PUBLIC SHOWS ANTAGONISM TO REFERENDUM

Returns From Circulators of Petitions Indicate That Opposition to Code Bill Is Waning.

Lincoln, Neb., May 28.—From indications it is becoming evident that the attempt to invoke the referendum of the civil code and the primary laws is falling down. People coming to Lincoln from out in the state report that as rule there is a desire to see the new laws put in force first, before being called upon to pass judgment upon them.

The referendum on both bills started out with a great deal of a hurrah, but as soon as the echo died away, the thing appeared to fall of its own weight. Generally speaking, the voters of the state are usually just a little suspicious when a bunch of politicians who have always opposed a law and did their best to defeat it in the legislature, get together and organize to defeat by referendum what they could not accomplish during the session.

Both Laws Discussed.
People are beginning to understand that even as good a law as the referendum can be used wrongly. When the legislature enacted the law it was for the purpose of giving the people a chance to pass judgment upon any law, where it appeared that questionable methods might have been used to have it passed with undue influences behind it. The code and the primary laws were both discussed thoroughly and the members knew just exactly what they were voting upon.

There were half a dozen bills introduced in the legislature covering amendments to the primary law. The law that was finally passed was the outcome of the best judgment of the members based on what was contained in all of those laws. The two laws were not passed in the closing days of the session when the members were tired out and wanting to go home, as represented by the people who are invoking the referendum.

To Keep Record Straight.
Just to make the record straight and let the people know the facts in the case the records on the two bills is given.

Senate File 2, the code bill, was considered by the senate in committee of the whole, March 18, 19, 20, 21 and 24, and recommended for third reading on the last named date. It passed the senate March 27 by a vote of 18 to 13 and was sent to the house, where public hearings were had before the house committee. The bill was considered in committee of the whole April 5 and again April 8, when it was ordered engrossed for third reading and finally passed April 10 by a vote of 60 to 33.

House Roll No. 323, the primary bill, passed the house April 9 by a vote of 51 to 41 and went to the senate, where it passed after a long discussion by a vote of 18 to 11, April 15.

Not at End of Session.

The legislature adjourned April 22, so as far as the bills being passed during the closing moments as published by the referendum promoters, the foregoing speaks for itself.

The charge has been made that the primary bill was passed by the votes of reactionaries and politicians interested in the old convention methods. If people would look up the vote both in the house and the senate it could be easily seen that most of the progressive members of the legislature supported the bill.

Here is the affirmative vote in the senate: Aiolay, Bradstreet, Bushie, Cooper, Good, Hall, Harris, Hoagland, Houston, Johnson, Randall, Reed, Robbins, Saunders, Simon, Sturm, Tanner and Watson.

Vote in House.

In the house it appears that there was no question but that the bill had the support of the progressive element. The affirmative vote was: Allan, Anderson of Knox, Axtell, Baker, Barbour, Berka, Bertha, Briggs, Burgess, Burney, Byrum, Carroll, Christy, Cole, Crosier, Davis, Dyball, Filley, Frantz, Fultz, Gerhart, Gifford, Good, both Greens, Hart, Hardin, Harris, Hedges, Hostetter, Jacobson, Jeary, Jensen, Larsen, Lundgren, Mathewson, McLaughlin, McLeod, Meares, Stout, Reynolds, Rodman, Shaw, Sturdevant, Thompson, Tracewell, Van Patten, Williams, Windham and Speaker Dalbey.

Leaders in every progressive act of the legislature can be found in the list of names shown herewith as voting for the amended primary bill, and any effort upon the part of the men who are trying to keep the people from having a chance to see how the new law will work out by telling the voter that the bill was passed by a "bunch of old-time politicians and non-progressives," is not borne out by the records.
