grand inspector general for Nebraska, which will be under the direction of Carl E. Herring, 33d. master of Nebraska consistory No. 1; Zoro D. Clark, commander St. Andrew's preceptory No. 1, Knights Kadosh; Fred Rogers, master Semper Fidelis chapter, No. 1, Knights Rose Croix; and Edgar M. Hoag, master Mount Moriah Lodge of Perfection No. 1. On Thursday degrees from the Fourth to the Fifteenth, inclusive, will be exemplified or communicated; on Friday from the Sixteenth to the Thirtieth, inclusive, and on Saturday the Thirty-first and Thirty-second. At the banquet on Saturday evening Dr. Donald Macrae will be the principal speaker. The class will be made up largely of Omaha Masons who were unable to take the degrees at the regular spring reunion in March, but a great many petitions have been received from different parts of the state and a large attendance of visitors is assured.

Educator Will Lecture.

Prof. W. E. DuBois, prominent as a negro educator and speaker, will deliver a lecture tonight in the Auditorium, under the auspices of St. John's African Methodist church. He will have an interesting and instructive message for the colored people of Omaha, and it is announced by the committee in charge that white people will appreciate the thoughts expressed by this representative of his race.

The reason why we say Mary Pickford IN Daddy Long Legs will break all house records in Omaha is because we know the people of this city will appreciate clean, wholesome entertainment more than anything else; and if you can find a cleaner or more wholesome picture than this one—tell us where we can get it.

South Side MANY ANIMALS TO MARKET BY AUTO TRUCK

Hauling Grows by Leaps and Bounds Since Return Load Plan Was Adopted by Merchants.

The importance of the truck as a medium for marketing hogs and live stock of all kinds was evidenced by the run of hogs hauled to market Wednesday.

At 11 o'clock 1,127 animals had been unloaded and 254 head were waiting.

There have been more than 2,000 hogs brought in by trucks in one day and it is expected with the system of return loads, this method of marketing hogs will be more common.

There have been established several truck lines that bring live stock to the market and return with merchandise.

The bureau of markets has a representative here from the motor transport service for the organization of this territory, and is receiving co-operation of the truck and tire companies. They are advocating good roads and assisting in the establishment of lines from Iowa and Nebraska towns.

Gleaves and Wife in Court, Kiss and Then Make Up

"I'm a strong-minded woman and he's a weak-minded man," was Mrs. William Gleaves' explanation of her troubles when she had her husband, William, brought into police court Wednesday, charged with nonsupport. They are each 50 years old and had been married 10 years.

The judge listened to the tales of "what he did" and "what she did," "how her family interfered," and "how he refused to give her money" until a moment of calm came. Then he told them to go home and begin all over again and report to him July 1.

"You're both too old to act like children," said the judge. They looked at each other. "If he'll not keep secrets and money both from me," she hesitated. "If she'll not have her whole family live on me," he hesitated. And then they left the court room together.

Over 300 Teachers to Lunch in Live Stock Exchange Saturday

More than 400 teachers, members of the Omaha School Forum, will have luncheon at the Omaha Live Stock exchange on the South Side at 12:15 Saturday noon. Principal J. G. Masters of the Central High school will preside. W. E. Reed, president of the school board, will address the teachers.

Special preparations have been made by the street car company to accommodate the teachers. A number of extra cars will be placed on the cross-town lines for them.

The luncheon is one of a series to acquaint the members of the forum with the large industrial and commercial institutions of the city, as well as with the men heading these institutions.
