

AUSTRIAN PEACE ENVOYS TO REACH PARIS THIS WEEK

Chancellor Renner, Head of the Delegation, Announces Relinquishment of Hopes for Fusion With Germany.

Paris, May 11.—The Austrian peace delegates will leave Vienna Monday and reach Paris probably Wednesday, the French foreign office advised today.

The question of the reparations that must be made by Austria-Hungary is being considered by President Wilson and Premier Lloyd George and Clemenceau. The question raises the difficult problem of apportioning whatever payments are required among the different territories of the former empire, some of which have been incorporated in the territories of the allied and associated powers.

Sounds Death Knell of Austria.
Vienna, May 11.—The death knell of old Austria was sounded in parliament when Chancellor Renner, in accepting the nomination as a peace delegate, said he relinquished all hopes for a fusion with Germany. His speech was made while the impression caused by the allies' terms to Germany was still strong.

The address was delivered within a stone's throw of the foreign office in Ballplatz, where the machinery of the war first was set in motion, five years ago.

The chancellor will be accompanied by Dr. Guertler of the Christian socialist party, and by Dr. Schoenbauer of the German nationalist party. Dr. Seitz, the president of the republic, was requested to go, but declined, in favor of Chancellor Renner. Herr Landesberger, president of the Anglo-Austrian bank, will be one of the financial experts with the mission.

"THE RED GLOVE" The Interrupted Wedding

Illustrated by H. Y. MAYER EPISODE No. 10

Starr Wiley had left Kern Thode a prisoner in the Hidden Valley, condemned to death. A courier had brought him word of the capture of Billie Murdaugh, the heiress to the Murdaugh millions, and he knew that the Vultures, that band of relentless outlaws, would show her no mercy. So he felt safe in striking out for the city and claiming as his bride Billie's cousin, to whom, he thought, the Murdaugh millions would fall.

And now Wiley, flushed with victory, the Red Glove safe in his possession, is about to wed the Murdaugh heiress, Billie's cousin. The guests are assembled in the great Murdaugh hall, the minister is about to start the service.

Former Kaiser's Personal Aide Relates Incidents Leading Up to Abdication
First Installment Tells How Army Leaders Laid Before Their Emperor the Facts Concerning the Revolutionary Movement in Rhenish Prussia During the Early Days of Last November.

Left to Ask Abdication.
"In the ante-room I met General Von Plessen and General Marschall, who told me that Hindenburg and Groener had left to see the kaiser and ask him to abdicate at once. My answer was: 'You all seem to be stark mad around here. The army is loyal to the kaiser. The two of them took me along to see the kaiser.'"

Needed Rest Badly.
"But after the men have a few days of rest, after they had had time to delouse themselves, after they have slept a decent night's sleep, when they can be housed in decent quarters where they have a chance of cleaning and recuperating, their leaders will again be able to control them and their fighting spirit will return. Of course, you cannot make the whole army in the west turn about face at a moment's command for the purpose of fighting a civil war in the interior of Germany."

Hits at Profiteers.
"I am sure our men will fall for this slogan if we tell them that the navy in conjunction with Jewish war profiteers and stay at homeers is stabbing them in the back and is depriving the field army of its food supplies. This slogan will take. I am sure it will arouse the men. It is bound to have a salutary effect on the whole country when the people see order restored by the force of arms in certain places, when they see we are determined to follow this up with similar action in other places. Determination is everything."

AdvO Coffee—Famous Brew
A teacher draws upon the board
A picture bold with gun and sword;
A trench-stove next with sure, swift stroke
It seemed complete even to the smoke.
"There's one thing you've left out," said John.
The teacher smiled, "The lid is on—
Is there anything I forgot?
"Yes, man, there is an AdvO pot
OF FAMOUS BREW, Get steam hot!"
Call up your grocer right away,
"Send AdvO COFFEE — no delay!"
The trench-stove does not need a stew
But AdvO COFFEE — FAMOUS BREW!

URGES GREATER REVELATION OF JEWISH SPIRIT

Dr. Obidiah Grossman Pleads for Recognition of Task Confronting Jews; $5,000 Subscribed.

For more than an hour and a half Dr. Obidiah A. Grossman, noted English lecturer, director for the central division of the Zionist Organization of America, and detailed by the headquarters at New York City to bring the message of Zionism to the Jews of this community, passionately pleaded with the 2,000 or more Jews who had assembled to hear him for a greater manifestation of the Jewish spirit and for recognition of the huge task confronting the Jews of the world, now that their claim to Palestine had been recognized.

The meeting was held at the Boyd theater at 9 o'clock Sunday evening. Immediately after the address by the distinguished speaker more than $5,000 was subscribed by members of the audience for carrying on the work of colonization in Palestine and for the purpose of enabling Jews of small means to emigrate to the "Promised Land."

Masses of Jews in Poland and Argentina and persecutions and pogroms in the countries of eastern Europe were condemned. "The hour and dawn of a new order of things has at last come," said Dr. Grossman. "We have at last realized a 2,000-year-old dream."

"The name of the Jew is bankrupt today. Do you know why? It is because the Jew has established nothing that is eminently his. Little Serbia is accorded two delegates at the peace conference. She is honored and listened to. Her desires are granted although she has produced not one eminent artist, philosopher, author or musician nor has she made one single great contribution to the science of the world since her inception. But she is accorded these honors at the peace conference because she has developed a national consciousness, a spirit that is willing to sacrifice everything for the welfare of the country."

"Jews have not been heeded and have been persecuted because they lack this national consciousness and are unable to stand solidly together for the things they want."

He paid a fervent tribute to President Wilson, characterizing him as the "greatest and most illustrious democrat and the most illustrious Jew since Moses." According to the decision of the members of the peace conference Palestine is to become a mandatory of Great Britain to be held for the Jews, he said.

A seething rebuke was given the Anti-Zionist organization who were characterized as traitors to the Jewish cause and to the 2,000-year-old Jewish ideals.

Henry Monsky, local attorney, introduced the speaker. He spoke of the wonderful progress made by the Zionist movement in the last few years.

Columbia Records Have Brand New Stunt This Month
Columbia records have a new stunt this month—"Chong," a Chinese rag, sung by Irving Kaufman, accompanied by an orchestra that has to work every minute. Both the song and the music are startlingly original. On the other side of the disc is another freak novelty hit, "One and Two and Three and Four, Rock-a-Bye," sung by the Peeries quartet. The first dance fan who heard it listened for a minute and then exclaimed: "Now start rocking your baby!"

My Heart and My Husband

Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

How Mrs. Stockbridge Accepted the Situation.
Mrs. Stockbridge's mouth flew open in uncontrollable amazement as she looked past Miss Holcombe to me. "Why—why?" she stammered, "You are surely not going to wear that spoiled dress?"
"Who said anything about a spoiled dress?" demanded Miss Holcombe. "Please revolve for the lady, Mrs. Graham."

I turned slowly around, giving my hostess a complete view of the refurbished gown.
"It was sure that stuff wouldn't come off!" she blurted, and then stopped short, flushing hotly at her inadvertent admission.
"It didn't," Miss Holcombe retorted dryly.
"Then how?" she choked a bit on the question. I saw that she was raging with baffled malice, and wondered whether Alice Holcombe was wise to tease her in the way she was doing. The same thought must have crossed to my friend, for she dropped her drawing, provocative tone, spoke briefly and to the point.

Real Self-Control.
"Why, you see, Mrs. Graham happened to have a piece of the goods in her opera bag, but it wasn't until after she had tried on your dress—indeed had started to fit it—that we happened to discover the fact that only one panel drapery of her white gown was touched by the calcimine. It was really no task at all to replace it with the new goods. Don't you think we did a good job?"
I believe there were many emotions battling for utterance in Milly Stockbridge's soul of which the strongest was probably regret that she had not done a more complete job in the "calcimining" of my gown. But to the credit of her self-control, which rumor attributed to her recent sanatorium sojourn, she crushed them all down, forced her lips to a smile and her voice to courtesy, although both smile and voice were decidedly acid.

"Indeed, you have succeeded admirably," she said, then with a touch of stiffness: "Did you get very far with the alteration of my gown before you found out that Mrs. Graham's could be fixed?"
"Nothing that cannot be put back easily," Alice Holcombe replied. "Simply a couple of seams ripped—I'll run over tomorrow and put them back."
"You needn't trouble," Mrs. Stockbridge retorted quickly, then stiffly to me: "Shall we go downstairs now?"
The voice of the maid, Christine, interrupted.
"If you please, ma'am, these just came. Lieutenant Graham says they're with his compliments."

A Happy Transition.
She was laden with three florists' boxes. In her surprise Mrs. Stockbridge stepped backward, and I signalled to the girl to lay her burden upon the bed. I knew that Dicky had intended providing flowers for his hostess, Miss Holcombe and myself, but in the excitement over my gown had completely forgotten them. Miss Holcombe promptly seized the opportunity to obliterate the incident of the gown.

"Three, count 'em, three!" she exclaimed. "By the pricking of my thumbs I feel one must be for me. But what have I done to deserve it?"
"Yet unworthy as you are," I mocked, "one is certainly for you. Come, let's open them."
I opened my opera bag, took out a pair of scissors, snipped the cords from all three boxes, and handed the ones marked for the other women to them. In another moment the room was full of the fragrance of roses, also of exclamations of pleasure from all of us. Ever Milly Stockbridge's dark, spiteful face was lighted at the glowing crimson roses which were in her box, while Alice Holcombe's eyes, as she lifted the deep, creamy blossoms with the golden hearts forming their tissue wrappings, were dancing with pleasure. My own offering was a cluster of the real "rose color" roses which I most admire, and I gave an instinctive little shudder of relief as I glanced at the atrocious gown on the bed and visualized how the delicate blossoms would have looked against it. As it was they gave just the right touch of color to my white gown.

"We never can wear all these," Mrs. Stockbridge said.
"We were never intended to do so," I replied. "The rest are for our later pleasure. I would advise that we take what we wish and leave the rest in the boxes. Then if anything happens to our flowers we can slip up and replace them."
"What a lovely idea!" Miss Holcombe said enthusiastically. "I never yet sat through a dinner without some accident happening to my flowers. Now I shan't care. I can just replace them after dinner for the evening reception."
We selected the blossoms we wished, and adjusted them. As we did so, the bell rang.
"Oh, I ought to be downstairs this minute!" Mrs. Stockbridge said nervously. "That must be the Prices. Bess Dean came in 10 minutes ago."

VERY CHOICE VAN DYCK CIGAR
FOUR SELECT SIZES
We suggest STAPLES: 2 for 25¢
THE RESULT COUNTS MOST
As you smoke a Van Dyck Cigar you will realize that here at last is something very choice.
This superior quality is due to many reasons. An unusual stock of the better tobaccos is drawn from to secure a blend that is very choice. Ripe manufacturing experience contributes workmanship beyond the common kind.
But the reasons will not interest you anywhere as much as the result—the very choice result.
