Advice to the Lovelorn

Love Comes Unbidden and, "To Love or Not We Are No More Free Than the Ripple to Rise and Leave the Sea."

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

What Does He Mean?
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Here is some good news to the photoplay aspirants for photoplay pay from $40 to $1,000 for four to 10 scenes. For particulars write and enclose 3-cent stamp and I will connect you with all the motion picture companies.

Address Clifton Young, 2617 M street, Omaha, Neb.
P. S.—One man got $10,000 for a photoplay.

What are you trying to "put over" on my readers? You are either a crook or ignorant of the subject you are trying to handle. I know more about photoplays and scenarios than you do, evidently, and my readers have too much sense to write to you or to give you money for your misinformation—if that is what you are looking for.

Tragedy of May and December.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Your advice to "June" in last night's Bee is splendid. I only hope she heads your warning of May and December. I married a prominent business man of this city 22 years ago. We have only been married a few years and already he acts different. He gives me all the money I want, clothes, etc. I have found out it's youth and love that means real happiness. I have found the man that means all that for me. My love is returned, and while I believe in divorce, I hardly think I am justified in seeking it. I have only found out too late the difference of true love and being flattered at having a man so much older chose me from all of the rest. Think well before you decide, June.
BROKEN-HEARTED.

Yours is one of the tragedies of "May and December" in wedding. Men, many of them, have the very wrong idea that money can buy the love of women, and they offer their wealth in the marriage market for the woman they select as a mate. Girls too often, without realizing what they are doing, sell themselves to these men, firmly believing that they can be true to them and "live happily ever after." But youth meets youth, sooner or later—then there is trouble. The man pays the price of his folly by losing what little affection his wife may have had for him. He realizes then that money cannot buy love. The woman pays the price of her folly by being married to one man, who gives her no grounds for divorce, and the white loving another. This is the tragedy of "May and December."

Misguided Girl.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am 15 and awfully cute. All the fellows are just crazy about me. My eyes and hair are very dark, but what I want your advice about is a man I met at the picture show two years ago. I got to know him because he sat down beside me. He was not bashful, for he tried to hold my hand. I did not object. He was very nice and when he went out he pressed a $1 bill in my hand.
We have met lots of times since and he always gives me money.
Is it right for me to keep this money and spend it?
He is a married man, but his wife is a mean old thing and he is going to be divorced, and when he is he wants to marry me. I think I love him very much, and would it be wrong if I marry him?
I hope you will not make fun of me, because other girls I know do the same, and your answer means very much to me.
Please answer in Thursday evening's Bee. Lovingly,
CUTIE.

Spring is the established season for housecleaning. Your ideas need a thorough renovation and this is a good time to start the work. You are wrong, wrong, wrong; wrong in your conduct and wrong in your ideas. You were wrong to allow a strange man to make advances to you in the first place, and you made a great mistake in accepting money from him. Return all the money he has given you and see the man no more. His story about a mean wife and a pending divorce is the cry of a sneak and a coward. Marriage which arises from such filth is robbed of its sweetness in the beginning and happiness dies before it is born. Readjust your ideas about yourself while you are improving your conduct. You may have the attractiveness which goes with youth, but I judge you have encouraged compliments and men have gratified you. No one has a monopoly, or even a small corner, on beauty or charms. There are too many of us for that, and our ideas of what constitutes beauty are too varied. You need more advice than I can give you here. Go to some good woman friend, or a man who is truly your friend, and put your case.

Sister's Love.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: This may be an unusual question, but please tell me how much or how great should be a sister's love for her brother? My relatives say I love my brother too much, do too much for him. I don't think so, for he loves me just as much as I love him. Would like the opinion of the readers, and also your opinion, Miss Fairfax.
Thanking you for your splendid advice, I remain, MARY MACK.
I suppose there is such a thing as too great a love for a brother—that is, for his own good or yours. Sometimes love becomes a hindrance rather than a help. Each soul is an individual and should spread its wings and "grow." If your love hampers your brother in his career, or if it blocks his opportunities then I think it is unwise to give free rein to your affections.

A Housekeeper.
Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: Owing to changes that have come to me, I must earn a living for self and 12-year-old daughter, and the only way that I can think of, in order to have her with me, is to keep house for some one needing a good, all-round experienced woman. I wish a place where we could stay as long as satisfactory to both parties. Close to good school, where we could have use of piano, where we both could work, would be chickens and garden; would take the

Gingham In New Lines

By GERTRUDE BERESFORD.

Red, white and black checked gingham makes this smart morning frock, which depends upon the novel use of its own materials laid on the bias to effect an unusual trimming. The upper part of the bodice front extends under a bolero-like jacket and the lower part continues around the waistline and ties in a sash at the back. The sleeves are cut kimono in one with the bolero. The skirt of this dress is plainly gathered and is without trimming, except for three bias folds of the material which simulate a tunic. The front of the blouse is trimmed with large white pearl buttons. The hat worn with the gown is made of matching gingham, with a crown and facing of black taffeta.

Long Work Days Detrimental to Health

All States Urged to Place Industries On the Basis Of Eight-Hour Day

A mass of evidence is available both in this country and in Europe indicating the serious effects of long working hours upon the health of women. This evidence, gathered for the most part by expert government investigators, has been recognized by the supreme court of the United States as justifying the use by the several states of their police power to enforce legislation limiting hours of work. The supreme court, in a brief presented to an Oregon court, which led to a decision declaring unconstitutional a law that state limiting hours of labor, holds that "health is the foundation of the state. No nation can progress if its workers are crippled by continuous over-exertion. The loss of human energy due to excessive working hours is a national loss and must inevitably result in lowering the nation's prosperity."
In the United States, as a whole, a growing tendency exists toward a shorter working day. The world's experience of the evil effects of over-work upon the general welfare has led the majority of the states of the union to enact laws limiting the hours of women's employment. Only six of the 48 states have failed to place some limitation upon the length of the working day of women.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking laxatives, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.
If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested foods, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their green color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.
Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief, so you can eat what you like. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

In 20 of the states the hours of work have been limited to eight or nine. But in those states which have not adopted this important measure of protection for the health of their citizens, abnormally long hours of employment for women is made possible. In a survey of hours and working conditions for women in one such state recently made by the women in industry service, United States Department of Labor, it was found that in 30 per cent of the establishments investigated the regular working day without overtime, was 10 hours or more for 2,817 (or 23 per cent) of the women employed in the shops visited. Specific instances of overtime legally possible in this state showed women working as long as 65 hours in a week in one factory; 73 hours in one cannery; 84 hours in another; 75 hours and a seven-day week in one manufacturing plant; and 88 hours and 40 minutes in an establishment manufacturing automobile parts.

With the growing complexity of the problem of women's employment and with the increase in their numbers in industry, it is becoming increasingly important that state departments of labor should be equipped to enforce laws regulating their employment, as well as to study their needs and observe new conditions.

With the purpose of accomplishing this, the women in industry service is recommending that women should be placed in responsible positions as members of industrial boards, or as chiefs of divisions directly responsible to the boards, or to the labor commissioner.

Siberians Appreciative.
Warm appreciation of the relief work conducted by the American Red Cross in Siberia is now appearing almost daily in the Siberian newspapers, which, when the Red Cross workers first appeared, seemed apprehensive that the Americans were bent on some form of commercial conquest. As the relief trains were made up at Vladivostok and sent west with hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of supplies of all kinds, however, the press investigated. Soon the relief supplies were distributed at Akaterinburg and the Chelyabinsk, and it was not long before the population was informed on American Red Cross methods, with the result that the co-operation of the natives with the organization is steadily and rapidly growing.

More than $80 was made on Saturday from the sale and there are many cartons that have not yet been received.

First Letter.
Dear Busy Bee: This is my first letter to you. I read your page every Sunday. I am going to tell about some little bantam chickens which I had. I had a hen and a rooster, but the rooster died. The hen laid four eggs and then she set on them. I soon had four little chickens. One morning when I went out to feed them one of them was gone. When the others got larger I gave them to my uncle who lived on the farm. I hope Mr. Wastebasket is out when my letter arrives, as I would like to see my letter in print next Sunday.
