strike was largely responsible for the fresh advance. Quotations closed strong, 2%c to 4%c net higher, with July $1.58% to $1.58%, and September. $1.53% to $1.54%. Oats gained %c to 12%c, and provisions fee to $1.25.

Prospects that the resumption of normal activities in New York harbor would greatly facilitate the export of foodstuffs gave unusual energy to the bull side of the corn market. A further stimulus lay in the fact that despite far vorable weather and notwithstanding reports of a more plentiful supply of cars at loading stations the arrivals here did not reach as liberal an aggregate as had been looked for. Although on every bulge in prices there was heavy profitiation. Although on every the less failed to react to any material extent. Active call for wheat, re and barley at enhanced prices was a notice, able contributing influence to the corn strength.

Oats, like corn, ascended to a new top price level for 1919. Bulls contend that with barley at $1.20 oats. Houses with eastern connections were free buyers of provisions. The demand was ascribed to the New York harbor strike settlement and to upturns in the Value of corn and hogs.
