

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

A small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy. Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.—Adv.

CONTROL BOARD FAVORS PARDON FOR GENEVA GIRL

Superintendent Wants Wife of Soldier Taken Back to Home; Testified in McMahon Case.

From a Staff Correspondent. Lincoln, April 24.—The State Board of Control is rather inclined to take the broad view that Lucille Rae, the Omaha girl who escaped from the Geneva school for girls and later married, should be given a chance to make good, rather than send her back to the school to serve out her term.

Miss Rae was one of the girls brought from the Geneva school by the board to testify against the former superintendent, Miss McMahon, at the time of the hearing when Miss McMahon was asked to resign. Soon after going back to the school the girl escaped. Later she married a soldier boy, and the young man, who says that he knew she was an escaped convict at the home at the time he married her, now says that everything is all right and that they want to live together and make a home.

Superintendent McAulay is rather of the opinion that the girl should be brought back, taken to the Milford home where she should stay until her child is born and then be taken back to the Geneva home.

The brief is filed in the state in relation to the disbarment proceedings against Allen G. Fisher, well known Chadron attorney.

AT THE THEATERS

JUST to show you that a musical comedy can be entertaining and in every other way attractive, and yet have neither a jazz music, nor jazz dancing, nor jazz singing, let us present "The Riviera Girl" in evidence. If you are looking for a jazz dance, you will better turn elsewhere, for there is none in this; it does have carefully written tunes, melodies of the harmonious sort that soothe and do not torture the ear. As a matter of fact, the trap drummer is not once asked to jangle a cowbell, and save for one false move made by an overzealous cornetist last evening, not a discordant note was heard. The dialogue and the lyrics are in keeping with the music—light, bright and piquant, without effort to skirt the risqué. The plot holds nothing of novelty, but it is handled in a way that piques and to the very end interest is sustained, even though that end be obvious.

Miss Grace Walsh, new to us of the hinterland, is the "girl," and she is all that has been promised for her. Her youthful freedom of movement in dance or walk, her sweet, pure voice, clear and true in every note, her unaffected manner, her vivacity and her sincerity all combine to produce such delight as does not often emanate from one person alone. Sylvia de Frankie gives us a subdued sort of soubrette that is fully as affective and enjoyable as the more boisterous sort to which of late we have become accustomed through recent experience. Henry Mowbray and Royden Keith, splendidly sustain the burden of the singing, on that side of the line, although Messrs. Riley and Romaine add one effective duet to a long list of worthwhile offerings. Messrs. Harvey and Farrington, the "comics" of the company, are responsible for a lot of merriment as the evening rolls along, getting it through methods quite in line with the general pitch of the piece, but no less certainly because of that.

Of the chorus, one may at least say it affords variety; it is numerous, and displays some really impressive costumes, while the stage pictures and groupings have been carefully and lavishly worked out by that master of the craft, Julian Mitchell, and this leaves nothing to be said on this point.

Those of the community who imitated Steve Brodie (he took a chance, you know) were very well repaid for the venture of attendance at the Brandeis last night. "The Riviera Girl" is cordially commended to all who like light music, comedy within reason, and can get pleasure out of the harmonious blending of light, color, sound, and youthful bodies.

The applause hit of the show is scored by the banjoists, Dane Claudius and Lillian Scarlet in "Song Memories." A decided novelty is presented by the athletic girls, the three Bennett sisters, who appear in an act called "Fruit and nut maneuvers." Ann Gray, the harpist and vocalist, is the chief artistic feature of the bill.

The person who goes to the theater only occasionally should plan to visit the Boyd theater Sunday for the attraction on that date will be "I'm So Happy," with Frederick V. Bowers as the star. If you go to the theater only once or twice a year, do not fail to see "I'm So Happy," for it is the season's best. The engagement is for four nights, with matinees Sunday and Wednesday.

DIDN'T SEE WELL DAY IN 25 YEARS

Mrs. Joerden Wants Everybody to Know What Tanlac Did For Her.

"I am a happy woman and I want everybody to know that Tanlac is the reason why," said Mrs. H. C. Joerden, who lives at 600 Second Street, Peoria, Ill., while in the Sutliff & Case drug store the other day.

"I haven't seen a well day in twenty-five years," continued Mrs. Joerden. "My appetite was completely gone and even such things as breakfast food and poached eggs would blast me up and cause intense suffering for hours afterwards. The pains in and about my stomach were almost unbearable at times. My nerves were all shattered and for me to sleep over one or two hours during the night was almost impossible, and when I'd get up in the morning, I could hardly get down stairs. Instead of getting better, I gradually grew worse until I felt like life was hardly worth living and I must have made everybody around me tired of hearing about my troubles. If I even went to town for a little while, I would come back all weak and exhausted and have to take to bed."

"When I began to read about Tanlac was doing for others, I had just about given up all hope as I had tried so many medicines, and none of them had done any good, but I decided to try one anyway. Well, by the time I had finished this bottle, I was convinced that Tanlac was what I had been needing for years. Now I have taken six bottles in all, and my appetite has come back and I can eat almost anything and never have the least bit of trouble afterwards. My headaches are all gone and my nerves are good and steady, and when I go to bed, I sleep like a child. I am a well woman today and will be glad to tell anyone personally what I think of Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Omaha by all Sherman & McConnell Drug Company's stores, Harvard Pharmacy and West End Pharmacy. Also Forest and Meany Drug Company in South Omaha and the leading druggist in each city and town throughout the state of Nebraska.—Adv.
