

WOMAN'S SECTION OF THE BEE

Love alone in wisdom, Love alone in power; and where Love seems to fail, it is where self has stepped between and dilled the potency of its rays.—George MacDonald.

Thy self-upbraiding is a snare, Though weakness it appears; More humbling is it far for thee To face the eternal years.—F. W. Faber.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Love Comes Unbidden and, "To Love or Not We Are No More Free Than the Ripple to Rise and Leave the Sea."

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Kearney Teacher.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am sure you would not want to print anything which would mar a girl's progress in life, so I am writing to you to see if you will correct an article written for your column by an enemy of mine and written very plainly about me, in fact so plainly as to be too plain. You know "too far east is west," and in the article signed "A Teacher" and written about the teacher who was troubled and probably puzzled over the young man's attentions, and who only taught from 10 to 3, was about me, but I did not write it. However, my friends all say that anyone would surely see that I shouldn't care to publish such a thing (were it true), and no teacher with the least bit of common sense would slant herself in such a way as that letter says.

The young man and I are merely friends, and, as for me resigning last winter, I think my district understands that the "author" of that letter knows more about the circumstances than was described in the letter.

Miss Fairfax, I know that you will print this letter because I wish to disclaim any knowledge of the letter and of the lies so artistically arranged by the author.

Will say in closing that I have never met finer people than I have in this district. Please print this letter for two successive days in The Bee. Miss Fairfax, do you keep any of the letters? If you do, please send the one signed "A Teacher," as my school board would like very much to have it.

Thanking you in advance, am signing my name for my district's benefit. MISS IDA ROSE PRELL.

I am so glad that you have given me an opportunity to straighten this matter out and I assure you that if I had the original letter it would go forward without one minute's delay, although this is against my rule.

When a person stoops to write a letter as the author of "A Teacher" did, whether he be a practical joker or enemy, but the sneaking coward sneakingest, lowest type. I respect the man or woman who comes right out in the open and fights a fair fight, settles a dispute and proclaims himself or herself a friend or enemy, but the sneaking coward who writes a letter (such as you mention), ought to be ostracized.

from the community. Truly sorry that I did not keep the letter.

Wants Help.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I see you have helped so many others when they are troubled. Now, I am going to see if you can help me. I am a young girl of 16 and I work from 7 till 9:30 o'clock. I do not get much pay and wish I could get some place to help after work for my board and room. Now, if I get such a place I will help all I can.

A MOTHERLESS YOUNG GIRL.
There are many such places, but how can I help you when you do not give your name? Please send it to me at once if you want help.

Alice Brady's Address.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Have been reading your splendid advice for some time and since you have been kind enough to answer so many different kinds of questions I wondered if you would give me a little information.

I would like to know the address of the famous movie star, Alice Brady.

Thanking you in advance for your trouble, I am, respectfully yours, "NORMA JANE."

Twins.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: We are constant readers of your "Advice to the Lovelorn" and now we are coming to you for advice with our own little troubles. We are twins, 15 years old, and very popular with the boys, and we would like to know if it is improper to flirt with the boys in school, and if a respectable boy asks to take us home from a social or such should we refuse them? Also, when going past a couple of boys we are well acquainted with is it improper to wave at them—that is, we mean if they are a short distance away? Is our writing good?

Hoping to see this in print we remain, "LBE AND VBE."

Even girls of 15 should have an innate sense of refinement which would keep them from flirting. There is nothing quite so cheap, although it may be harmless, as a flirtatious girl. I see no harm in a boy friend accompanying you home from a social, but I do think it is much sweeter and more refined to bow to your boy friends than to wave your hands like a switchman or a flagman.

Puzzled—Surely you may ask your friend to come again, and it is perfectly correct to tell him that you have had a good time.

Lovely Lingerie Gowns

By GERTRUDE BERESFORD.

Lingerie gowns are lovelier than ever. The cool daintiness of white voile and batiste beckon alluringly when the thermometer makes you seek cool verandas. An exquisite gown of this type is found in this hand-embroidered batiste model with trimmings of Val lace, edging and insertion. The bodice shows the deep U-shaped neck so popular at present. A tiny "modeste" of Val lace shows in the center. This gown carries the very short sleeves which are being featured on afternoon gowns. Over a skirt with panier draperies on the side which is edged with Val lace falls a pinafore of embroidered batiste and lace. The girdle of this gown is old blue ribbon against which is posed a crimson velvet rose with dull green velvet leaves. With this gown is worn a black picture hat, simply trimmed with a bow of ostrich feathered ribbon.

Telephone Expenses Have Advanced Greatly
This Necessitates Increased Telephone Rates
Nearly everything we use in furnishing telephone service has increased in price the last few years.
High labor expense in manufacturing plants has raised the cost of the telephone equipment.
Freight rates have gone up, too, and this has added to the price of the equipment we must buy.
The cost of telephone operation has steadily advanced, both because of the increased cost of material to the telephone company and the increased living expenses of employees.
The consumer has realized the necessity of paying more for rent, for food, for clothing and for transportation. The telephone industry has been affected by the same conditions which have produced higher prices in all the necessities of life.
In order to meet the high cost of telephone operation a revenue in just proportion to expense must be obtained.
If this Company is to continue to furnish telephone service to the public it must obtain such rates as will produce a revenue sufficient to cover the cost of providing the service.
