

MOTHER-IN-LAW
ENDS FREE LOVE
LAW IN HUNGARY

Cabinet Member Explains
"Communization" to Wife and Mother, But Kills Law
After Storm Breaks.

Budapest, April 30.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—It was due to a family quarrel that Hungary escaped having its women "communized" after the fashion in the Russian "republic" of Saratoff rather than to the abhorrence of Bela Kun to the scheme as the latter afterwards stated.

The law to communize women was actually framed and in the printers hands, ready for publication when Herr Weltner, one of the cabinet of bright young men who are now ruling the fate of the former kingdom, went home for supper. During the meal he told his wife and his mother-in-law in glowing terms about the project reforms.

"What are you doing for women?" they asked.

Explains New Law.

Weltner then explained that in future women would be free too; that they would be permitted to choose their husbands and discard them if they liked by the simple process of paying a few cents for a legal paper declaring their "unfitness" for married life. Further conversation developed the fact that the new law also gave husbands the same right; that children might be turned over to the care of the state so that both husband and wife would get rid of the duties and responsibilities of rearing their offspring.

"Do you mean to tell me that you can get rid of me from one day to another and marry the next day if you like?" demanded young Frau Weltner.

"That's how the law stands," replied the husband.

The Lay Dies.

"Then the storm broke. Both wife and mother-in-law began to scream and a frenzied scene ensued. The upshot of which was that the women demanded that Weltner should get the law stopped or they would leave him at once and would, moreover, get all the wives, mothers and mothers-in-law of all the ministers to do the same.

Weltner in the interest of his home comfort and peace eventually promised to do his best and use his influence with his fellow members through his paper, the People's Voice, to get the law repealed. He had a conversation with Bela Kun and the other ministers and then called up the printers, telling them that no proofs needed to be "pulled" from the forms where the law lay. He also ordered that the type should be melted up and the copy destroyed.

It was thus that the law died.
