

South Side CASE AGAINST STOCK EXCHANGE COMES TO CLOSE

Much of Alleged Discrimination Eliminated; Farmers' Union Inclined to Drop Out of Hearing.

Stating that many of the causes underlying the charges of discrimination, preferred by the Farmers' Union Live Stock Commission company against the Omaha Live Stock exchange about 10 months ago, had been eliminated, heads of the Farmers' union showed an inclination to drop out of the hearing which was concluded before government representatives at the exchange building Thursday.

"I don't care whether the hearing is continued or not," said C. H. Watt, general manager of the Farmers' Union Live Stock Commission company.

"In spite of the difficulties our concern has encountered because of opposition from members of the exchange we have grown so rapidly since our establishment two years ago that we are now the second largest commission company on the South Side."

The foregoing and other statements along the same line almost induced government men conducting the hearing to dismiss it.

John Burns, solicitor for the Department of Agriculture, Steven Bray and L. D. Hall, assistants to Charles Brand, chief of the bureau of markets, were the government men before whom the discrimination charges were aired.

Houston Will Decide.
Secretary of Agriculture Houston will render a decision in the case after the evidence gathered by the three government representatives is submitted to him.

C. F. Gustafson, president of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative State union, was the first to testify. He stated that the farmers' union has 40,000 farmer members, and had its inception in 1915. The Farmers' Union Live Stock Commission company, which is sponsored by the union, was established in 1917 as a co-operative project, marketing the farmers' live stock produce at cost.

A written application for membership in the Omaha Live Stock exchange had been refused the Farmers' union on the ground that its methods of doing business violated the rules of the exchange, according to Mr. Watts, a witness. The exchange objected to the policy of the union in prorating commission profits back to the farmer members. For the same reasons the union had been refused membership to the St. Joseph, Kansas City and other exchanges. At all these places, according to Watts, the commission firms established by the union showed remarkable growth despite the opposition evinced by exchange members.

Alleges Discrimination.
C. H. Withey, manager of the Omaha Farmers' Union Live Stock Commission company, gave specific instances where the firm he represented had been discriminated against. Withey stated that he was willing to discontinue the hearing on the charges of discrimination he had made were admitted by exchange officials.

The rules formulated by the exchange were not intended to discriminate against anyone. They were adopted prior to the organization of the Farmers' union, testified A. F. Stryker, secretary and traffic manager of the Omaha Live Stock exchange. The abolition of those rules at the request of the Farmers' Commission company would have an injurious effect not only upon the producer, but ultimately upon commission man, packer and consumer alike, he said. He read three statements showing that three firms, all members of the exchange, had been punished by fines for alleged business relations with the Farmers' Commission company.

Will H. Woods, president of the Omaha exchange, and W. G. Taggart, former president of the local exchange, and now chief executive officer of the National Live Stock exchange, corroborated Mr. Stryker.

South Side Man Lavish in Praise of Ozarks Country

M. J. Andrup, forty-sixth and J streets, South Side, has just returned from a visit to the Ozarks in Arkansas, where he purchased 300 acres of fine fruit land. Mr. Andrup is enthusiastic in his praise of that section of the country and declares the possibilities for the fruit growers is almost unlimited. He states that some of the cherries on which cherries were raised last year yielded as much as $600 an acre, while peach orchards produced $400 an acre.

"I finally arrived in Fayetteville, Ark., the paradise of northwestern Arkansas," writes Mr. Andrup. "The state university is located here. It is a land of cold summers and mild winters. Fayetteville is a beautiful city and has a population of about 10,000. It is well paved and boasts of splendid schools and beautiful churches. There are many rich orchards in Wood county and cherries in large quantities are raised. Strawberries, raspberries and blackberries yield as much as $150 to the acre."

GIVES UP AFTER FLEEING WITH SISTER-IN-LAW

Kansas City Man's Conscience Causes Him to Submit to Prosecution Under White Slave Law.

A waning affection for his wife, in spite of his love for his two small children, and a growing love for his wife's 18-year-old sister, Claudell Sebastian, caused Oscar Horton, Kansas City, to take the wrong path, according to his story to federal authorities yesterday afternoon.

Horton left his wife and came to Omaha with Miss Sebastian. They both found employment and for a time were happy, living together as man and wife.

Horton had failed to take his conscience into consideration. After five days he became so obsessed with his wrongdoing that he walked into the office of the chief of police yesterday morning, and unburdened himself. He admitted that he had violated the Mann act and was turned over to federal authorities.

White slave charges will be filed against Horton according to Federal Officer Dally. Miss Sebastian was not arrested. She told federal officers she had loved her sister's husband ever since she met him, even before he married her sister.

Horton told officers that he returned Miss Sebastian's affection to the fullest extent.

Very Effective Method for Banishing Hairs

(Modes of Today)
At very little cost any woman can rid her face of hairy growths if she will use the delatone treatment. This is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This paste is spread upon the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No harm results from this treatment, but care should be used to buy real delatone.—Adv.
