

CRIME WAVE IS SWEEPING CITY: JEWELS STOLEN

Loss of $3,000 In Jewelry, Money and Clothing Reported to Police In Last 48 Hours.

Burglars stole jewelry and clothes valued at nearly $3,000 from Omaha residence Wednesday. One attempt to blow open a safe was reported to the police.

While Mrs. Harry Fleharty, 4172 Chicago street, conversed freely with an unidentified solicitor at her home yesterday afternoon, a partner of the "confiding gentleman" ransacked her home and made his get-away with diamonds and jewelry valued at $1,200. Three diamond rings besides a gold watch and $125 in cash were taken from an upstairs room. Mrs. Fleharty told police she later saw the same man call at other homes in the immediate vicinity.

Bauer Says He Never Threatened to Shoot Miss Buckwalter; Declares Arrest Frameup

"Trusting Country Boy" Again Gets Into Lime-light; Miss La Rene Will Take Him Back.

In the arrest Wednesday night of Miss La Rene Buckwalter, 5016 Florence boulevard, as complaining witness against her former fiance, Joseph F. Bauer, wealthy young farmer of Morse Bluff, Neb., who was charged with shooting with intent to kill her, the prosaic story of the "trusting country boy" and the "dazzling city girl" was brought before police court. Police Judge Fitzgerald continued the hearing until Saturday.

Says Arrest "Frame Up."
Bauer alleges the arrest was a "frameup." He filed suit for $12,000 against his alleged former lover on April 8, charging "fraud, imposition and deceit," and last night in an alleged attempt to settle the case out of court, Bauer is said to have threatened to kill Miss Buckwalter.

Both were out riding in Miss Buckwalter's luxurious car. At Fifteenth and Harney streets, after the couple had had dinner with a Mr. Hill, according to Bauer's story, his former fiancee asked him to drive to Council Bluffs with her. Bauer refused.

Urges Her To Marry Him.
Then Bauer is said to have proposed to withdraw the suit against Miss Buckwalter, and sign over his 500-acre farm in Saunders county if she would consent to go to Chicago to marry him.

When she replied that she "wouldn't marry him if he signed over several farms," Bauer is said to have threatened her with a gun. Policeman Bugiewicz was called and arrested the couple.

"It's all a frame-up," Bauer said. "She wants to get the goods on me to withdraw the suit. Why, for more than one year that woman worked me for money, diamonds, an automobile and good times."

I met her in a cafe. I loved her, and thought her true. It was not until last month that I was aware that she was 'miking' me."

Advanced $12,000, He Says.
According to the suit filed in district court against Miss Buckwalter, Bauer advanced money amounting to $12,000, to his former fair sweetheart under the pretense that some time they would be married.

On July 15, 1918, three days before they were to be married and "live off the fat of the 500 acres," Miss Buckwalter was married to Jack Hurley, Omaha taxi man, who was then stationed at Camp Funston. Last October Bauer paid Miss Buckwalter to get a divorce from her husband so she could marry him, he said.

Says Detectives Watched Her.
Yesterday Miss Buckwalter laughingly said: "Well, Joe was a good sport. Just like the rest of those that fall. His clever ways of hiring private detectives to watch me weren't at all successful. I know. I'll take him back after the season's crops are in." Miss Buckwalter owns an extravagantly furnished home along the Prettiest Mile road.

Ever since the suit was filed in district court each has had private detectives spying on the other, according to statements by Miss Buckwalter.

HOW TO GROW TURNIPS

In the northern states it is an old saying that you "plant turnips the 25th of July, whether wet or dry." While this is not literally true, it is customary to plant turnips in July and on land that has produced a crop of early vegetables.

Turnips, however, may be grown to perfection during the early springtime, and throughout the south they furnish one of the main sources of early greens, in addition to the use of their roots. Fall-sown turnips produce winter and early spring greens throughout the southern states without any protection or special cultivation.

Where they are planted in the springtime the seeds are generally sown in rows about 14 inches apart and the plants thinned to about two inches in the row, the thinnings being used as greens. For fall planting the seed is generally sown broadcast and slightly raked into the soil.—United States Department of Agriculture.

There are big things just ahead — big money for the shrewd business man, also for the investor and trader. "NOW," says the Bankers Trust Company, in its current advertising, "take advantage of business opportunities." This applies to the investor as well.

Prices have been going up and you may already have missed some big profits — but you will miss some larger profits if you don't act now—it is not too late yet.

Goodbody & Company express our sentiments when they state:

Industrial stocks are strong for many reasons. Some of the most important ones are:

1. Because of greater assets than ever before.
2. Because of record earnings for the last two years.
3. Because of the profits tax and of efforts to hide earnings in depreciation, improvement and advertising charges, last year's profits were really greater than they were reported to be.
4. Business is reviving rapidly.
5. The crop outlook was never better.
6. Because of high wages, the demand for goods, luxuries as well as necessities, is greater than ever before.
7. Europe needs our food, clothing and machines. Partly because of labor troubles in England, Russia and Germany, we can supply most goods to Europe cheaper than she can supply them.
8. Because, as explained in previous letters, the rich holders of stocks that have had big advances, cannot afford to sell, when they must forfeit 70 per cent of their profits to the Government.

Our guess is that this last reason is the most important of all. In our opinion it is likely to make this year's stock market different from any market that has gone before.

We expect this year's market to be remarkable, both for the very high prices that will be reached by many stocks and for the relatively small reactions in these stocks.

STROUD & COMPANY, 1318-19-20 W. O. W. Bldg., OMAHA, NEBRASKA

We anticipate a dividend of between 25% and 30% on the present production, irrespective of the avenues of revenue derived from the manufacturing of motor trucks, truck bodies and farm tractors.

THE PRODUCTS — Motor Trucks, Truck Bodies, Farm Tractors, Grading Contractors' Equipment and Farm Implements — five specific industries under one head, each and every one assures a large profit.

A thousand dollars invested in an organization that only manufactures trucks, and because of some reason or other does not produce a dividend, then there is no dividend for the stockholder, but one thousand dollars invested in five specific products, manufactured under one head, makes the investment and the profit secure.

A QUESTION—Are there a profit and a demand for motor trucks?

ANSWER—According to the statement issued in connection with White Motor's annual report, this company delivered between 1914 and 1918, nearly 18,000 motor trucks of an aggregate value of over $52,000,000.

The dividends paid by Stroud & Co. over a period of five years preceding the war are as follows: 35 per cent, 33 per cent, 43 per cent, 33 per cent, 34 per cent, or an average yearly dividend of 35 per cent.

Stroud and Company Are Growing—Grow With Them

Stroud & Co., established in 1895, the home of the "Little Red Wagon" of nation-wide reputation, has outgrown its present limits, and finds it necessary to reorganize on a much larger scale to enable the company to properly care for its rapidly increasing business, which is bound to grow by leaps and bounds now that all government war restrictions are off.
