Victory Loan Notes

Victory Loan
Omaha is again to be visited by the Flying Squadron.

In former Liberty loan drives and Red Cross work the efforts of these squadrons have given momentum to the drives, and this time the squadron's momentous efforts will be directed to hastening the Victory ship on the court house in its course.

The squadron is to be composed exclusively of the pupils of Omaha high schools, which include Central High school, South Side High, Creighton High, Benson and the Commercial High schools; and it is to be known as the Flying Squadron, as in former campaigns.

The South Side High is already primed for the work. Thursday afternoon the representative called at woman's headquarters in the Masonic temple for their supplies.

The following women have added their names to the $1,000 club for the Victory drive:

Mrs. E. C. Allison	1,000
Mrs. R. Kimball	1,000
Mrs. S. Westbrook	1,000
Mrs. A. Koznick	1,000
Mrs. F. F. Folsom	1,000
Mrs. L. Kimball	1,000
Richard Kitchen	1,000
Samuel Rees, Jr.	1,000

Queen Marie to Receive Y. W. C. A. Photo Album From Foreign Women.

A book of photographs showing work of the Young Women's Christian association in the United States, France, Italy, Russia, China, Japan, the Hawaiian Islands and South America is being prepared by the Department of Foreign Born Women of the Y. W. C. A., to be presented to Queen Marie of Roumania, who is now in France with her three daughters.

The book was taken to France by Sarah Lyon, head of the Y. W. C. A. overseas office, who headed the Polish commission which the Y. W. C. A. sent abroad at the request of officials of Poland and Lithuania, as far as Paris.

This commission goes into Poland to prepare the way for the Polish Grey Samaritans, a group of P.C.I. girls who have been trained in first aid, social and welfare work by the Y. W. C. A. that they might go into Poland at the earliest opportunity to do reconstruction work among their own people.

A provision extending the full right of suffrage to women is expected to be included in the new constitution of Nebraska, which is to be drafted at a convention to be held in Lincoln in December and submitted to voters next year for ratification or rejection.

university is represented by Victory bonds.

Mrs. E. C. Summey spoke Thursday afternoon at the government corral, Twenty-second and Hickory streets, in the interests of the loan.

Mrs. L. M. Lord, chairman of the speaker's committee for the drive, when not speaking in its interests, is canvassing from house to house selling bonds and reports a great deal of success.

Two Victory Loan Workers

Mrs. A. L. Reed

Mrs. H. C. Summey

Mrs. A. L. Reed, who is in charge of the information desk at headquarters, is a faithful worker for the drive. She has charge of all calls and must know the whereabouts of the committee, sometimes a difficult task to fill.

Mrs. H. C. Summey, vice chairman of the speakers' committee, has not missed one day for the last two weeks on which she did not address a gathering of people in the interests of the drive.

Story of Extra Girl Who Had Experience

Movie Actress Tells How It All Happened for the Benefit of Other Girls.

By JEANNE JOHNSON.

Everyone wants to get into the movies, and everyone who tackles anyone who is in, gets the same advice: "Begin at the bottom. Start as an extra. If you've 'got the goods' you'll get ahead."

So that's what I did, and maybe other screen-struck girls—for I admit I'm one—will like to know just what it's like. Here in Los Angeles the preliminaries are easy enough—I just went to the "service bureau" an explained my qualifications. They didn't seem much impressed, although I had appeared in amateur theatricals, until I said I had three or four evening gowns. Then they thawed out, and sent me around to Universal City to play "atmosphere."

Well, it was 8:30 when I reported to Director Horne, who was producing "The Midnight Man." He looked me over and said he wouldn't need me until 11, but for me to be on hand by 10:30 sure. The assistant director showed me where to make up, and directed me to a big hall, partitioned into halves, one side for women, the other for men. Extras, you know, haven't separate dressing rooms.

I had grease paint, powder and pencils, but I didn't know what to do with them, and an old woman who looked like a witch, under a straggly wig and bedaubed with grease paint, took me under her wing. She was meant to look like a witch, I guess, but anyway her heart was in the right place. And let me say right here that all that day, and the days that I worked since (four altogether), I didn't meet anyone who didn't seem anxious to help me. I guess most of them started where I am, and they remembered it.

Well, my witch—or fairy godmother, as she seemed—explained all about make-up to me, and helped me fix up. She wanted to introduce me to a lot of queer looking people all around us—Arabs and negroes and old men with long whiskers and girls in short dance hall dresses. But I got cold feet and asked her not to, until I had time to get used to them.

I went over to the set feeling that everyone was staring at me, but I guess no one was. I found a scene being "shot," as they call it, and they kept on shooting it, and I sat around on bits of scenery and felt lost and lonesome.

At 12 o'clock Director Horne called: "Off to lunch, everybody." And still I hadn't acted, and my evening gown was getting all crumpled from sitting around in it.

In the cafeteria we all stormed the counters for food, and I picked up snatches of talk that I could understand—most of it might as well have been Greek, for it was all full of words I'd never heard. But everyone seemed nice and friendly and I began to feel at home.

Anyhow I saw the camera man grinding away on the corner of my eye, and I thought: "So I'm in pictures at last!"

But listen! When it was all over I learned I hadn't been in the scene at all—the "camera angle" didn't include my table. I nearly cried, but the director, Mr. Horne, saw how I felt and said maybe I'd have better luck next time, and to report next day for a scene with Kathleen O'Connor.

Maybe I wasn't tickled! I wonder if he saw anything in my acting, if you could call it that, that might make me think I would do. Or was it just that he saw I was about to cry? I wonder?

Household Service Problem May Be Reorganized If Plans Develop

It is predicted that within the next few years there will be no serious servant problem to interfere with an ambition to be head of a house. In England there is a movement to reorganize domestic service so that there will be established scales of wages, hours of work, and standards of efficiency. This movement is to be taken up in the United States according to reports received by the United States Department of Labor.

In London it has been found that munitions workers are not satisfied to return to their old places as cooks or housemaids since they have discovered that in factories they have exact hours and definite duties. After earning good wages they will not accept the smaller pay offered to those who belong to the living-in class of employees.

At a recent conference of the Woman's Legion Lady Londonderry, who presided, explained that in various counties plans were made to organize thoroughly and to affiliate with other bodies. "There will be no uniforms for the women actually in the service," she is quoted as saying, "but they will wear their legion badge and their long-service stripes."

The Woman's Legion hopes to provide instruction in nursing, domestic economy and child welfare. This is a step toward the final placing of household service on a plane where skilled workers will enjoy liberty and receive adequate compensation. It is believed that in time the professional woman cook will be recognized as a most important person, who will command the respect accorded to professional nurses and others who bring to their work trained hands and trained minds.—United States Department of Labor.

Royalty's Beautiful Women

Queen Marie of Rumania and Princess Helena

An unusually attractive portrait of Queen Marie of Rumania with her daughter, the Princess Helena, made during the queen's recent visit to London. Queen Marie and her daughter were forced to flee Rumania because of the internal troubles in that country. She visited Paris, later going to London, where, according to reports, she declared her intention of visiting the United States in the near future.

His Letter

By GRACE HAZARD CONKLING

Beyond the steel and the fire
Gleams the old desire.

War has not taken wonder away.
More poignant where its lightnings play.
The appeal of beauty's lonely cry!
I shall go dreaming till I die.
I see wind burnished coin bright
towers,
And roads that shine across the dew.
A dusk of forest and a line
Of light that silvers the design;
Always the shadowed and the bright,
A halo for the blackest night!
—Islands where I have never been!
The rainbow toppling down the green.

Of tilted sea that rack a ship:
The molten lava streams that slip
From fiery crater rims and fill
The dark with rose and daffodil;
Lakes mountain hid and spiritual;
The undiscovered waterfall
Like a white feather through the trees,
The undiscovered bird in these
green meadows, always alone, alone.
The lovely voice of the unknown—
This is Romance chameleon clad
That called me when I was a lad
That calls me now to follow well
Through blighted Picardy to hell.
A halo for the blackest night!
And freedom like the unknown bird
Was a wild voice I had not heard,
Was a pure voice I fought to hear!
These words to you, my very dear.

Beyond the steel and the fire
Gleams the old desire.
—From the Atlantic Monthly

One of the oldest survivors among the noted suffrage pioneers in America is Mrs. Olympia Brown-Willis, of Wisconsin, who will be 85 years old next January. For 60 years Olympia Brown, as she is best known, has been prominent as a preacher and lecturer. Early in her career she became identified with the equal suffrage movement and as long ago as 1857 she made several hundred speeches in the suffrage campaigns in Kansas. She is honorary president of the Wisconsin Woman's Suffrage association and a life member of the National American Woman Suffrage association.

A little village exists on the Cape of Shima, in Japan, the name of which in Japanese means "The Settlement of Nymphs." Woman in this village is the predominant partner. The chief industry is pearl-fishing, and it is the women who are the fishers. The men stay at home and do the housework.

Washington Women to Have Minimum Wage Scale They Declare

Fifteen dollars and fifty cents a week was recommended as the minimum wage upon which a woman without dependants can maintain herself at a proper standard of living in the District of Columbia, at the recent wage conference held in Washington under the new wage-minimum law of the district.

This conference was organized in March to consider the wages of women employed in private printing and publishing houses. If its recommendation is accepted by the minimum wage board, every woman employed in such establishments in the district must be paid not less than the sum specified. At present the board found about 75 per cent of the women in this industry in the district are paid less than $15 per week, and nearly half of them are paid wages ranging from $8 to $12 per week.

For learners or apprentices the conference recommended a rising scale of wage, beginning with $8 per week for the first three months, $9 for the second three months, $11 for the third three months, the full wage of $15.50 per week to apply at the end of one year.

The new minimum rates will probably be brought into operation sometime in August of this year. Before they can be put into effect a public hearing must be held, and then a 60-day period must elapse to permit employers to adjust their pay-rolls. After they do go into effect, however, any employer failing to pay the prescribed minimum will be subject to fine or imprisonment.

After many hours of patient figuring, a young woman of Edgar county, Ill., found she owed Uncle Sam an income tax of 3 cents, and paid the amount with her personal check.

Did you lose that job through a poor skin

There's many a person whose chances in life are limited simply because of a skin that is blotchy and un-presentable. Pimples, rough, red, ugly skins—skins that chap and burn easily—are usually most successfully treated with Resinol Ointment.

The joint use of Resinol Soap with Resinol Ointment usually produces the best results where facial blemishes are concerned, and is equally successful in treating other skin affections on limbs and body.
