Victory Loan Notes

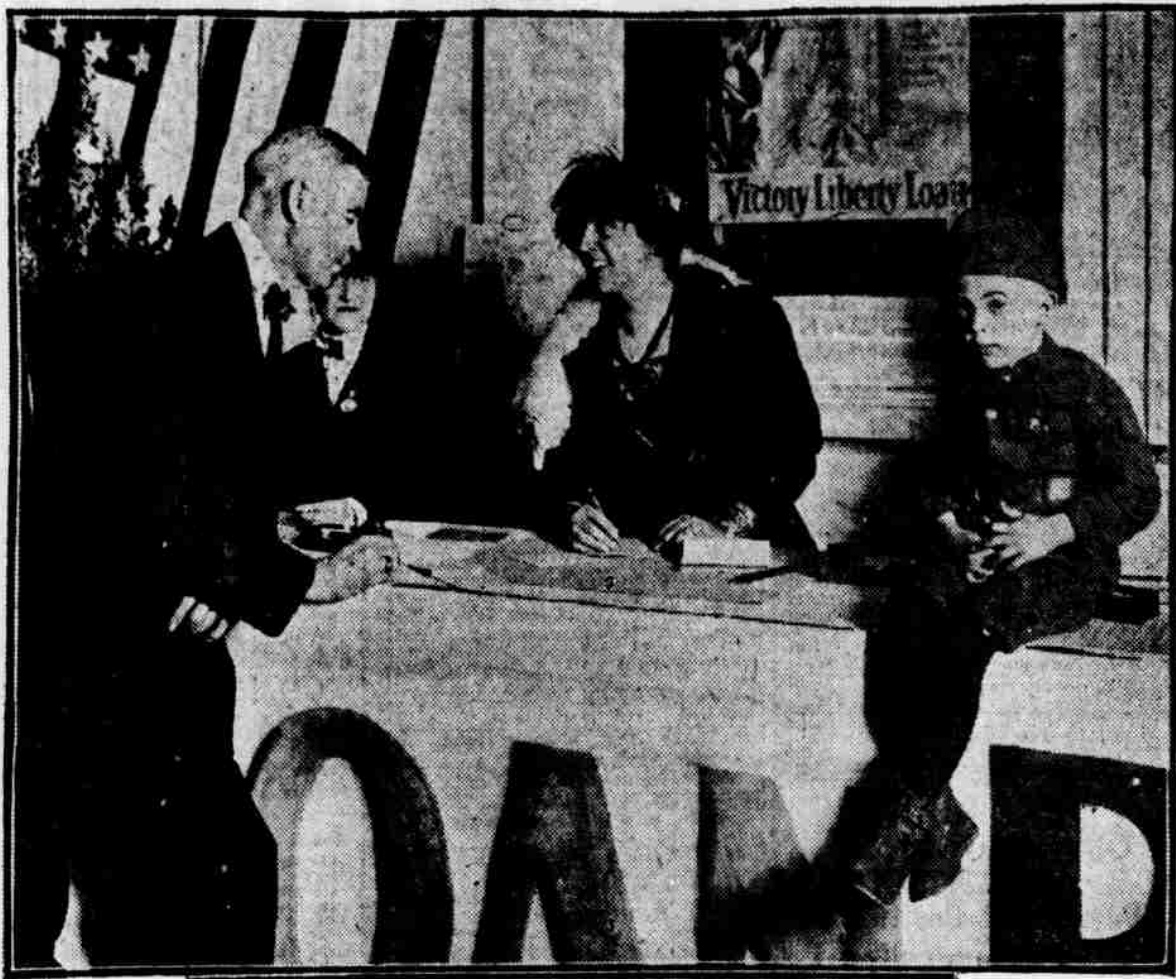

Mrs. W. C. McAdoo, chairman of the National Woman's Victory loan committee, sends the following message to the women of America: "The women of the United States felt a year ago that no money price was too high for the winning of a victory peace. The government of the United States is now asking us to help raise the four and a half billion-dollar subscription that totals the Victory Liberty loan. Can we do less than our best to pay the 'price of peace'?"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Report to Your Bank. Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am 20 years old and am working in a store and don't get such a large salary after paying my board. I have been going with an agent and he seemed to think very much of me. One day he asked me to lend him $100 and I didn't have it to spare and simply had to refuse him the favor. It made him very angry at me and he said he was never coming back to see me again, (which I do not regret) and that he would get the hundred dollars just the same. He knew my father had a good position. He earns about $60 to $70 per month and has only my mother and baby sister to support, so he was going to forge a note on him or me, or either on my grandfather, who has a farm and get the hundred dollars just the same. Now what can I do to prevent him from forging a note or maybe two or three of them? I don't dare to tell my father about it, because he had forbidden me to talk to the agent, and I know he will try to forge the note, for he told me some time ago he was an expert note forger. Please answer soon as possible. Sincerely, ANXIOUS.

Notify your bank of the agent's intention. He could not forge a note if the bankers know your father and grandfather. Neither could he forge a check which would be honored if you notify your bank immediately. Don't give him any money. Such a man is dangerous company.

Ignorant—It is always best for one to make himself clearly understood. A boy who "hangs around" and just "happens" to be going a girl's way, is not treating the girl fairly, for he gives her neither the pleasure of accepting his company, nor the privilege of refusing it. The girl you speak of should invite you to call, but should she omit this courtesy, I think you could venture to telephone her (but not at her place of business) and say you would be glad to take her to church, the movies, or whatever place you have in mind. If you cannot phone her, make it a point to see her and invite her to go some place with you. It is not strictly proper to take a girl home from a party to which you have not taken her, but circumstances often arise where it is more courteous to act as an escort than to leave a girl or a group of girls to go home alone. If your intentions and conduct are right in such cases, the merely formal phase is not of consequence. In going down the aisle of a public building, the usher should lead, the girl follow and the escort bring up the rear. The general rule is that a gentleman should follow his lady, unless there are obstructions which, by virtue of his greater physical strength, can remove for her. A girl should always be permitted to take her seat first.

Self-made Maid—Somewhere, some time, there will surely be the "great man" who will love you all the more because you had the courage, ambition and fine feeling to rise above your environment and choose the best that the world has to give. No true man will use the disposition of your father as anything against you. While you are teaching and meeting splendid people—just like members that it is you who people when he had been your friend? However, I do think it is foolish not to speak to one another. I should continue to go with other boys, and perhaps learn from this experience that you should be as willing to trust as to doubt. Certainly explain it to him, and if he did say unkind things of you, then he should apologize.

C. N.—When a young man asks you to go some place with him, it is quite proper that he bear the expense of the occasion. Do you mean that you have been going to another town to see a man, and that he pays your railroad fare? If so, that is not a question of expense, but rather of propriety in your going to him. By all means, he should come to your town and call on you at your home. If you owe him money for a long distance call, you should pay him the amount. If the call was at his request, it is quite all right for him to pay it, even though you did the phoning. Be natural and your conversation will take care of itself. Do not make a conspicuous effort to return the young man's favors. His favors have been voluntarily given without thought of a return—if he is the kind of young man he should be, ample opportunity will arise for showing him you appreciate his kindnesses, and you can then return the favors in a natural and unselfish way.

Mother of Five From Bloomfield—I have given your long letter a great deal of thought and if you will send me your address perhaps I can write you a personal letter which may help a lot.

Three Peaches—Shall I say what I think? Truly for 14-year-old girls your mind is dwelling on foolish things, and if you are going to be in love with a young man, you should be with pleasures and life that belong to girls years your senior.

Spinach With Egg. One can spinach or cooked fresh spinach. Three hard cooked eggs. Beet juice. Salt and pepper.

Put eggs in warm water and simmer thirty minutes. Dip in cold water to make it easy to remove shells. Drop in liquid drained from cooked beets to color the eggs red. Cut in halves and use as a garnish with spinach.

Cheese Eggs in Lettuce Nest. Cream cheese colored a delicate green, sprinkled with paprika, arranged in nests of shredded lettuce, served with French dressing. The cheese is formed into tiny egg shape to represent bird's eggs.

Eggs in Nest. Six eggs. Six slices toast. Salt. Prepare toast to a very light brown. Beat whites of eggs until stiff, and pile on toast, making a depression in the center to form nest in which to drop the yolk of egg. Into each nest drop one egg yolk, being very careful not to break. Sprinkle with a little salt. Place on flat pan in hot oven and bake until the white of egg is a delicate brown. Drop a small piece of butter or oleomargarine on each. Serve very hot.
