

'BILLY' SUNDAY
SPEAKS TO HUGE CROWD ON LOAN

Full of Old "Pep," Famous
Evangelist Tears Off Collar and Pounds On Floor With Fist.

"Uncle Sam is no panhandler on a street corner, mooching you for the price of a drink not a weary Willie whining at your kitchen door for the hand-out of a flapjack," declared "Billy" Sunday at the Auditorium yesterday in a characteristic address at a huge mass meeting to launch the Victory Loan drive.

"Billy" was in fine form, full of his old "pep, pepper, tobacco sauce and barbed wire." He stood on one foot, held the other high in the air, pounded on the floor with his fist, struck out right and left. He had the big audience with him from the start and when he tore off his collar and necktie in the middle of his address the crowd howled and cheered.

The hand played "Brighten the Corner Where You Are" when he came on the platform accompanied by Governor McKelvie. Billy bowed and giggled and was a regular "cut-up" while he was trying to hold himself till his turn to speak. He slapped Colonel Grant on the leg so hard that that dignified gentleman had to jump and Billy laughed all the harder.

Governor McKelvie's introductory address was very short. "I feel it a real honor to preside at a meeting where Rev. Billy Sunday is a speaker," he said.

"I represent the greatest nation that God Almighty ever made," said Billy. "That nation has never dipped its flag to any one and it has just finished cleaning up the rottenest gang that ever butchered children, outraged women, sank defenseless ships and did everything else that their rotten minds could think of."

"Your Uncle Sam went into this fight with the most unselfish of purposes. He went into it to make the world safe for democracy. He has crushed autocracy, and militarism and all he is asking you to do in this Fifth Liberty Loan is to help pay the funeral expenses."

Plays Ex-Kaiser.
"I never pronounce the name of old Has-Been Kaiser Bill I don't feel like going and washing out my mouth. Why even the preacher over there in Germany had to take an oath to preach just what that old lobster wanted them to."

"That old maniac started the whole war by a shooting scrape that was framed up to start a fight in which the poor brute thought he could swoop down on a defenseless world and conquer it. So the poor weak little fellow appeared to the Austrian throne was croaked one day in 1914. From all I can hear he ought to have been croaked long before that."

"They thought they would use this as an excuse and jump on poor deprecit Russia and on France, and conquer them. They thought England wouldn't interfere with their little party. And as for why they thought we were nothing but a bunch of false alarms, excess baggage, four flushers and mollycoddles."

Waiting for Justice.
"And they deluged the world with blood, not only the blood of soldiers, but of old men and women and helpless children and babies."

"And I'm glad that I have lived long enough to see this thousand-headed, thousand-fanged monster of militarism conquered and sitting in the death chair waiting for the juke."

"If I had the say about that peace conference there wouldn't be any parleying when the German delegates come to sign. I'd put a tincheater at their heads and give them 15 minutes to sign or blow their blocks off."

"The Germans had the motives of a thief and the instincts of a porch climber. But they didn't catch God napping. God has never taken the count from any bunch on earth. The hell the Germans created on earth made the real one look like a sideshow. But we went through that at Chateau Thierry like a hot knife through a cake of butter. And today the Kaiser is the most despised wretch that drags his slimy body about the earth."

World's Best Investment.
"Subscribe to these Fifth Liberty notes. They're the best investment on earth, and you want to feel that you have done your share in making the world safe for democracy. A woman went into a jewelry store and every piece of jewelry the clerk would show her she would lick. 'You can't tell gold that way,' he said to her. 'No, but you can tell brass,' she said."

"And in this Fifth loan you don't need to do any licking. Uncle Sam doesn't need camouflage to sell his securities. I know you're going to put the final kibosh on that bunch of bums in the so-called central empire by finishing up the job in the same style that you have carried it through so far."

The Auditorium was filled. As the various organizations came marching in from the parade cheers were called for. By far the greatest ovation was accorded the Salvation Army as they marched up the aisle.

"What's the matter with the Salvation Army?" they're all right," yelled the soldiers. The canteen workers also received an ovation.

"Uncle Sam," the "Goddess of War" and the "Red Cross Nurse" living characters from the parade, occupied a place on the stage with loan workers, army officers and distinguished visitors.

Ordinance On New City Market to Be Offered to Council

An ordinance covering the details of this new municipal project will be offered to the city council this month.

It is proposed to allot space in the basement of the Auditorium to bona fide market gardeners this season without charge.

"Suppose it costs us $2,000 to $3,000 the first year to get this market established, I think it will be money well spent," added Mr. Ure. The market will be in charge of Mayor Smith's department of public affairs and the present superintendent of the Auditorium will have general supervision of the basement market.

Arrangements will be made for parking automobiles of patrons of the market.

Daily makes an adorable and true-to-life character and her singing of the popular song is most creditable. There isn't a thing to tell about the play, "Mickey," and Mabel Normand's interpretation of the part of the tomboy girl in the lead, except that it is a wholly unique character and story, and one that is charming in every detail. It is undoubtedly the best piece of screen work that Miss Normand has ever put out and Mack Sennett has fairly outdone himself in his direction of the comedy in the photoplay.

Jack Mower lost his pocketbook a few days ago, and in advertising for its return his character is certainly disclosed. The ad runs like this: "Lost—at bath house, pocketbook containing season ticket for swimming privileges, hunting license, fishing license, two papers of fishing flies, cards with Jack Mower on them, gymnasium card, list of trout pools and auto routes, with German hunting license (army card)." Jack is indeed a real outdoor man, as most everyone knows. He is all set for the coming trout season and hopes to hook the limit early.

"Mickey, pretty Mickey, With your hair ofraven hue; In your manner so beguiling; There's a bit of the harp, a bit of Kilrarny, too. Childhood in the wildwood, Like a mountain flower she grew, Mickey, pretty Mickey, Can you blame anyone for falling in love with you?"

It's auburn-haired Nina Dally, a charming Omaha girl, who is singing the song in connection with Mabel Normand's picture, "Mickey," appearing at the Brandeis until Wednesday night this week. Miss

"NOBODY KNOWS HOW I SUFFERED," SHE DECLARES

For Twenty Years Mrs. Livengood Was Miserable—Tanlac Brings Relief.

"Before I had even finished my first bottle of Tanlac I noticed a big improvement in my condition and now I can just eat anything without any fear that it will trouble me at all," said Mrs. Rebecca Livengood, who lives at No. 1322 College street, Kansas City, to a Tanlac representative a few days ago. Mrs. Livengood has resided in Kansas City for the past forty years.

"For the past twenty years," continued Mrs. Livengood, "I have suffered from a bad case of stomach trouble and during the past three years it got so much worse that it seemed like I could hardly stand it. My main trouble was indigestion and everything I ate seemed to lodge right in the pit of my stomach in a big lump that felt just like so much lead. Right after eating I would have a heavy, depressing feeling in my stomach and no matter what I ate it would disagree with me and I would simply be in misery for hours and nothing that I would take gave me any relief. I tell you nobody knows how I suffered."

"My appetite was very poor and I didn't relish a thing. I didn't seem to get a bit of nourishment from what I did eat and was falling off in weight and felt nervous and ran down all the time. About this time I began to hear a lot about Tanlac and what it had done for others and it seemed to be so highly recommended that I made up my mind that I would give it a trial and see if it would help me. I have taken four bottles of Tanlac and it has simply been wonderful the way it has helped my condition. I have a fine appetite and all that distressing feeling that would trouble me after eating is gone. I feel stronger and have more energy and I am gaining in weight; in fact, I am just feeling better in every way than I have for years."

"Tanlac certainly has given me relief from indigestion and I will gladly recommend it to anyone that is troubled like I was."

Tanlac is sold in Omaha by all Sherman & McConnell Drug Company stores, Harvard Pharmacy and West End Pharmacy. Also Forest and Meany Drug Company in South Omaha and the leading druggist in each city and town throughout the state of Nebraska.—Adv.
