

HUNTLEY WILL RETURN TO FACE COURT CHARGES

Editor of Mediator Says Accusation of Blackmail Will Be Adjudicated When Ringer Explains About Gambling.

Edwin L. Huntley, editor of the Mediator, a weekly newspaper, against whom a charge was filed in police court yesterday charging him with attempted blackmail, last night gave out a statement through his attorney, Frank R. Keegan, in which he declared he would return to Omaha as soon as possible to face the charge.

Huntley was in Kansas City when the complaint was filed, which charged him with attempting to collect $100 from James Patterson, proprietor of the Patterson Carnival company, on the plea that if Patterson paid the money Huntley would not publish a story exposing the fact that gambling games were being operated in connection with the show at Twenty-first and Paul streets.

Motion to Dismiss Brewers' Injunction Denied by U. S. Court

New York, May 17.—United States Judge Augustus N. Hand today denied motions made on behalf of the government asking for dismissal of the injunction suit brought by the Jacob Hoffman Brewing company for the purpose of retaining federal officials from performing their duties in enforcing the prohibition laws of the United States.

The Hoffmann suit is designed to prevent the government from interfering with the manufacture of beer containing not more than 2.75 per cent by weight of alcohol, and challenges the constitutionality of the wartime prohibition law. The action is the first of a series of such suits brought by brewing concerns in this district.

District Attorney Caffey argued that the Hoffmann complaint did not state sufficient facts to constitute a cause of action, that the United States cannot be sued without its consent, and that the complainant company had no right to ask the federal court to enjoin officials from performing their duty of enforcing laws of the United States.
