Miss Gamble Is Bride of Mr. Wayne Selby

Marriage Took Place Amid Bower of Roses at the M-Clanahan Home.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Gamble and Mr. Wayne Selby was celebrated Wednesday evening at half after 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride's relatives, Dr. and Mrs. H. M. McClanahan.

The McClanahan home was a bower of greens and roses for the occasion. In the reception room large bouquets of white lilacs were used profusely, backed with palms and ferns. The drawing room carried a decorative scheme of pink. In one corner a miniature altar banked with ferns was built under a canopy of Ophelia roses and greenery. Here the marriage lines were read by Dr. A. F. Ernst. In the library lavender lilacs, Killarney roses and potted ferns were used in abundance and the dining room decoration was centered on the table. This was elaborately trimmed with strands of greens, hung from a centerpiece consisting of a cone-shaped basket filled with pink and white roses and extending to the four corners of the table. Here they joined bouquets made of combination of sweet peas, roses, violets and lilies of the valley.

Miss Katherine Selby and Mr. Maurice Holloway stretched the ribbons to the air of the Mendelssohn wedding march, played by Miss Elizabeth Underwood. Miss Selby wore a gown of apricot satin. The square-cut bodice was trimmed with tulle and the skirt made round length and draped.

Preceding the bride came the maid of honor, Miss Mildred Rhoades. Her gown was of lavender satin. The tight bodice was finished on the shoulders with pink ostrich tips and the skirt was cut on train and draped. With this was worn a pink mahlina hat trimmed with lavender ostrich tips. Miss Rhoades' bouquet was a shower of pink Killarney roses, lavender sweet peas, and lilies of the valley.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Frank Selby. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Dr. McClanahan, was lovely in a gown of white satin. The bodice was cut jacket effect and trimmed with seed pearls and rhinestones and was finished with long angel sleeves of tulle edged with pearls. The skirt was tight and draped. The long train fell from the shoulders and her veil, one of the coronet cap effects, was edged with a strand of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of white brids roses, orchids and lilies of the valley.

A wedding reception followed the ceremony, when the near friends of the family were guests. Mrs. McClanahan received the guests in a gown of orchid velvet. The low-cut bodice was trimmed with silver lace and the draped skirt was cut on train.

Mrs. Selby's go-away suit was made of blue tulle. The jacket was made with a henna silk duvetyne vest and with this was worn a close-fitting hair braid hat.

After a wedding trip of two weeks, the whereabouts a secret, Mr. and Mrs. Selby will be at home with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Selby, until their home at Fifty-first and Cumming streets is completed.

Conductorettes In Far Away Philippines Create Great Excitement In Street.

Not to be outdone in progressiveness by their occidental neighbors, Filipino girls have recently walked right into well-paying jobs as "conductorettes" on the new auto-bus lines established at Manila to supplement the war-time shortage of street cars in that city. In spite of the initial shock conveyed to the conservative element of the islands people at the appearance of native girls in positions hitherto filled exclusively by men, information reaching the United States Department of Labor indicates that the experiment has been pronounced a marked success, the directors of the company having expressed themselves as being highly gratified with the results, and the girls, with their 40 pesos a month jingling in their pockets, being equally delighted.

In view of the great difficulty previously experienced in handling the passenger traffic in Manila and other places the auto-bus innovation has been in the nature of a godsend, especially to that portion of the population dependent upon cheap transportation, and the enthusiastic reception which has greeted these mammoth cars as they go lumbering through the streets has not been lessened by the presence upon them of the trimly uniformed conductorettes, each equipped with an official whistle and with a collection box swung in a businesslike way from their shoulders.

There are at present 13 busses in operation on the various lines and this number is expected to increase to 50 within a few months' time. The type of car now in use carries about 30 passengers, but the new cars, it is said, will have a capacity of 60 people. Up to date between three and four million fares have been carried, averaging around a million a month or more.

Battle of Movie Sexes

Do you prefer a man or woman boss? And you, Mr. Boss and Madame Boss, would you rather have men or women working under you? Why?

Now let there be no mistake as to who is boss on a moving picture "lot." The star may get the publicity, but it's the director who runs the show. Part of his job is making the star think he or she is running it, but the director is boss, and don't forget it.

Would directors rather have women stars or men stars to work with? And would the stars rather work for men or women? Here are some contrasting opinions:

STARS

Men for Me.

By Ruth Clifford.

I like men directors. They know what they want, and they get it. They get out their productions on schedule time, and obstacles that arise are only incentives for extra effort. Women are more likely to succumb to circumstances.

In my recent work in "The Millionaire Pirate," with Monroe Salisbury, I realized how efficient a good male director is. Rupert Julian put the production through without a hitch, and I think I did the best work I've ever done.

Mr. Julian inspired me with a sense of accomplishment. I just had to give him the best that was in me. I've felt the same way about other men directors. Working under women has been pleasant, but working under men is much more satisfactory.

Sympathetic Director Touch.
By Mary MacLaren.

Women directors are more sympathetic than men. Given an equal understanding of the craft, and equal experience, and a woman director will inspire one with a sense of understanding.

Men are more inclined to order things done—to try to force emotion. Women make their effects more subtly by coaxing their charges into the proper mood, by making them feel their parts.

Men, too, are always recking the big things of life. They disregard, in my opinion, the smaller things that are even more significant. The finer points of a woman's nature are almost beyond man's comprehension.

"The Lady Doctor" to Be Presented by High School Students.

"The Lady Doctor," to be presented by the girls of the Central High School Freshman Student club to send a delegate to the national convention of student clubs in Lake City Minn., July 2 to 10, will be given Saturday, May 17, in the Young Women's Christian Association's auditorium in place of May 23, as previously planned.

The play will be accompanied by several shorter numbers and contains many humorous situations. The troubles of Dr. Mason, the lady doctor, form the theme of the plot. Miss Frances McHenry will act this part. Miss Mary Bryant will take the role of "Nora," the maid, and Miss Virginia Jones of Jane Simpkins. The wealthy Miss Van Style will be impersonated by Miss Inez Shamp, while Miss Marjorie Crichton will play the part of "Marie," Miss Virginia Frantz that of "Ella," and Miss Marion Bancroft, "Bertha."

DIRECTORS

Men—Every Time.

By Rupert Julian.

It's hard enough to direct men, but women are worse. Men, by comparison, are sensible, dependable, and willing to work for fame, instead of just waiting for it to come. They are used to discipline, and take orders better than do women.

The women—God bless 'em—become "temperamental" as soon as they begin to climb. Men are always willing to work for the director, but women want the director to work for them.

Women, too, are more inclined to "hog the camera." They dislike having any of the cast featured too strongly. Men, on the other hand, are more inclined to be generous. Monroe Salisbury, for instance, always wants the best cast obtainable.

It will be news to most people, too, that the contracts of many women stars provide that they are to have as many "close-ups" per picture as they wish. Can you imagine a man doing any like that?

The Feminine Star.
I fail to see how any director can prefer a man to a woman for a star.

The average male is as full of conceit as a lemon is of juice. And I use lemon, advisedly for comparison.

Girls, however, seldom forget the part that their directors have had in their success, and are correspondingly grateful and tractable.

Then, too, it is a typically masculine trait to wish for possession. Watch an average leading man as he tries to "steal the scene" from the star he is supposed to be supporting, and you will realize my meaning.

The Highland fling will be danced in costume by Miss Arline Rosenberg. A doll shop kept by Miss Edith Weir, at which Miss Arline Rosenberg is a purchaser, figures in the story. The following will take the poses of the dolls: Miss Mildred Osman, French; Miss Margaret Logan, clown; Miss Miriam Moser, Indian; Miss Grace Hall, colonial; Miss Carmen Longman, darky; Miss Evelyn Westgate, sailor; Miss Mildred Cohn, Dutch, and Miss Christina McGaffin, farmer.

The play is being directed by Miss Blanch Eads. The girls are conducting their play independent of the boys.

Y. W. H. A. Informal Dance.
The Y. W. H. A. will give an informal dancing party Saturday evening, May 17, at the Castle hotel. This will be the last and the largest affair planned by the club before the summer activities begin. Elaborate preparations have been made for the evening, and a large attendance is expected. Proceeds will be given to the summer camp fund.

"Fi-Fi" Parties.
Tickets for reserved seats began to leave the box office of the Brandeis theater at 10 o'clock Thursday morning for "Fi-Fi of the Toy Shop," which will be presented by the First Central Congregational church Saturday matinee and night. The final rehearsals will be held Friday in the theater. Box parties and line parties are being arranged for both performances.

Pupils Recital.
Mr. Cecil Berryman will present his pupils in recital at the Y. W. C. A. auditorium, Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Walter P. Smith of St. Johnsbury, who has been appointed chairman of the State Library commission, is the first woman to serve as head of any state board in Vermont.

One of the very earliest of women writers mentioned by historians was Mary of France, who, in the 13th century verified the old traditional tales of America into those Lays of the Romance language, of which the manuscript still exists among the earliest specimens of romantic fiction.

Sleeveless Blouse of Charmeuse

By GERTRUDE BERESFORD.

Sleeveless blouses, made of brilliantly colored silk, which were so popular last summer, have returned to favor with no diminishing of the demand for such smart accessories of the summer toilet. Rose charmeuse satin makes this blouse, which is cut like a sleeveless jumper. The front laps over the back at the underarm seam and continues into sash ends which hold the fullness of the blouse at the waistline.

The back is cut longer than the front and drops below the sash in the form of a peplum. A collar of white georgette satin finishes the neck of this blouse and a row of buttons covered with rose charmeuse outlines the large armholes. Such a blouse is very effective in pink, blue or orange and looks its best when worn with an undergarment of white georgette crepe and a skirt of white boronnet satin.

Happy Hollow Club to Open Saturday, May 24, With One Flag.

The special feature planned for the opening of the Happy Hollow club Saturday evening, May 24, will be the absence of the allied flags, that have hung side by side with the Stars and Stripes since our entry into the war.

The war, of which no one wishes to be reminded, is to be relegated to the back ground and the entry of a gay season of peace is heralded. An elaborate decoration of flags is on the schedule. The Stars and Stripes will be everywhere, in every nook and corner. The entertainment committee, of which Mr. Frank Buita is chairman, plans to abandon the usual cabaret at the club openings.

May Festival.
A four days May festival and bazaar opened Wednesday evening at St. Berchmans academy. A program will be given each evening by the choral society of the academy.

Brinkman and Miss Josephine Berger, violinist, will play, Friday evening's program will consist of the regular choral chorus and solos by the violin and vocal pupils of the school. Saturday afternoon the pupils of Miss Addie Fogg will give the program.
