FAMOUS BABIES OF FILMS HONOR ONE OF NUMBER

Wee Mary Pickford Rupp Entertained by Fourteen of Baby Stars of Movies.

Way out in sunny California 14 of Filmland's most famous babies have had a party. They held a royal celebration a few days ago in honor of the third birthday anniversary of wee Mary Pickford Rupp at the Los Angeles home of the baby's favorite aunt, Mary Pickford.

The children were all sons and daughters of the men and women who are the brightest lights in the film constellation, and whose income tax returns will enrich Uncle Sam considerably.

Says U. S. Practically Ran French Railroads During Last War Year

The American methods applied to the operation of the railroads of France was a revelation to the people of that country, and besides handling men, supplies, equipment and munitions, the American handled 90 per cent of the business of the French," said Ernest Stenger, just returned from Europe, where he spent a year or more in charge of United States railroad traffic.

Mr. Stenger, who ranks as a colonel, prior to going to France was general manager of the St. Joseph & Grand Island road, one of the auxiliaries of the Union Pacific. He was loaned to the government during the period of the war.

"Working under me I had something like 7,000 men, and our business was to keep everything moving toward the front," said Mr. Stenger. "It was some task, but by applying American methods we accomplished what we started to do."

Roumanians Move Into Territory Given by Peace Council

Bucharest, April 18.—The Roumanian government announces that at the request of inhabitants of Transylvania, who have complained of ill-treatment at the hands of the Hungarians, Roumanian troops in Transylvania have been ordered to advance. The troops, it is said, will occupy territory allotted to Roumania by the supreme war council.

Boston, April 19.—A request on behalf of Boston telegraphers was sent S. J. Koenig, international president of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America last night by W. E. Conry, member of the executive board of a local union for sanction of a strike of operators employed by the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies in New England. The request was sent after a conference with the committee in charge of the strike of telephone employees.

Taking Care of the Baby "Don'ts for Mothers."

The Board of Health has prepared the following hints for mothers: Don't kiss the baby on the mouth or allow your friends to do so. Don't give soothing syrups to the cross baby. Don't give "patent" cough mixtures for a cough. Don't fail to secure the best milk you can afford to buy. Don't allow flies to rest on baby's bottle or nipple. Don't fail to wash bottle and nipple before feeding the baby. Don't fail, after feeding baby, to wash bottle and nipple. Don't let the bottle stand about, off the ice. Don't fail to keep the baby's food, when prepared, on the ice. Don't fail to feed baby at regular periods, day and night. Don't let the baby use a "pacifier." Constant sucking of a dummy teat causes deformities and interferes with baby's growth. Don't neglect the daily care of baby's mouth—wash out with boric acid after each feeding. Don't excite the baby—especially before sleeping time or after eating. Don't rock the baby to sleep. Don't let the baby sleep in the sun with light shining into its eyes.

Miss Troy Bitterly Attacks Officials of Scotland Yard

Halifax, April 19.—Miss Lillian Scott Troy, of San Francisco, recently deported from England, arrived last night on the steamer Carmania, on her way to New York. Miss Troy, whose alleged friendship for Baron Lewis Von Horst, formerly of San Francisco and interned by the British government in August, 1914, is understood to have been one of the causes for her deportation, was bitter in her denunciation of British officials. She declared that she had been persecuted by the English police. She said she was convinced that the authorities first turned their attention to her because in 1912, while a dock strike was in progress in London, she fed a thousand strikers' children weekly at her own expense in a plant which she owned in the east end. She was made an honorary member of the dockers' union. In 1914, Miss Troy said, she discovered that she was being followed by detectives. She complained at Scotland yard and said she was locked in a room with a detective for three hours, but that he did not question her. She asserted that on returning to her apartments she found they had been thoroughly ransacked by detectives who, she added, found nothing. "This treatment," she exclaimed, "was due to a horrible attempted blackmail scheme aimed at Lady Hiram Maxim, myself and a well known prisoner of war. They got nothing out of us, but I was foolish and went crying about the thing." She did not disclose the name of the prisoner of war. "During the last four years," she continued, "I have been always hunted by agents of Scotland yard. Large business interests kept me in England and I have lost heavily. Several times the American consul intervened to save me, but the embassy remained apathetic. Hidden Away from Friends. "I have been ill for the last four months and was only strong enough to return to my theater a few weeks ago. I was arrested on April 9 and taken to Scotland yard. I was not allowed to communicate with my solicitor or to get any of my belongings.

Easily Digested, Nourishing and Wholesome Food for Baby

When nurse or doctor says your baby is old enough to eat soft food, then is the time to begin feeding Iten's Graham Crackers. The crackers should be first moistened with milk or water, either warm or cool. Later, when the teeth begin to come, baby may have a cracker to nibble on. Then, when baby is old enough, the Graham Crackers may be fed after breaking in a bowl of milk or cream or half-and-half.

Every authority on child feeding says provide plenty of cereal foods. A government bulletin says of them: "When eaten, as is usually the case, with milk or cream, they are an important addition to the diet. The ill effects sometimes noted may usually be caused by excessive amounts of sugar are not added."

We have known of few cases, indeed, where children did not find Iten's Graham Crackers wholly agreeable and in such cases, the trouble is nearly always caused by an excessive amount of sugar added by mother or nurse.

Iten's Graham Crackers are slightly sweetened by both granulated sugar and sugar cane molasses, but there is no added flavoring. The fine, nut-like flavor of the wheat would be minimized by the addition of flavoring matter, so we use none in Iten's Graham Crackers. These splendid biscuits are as "near to nature" as we can make them.

Preparation for Feeding. The preparation of Iten's Graham Crackers for feeding children depends upon so many factors—principally the age and the condition of the child's digestive apparatus—that no hard and fast rules can be laid down. Until the child has sufficient teeth to break up the crackers into small bits, they should be served soft. The softening is done by moistening the crackers in whatever liquid is agreeable to the baby's stomach—such as milk or water. Oftentimes a thin gruel is made of crumbled Graham Crackers and milk, boiled to the proper consistency.

Those who are experienced in baby feeding can easily work out the proper combinations, but in the case of a sickly child it is always best to have the doctor's advice on feeding.

What Mothers Say. Here are brief extracts from letters we have received from mothers: Mrs. T. O'Neill, Neb.—"I raised my baby on Iten's Graham Crackers soaked in half milk and half water. He had a very weak stomach and Iten's Graham Crackers were the only food he could retain on his stomach."

Mrs. H., Sterling, Colo.—"When our baby girl was five months old, we had to take away her mother's milk and all the other foods we could get did not agree with her. She became the shadow of a skeleton and for a time we feared we would lose her. One day we chanced to give her an Iten's Graham Cracker and she seemed to relish it so much that we continued to feed her these crackers. The result is we have one of the fattest, healthiest, stoutest babies in Sterling today. She weighs twenty-five pounds, and we believe that Iten's Graham Crackers did it."

Mrs. S., Oklahoma City, Okla.—"My daughter Ruth has never been sick in her life. I attribute this to the fact that since being weaned her only solid food has been Iten's Graham Crackers. She has cut all her teeth but one and is unusually heavy for her age, weighing about 30 pounds when 20 months old. Last summer was unusually hot and naturally hard on babies, but our baby came through without any trouble at all. I suppose all mothers know that Graham Crackers are good for their babies, but Iten's are unusually good and I would not use any other kind and always have a supply on hand. Ruth eats about a quarter pound each day."

What a "Prize" Baby Eats. A 17 months old "prize" baby, who scores close to the 100-point mark, eats these foods at regular intervals each day: Breakfast—One poached egg and eight ounces of certified milk. Dinner—One baked apple, three Iten's Graham Crackers, a small dish of prune pulp, eight ounces of certified milk. Supper—Small bowl of broth, six ounces of certified milk, three Iten's Graham Crackers.

As you may note, the only solid food eaten by this 100-point baby is Iten's Graham Crackers. When you buy Iten's Graham Crackers you are getting a concentrated practically-all-wheat food, with very little moisture in it, as it is our aim during the baking process to eliminate every bit of moisture possible. The food value, as demonstrated by analysis, is 1969 calories to the pound. There are 60 crackers on the average to the pound.

Iten's Graham Crackers are made from a blend of Graham flour and
