

RAILROADS TO START SAFETY FIRST CAMPAIGN

May Set Aside by Regional Directors as "No Accident Month;" Give List of "Don't's."

Regional directors of the railroads of the United States have designated May as a "No-accident month," and have asked the co-operation of the public in the campaign that they propose to inaugurate. The campaign will be under the direction of the safety departments of the respective roads and the hope of the officials is that results will be attained.

Regional Director Bush, former president of the Missouri Pacific, but now in charge of the roads of the southwest, calls attention to the fact that during 1917, on highway crossings throughout the United States, 1,777 persons were killed by railroad trains and 4,356 injured. He adds that with a constantly increasing number of automobiles in use the loss of life on railroad crossings is becoming appalling. Most of the accidents resulting in the loss of, or serious injuries, he says, could be avoided if the drivers of cars would obey the injunction to "Stop, Look and Listen."

tracks and crossings, Regional Director Bush has caused to be printed and distributed thousands of cards. These cards go into the public schools, places of business and along the public highway. They are distributed in the nine states in which the Missouri Pacific operates and in large black letters, carry the following warnings, or don't's: "Don't walk on railroad tracks, or bridges"; "don't play around railroad stations, or cars"; "don't hop on, or off cars, or engines"; "don't crawl under, or between cars"; "don't cross track without looking to see if a train is coming"; "don't throw at glass insulators on telegraph poles."
