance: the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health, nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear; dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION.—Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh growing properties it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.—Adv.

How Great Organization Reduces Cost

ARMOUR and Company grew to be a great business institution by saving the things that formerly were thrown away on the farm.

Pig bristles on the farm are worthless. Through our methods they are utilized in brush-making. Certain glands in hogs, once thrown away when the farmer did his own killing, are now made into medicinal preparations of high value. Even the hoofs and bones are turned to commercial use.

charge the public more for pork or buy hogs from the grower at a lower figure.

The value of anything depends upon its ultimate usefulness. It is only because concerns like Armour have been developed to secure the utmost utility out of the livestock they buy that it is possible to pay farmers more for their animals and yet provide food for the public at true-value levels.

With large volume it becomes possible to make the heavy investments in machinery and equipment necessary to develop new processes and new products. Often it costs hundreds of thousands of dollars in research and experiment before a single pound of some new product can successfully be put upon the market. Such preliminary work is usually beyond the scope of institutions which lack these facilities.

It is in this way that the fundamental benefits of big business are made available to the public. It is a service that both saves for you and adds to your comfort and health.

You can continue to enjoy this service and aid in extending it still further by serving Armour Oval Label foods on your table.
