

BOYS RETURN IN NEW OUTFITS FOR OMAHA WELCOME

Shoes, Breeches, Tunics, In Fact, Everything the Nebraska Soldiers Wear Is Brand New.

(By Union Pacific Press Bureau.)
When the Nebraska men of the 89th division got home they were all togged out in completely new outfits. Shoes, breeches, tunics and, in fact, everything was issued to them while in the debarkation camps. The old, war-worn hob-nailed boots, the torn or dirty uniforms which were companions of hard days in the Argonne and in Germany was turned in for cleaning and repair.

In issuing the new clothing, enough equipment of assorted sizes for the entire organization is sent up to one point, usually headquarters, each unit sending over a supply squad to pick out what they need.

It is a great scramble in some places. Some companies need all large sizes, others have to carefully select the outfits for their different men. Some of them need big shoes and other units demand small ones. Each one is on its toes, as it were, to get the best for their men in order to make a good showing on the great day when they get home. There is a great picking and choosing when word comes to carry away the new duds, and woe to the unit whose squad is late and gets only the leavings. It is likely to send home all of its perfect shoes in size 48 uniforms or give them 10 1/2 shoes to squeeze 14 size feet into.

A captain rushed into his company billet, wild-eyed and out of breath. "Turn out a squad on the run," he panted. "The clothing issue is at headquarters and they've notified most of the other companies first. Get down there quick if you fellows don't want to go home looking like scarecrows."

The supply squad took it literally "on the run" and arrived at headquarters in phalanx formation. The ensuing scene resembled nothing so much as a first-class trench raid, but they got what they went after, retiring victorious with the proper-sized clothes as their "loot."

Huns Claim Saar Detached On Account of Coal Fields

Paris, Wednesday, May 28.—In the section treating on territorial questions the German counter proposals to the terms presented by the allies say, according to a synopsis reaching Paris by the way of Basel that "the territory of the Saar inhabited by 600,000 persons, is to be detached from the German empire solely because of claims upon its coal."

It is pointed out that during 15 years the territory is to be subject to the control of a commission "in the nomination of which the population has no choice."

Regarding Schleswig-Holstein, the German reply remarks that the frontier which will be voted upon under the stipulations of the treaty "goes much further even than the Danish government desires."

Plans for Dinner to Taft Are Practically Matured

Preparations for the dinner to be given Saturday night to William H. Taft and his associates are being rapidly completed. Between 400 and 500 men and women will assemble at the Hotel Fontenelle to dine with and listen to the internationally prominent men and women in whose honor the dinner will be given.

John Lee Webster, who is arranging the dinner, states that the dinner is of a non-political character. It is being given by way of showing the appreciation of this city to its distinguished guests. It is meant to be a personal compliment.

Germans Continue to Seek Reduction of Indemnities

Berlin, May 29.—(By the Associated Press).—According to a semi-official statement the full indemnity which Germany offers to pay in her county proposals to the peace terms will include sums going to Belgium against advances by the allies and also the value of all military and civil property surrendered by Germany since the armistice.

It is further conditioned upon territorial arrangements. That is, if the imperial territory is reduced, the sum to be paid must be correspondingly distributed. Alsace-Lorraine and Posen, for instance, bearing their proportionate shares.

Invoice Shows Austrian Crown Jewels Are Missing

Vienna, May 29.—(By Associated Press).—The greater portion of the imperial jewels, whether belonging to the Austrian crown or privately owned by the former emperor, have been substituted with spurious stones.

This fact was discovered during an inventory of the crown property. The list of missing stones includes gems of great value, which were world famed. The gems included rubies and pearls and diamonds weighing from 20 to 100 carats.

International Company Buys Big Plow Concern

According to a telegram received by C. H. Peterson, branch manager of the International Harvester Company of America at Omaha, the Harvester company purchased the Chattanooga Plow company, one of the foremost American manufacturers of chilled and disk plows. There will be no change of the corporate name, the purchase having been effected by acquisition of the seller's capital stock. The transfer will take place on June 1, 1919.

The Golden West to the Golden Star

(Memorial Day, 1919.)

Oh! Hearts of Oak that sailed out from the West
With colors flying, to save the oppressed;
In Nation's service you were laid to rest,
Not dead, but sleeping, America's best!
Today, so sanctified, you rise again,
Death never comes to such brave men;
We meet you, greet you, near and far,
We of the Golden West—Ye of the Golden Star!

—JOSEPH MEINRATH.

BIGGEST THRILL WILL BE WELCOME DOUGHBOYS SAY

Boys Refuse to Talk War; They Only Want to Know About Home, the Folks 'n Ev'rything.

(By Union Pacific Press Bureau.)
"What was your greatest thrill?" was the question asked an Omaha Doughboy of the 89th division by a well intentioned interviewer. "I haven't had it yet," was the reply. "That's coming when I step off of the train at home and see my mother waiting for me on the platform."

It is a case of the interviewer getting interviewed when an attempt is made to question the young veterans regarding their experience in France. Such a question as "What was your most narrow escape?" is very likely to be answered by "What's doing in Omaha?"

If you ask them how many boches they killed they'll reply by quizzing you about the movie shows in Lincoln. If you want to find out about the battle of the Argonne, you will more than likely have to tell all about affairs in Fremont first.

In short, France is behind these boys of the 89th. Home is ahead. The men who have lived war, and thought war for months on end are "fed up" on it. The longest period of the war, say the boys, is the short time between debarking from overseas and entraining for the home. It may be but four or five days, but it seems like a year. They are fairly counting the minutes in their eagerness to get away, and thinking of nothing but home.

Those who come to ask, therefore, remain to tell, and they usually find the holder of a Croix de Guerre or distinguished service cross far more interested, in finding out about the crops in Nebraska than in relating how he got his decoration.

Little to Be Seen of Former Kaiser; Says Attitude Is Unchanged

Amerongen, May 29.—(By the Associated Press).—Since the former German emperor has been acquainted with the peace terms he has become even more invisible to the outer world. The only possibility of catching a glimpse of him is when he crosses the drawbridge twice daily, going to and returning from his log sawing in the garden of the castle.

Replying to a request for a declaration, the former emperor sent the following words: "Tell the Associated Press that my attitude is unchanged."

peror's life or plans, as everybody in the castle is under strict orders to maintain silence.

The only portion of the peace terms which interests the imperial exile is the clause relating to himself.

The former empress appears to be more affected than her husband and is evidently under the impression that the powers will succeed in bringing him before a tribunal.

Daniels Would Keep Yeowomen in Service

Washington, May 29.—Secretary Daniels likes the work of the 8,000 yeowomen of the navy so well that he wants to keep some of them in the service indefinitely. At any rate he is preparing to recommend that a sufficient number to carry out the clerical work of the Navy department be retained for a year.

RESCUE OF HAWKER AND GRIEVES MADE WITH DIFFICULTY

Airmen Greatly Exhausted When Picked Up; Waves Made Task Hard.

Horsens, Denmark, May 29.—(By the Associated Press).—The Danish steamer Mary, which rescued Harry G. Hawker and Lieutenant Commander Grievess, in mid-Atlantic on May 19, when they were compelled to descend during their attempt to fly from Newfoundland to Ireland, arrived here early today. Capt. Duhn and his mates told of the rescue of the aviators.

Second Mate Hoye had the watch when at 6 o'clock on the morning of Monday, May 19, they sighted the airplane, which came down into the sea off the bow of the ship. Hoye and Schwartz immediately prepared to launch a boat and with First Mate Schubert, Seaman Fred Jensen and Christian Larsen, the ship's carpenter, they set out for the airplane. The crew of the Mary had considerable difficulty in launching a boat and Capt. Duhn said he doubted whether it would have been possible to do so had the airplane appeared an hour later than it did.

Airman Greatly Exhausted. Hawker and Grievess were greatly exhausted after the rescue, the captain said, so much so that they declined proffered food in order to obtain needed sleep. Capt. Duhn declared that the aviators naturally were upset because the Mary had no wireless and they were unable to inform their relatives that they were safe. The captain said that Hawker also was somewhat disappointed because he was unable to salvage the airplane so that he might learn definitely the reason why he had failed.

"When I came on the bridge," Captain Duhn said, "the machine had already alighted on the water. The airman told us that before coming down they had dropped rockets, but we did not see them. The work of saving the airman was pretty difficult, because it was blowing very hard. Hawker and Grievess were in water up to their waists, but their watertight suits kept them dry."

Rescue Difficult. Asked whether the crew of the lifeboat was in serious danger in effecting the rescue, the captain replied: "I will not say serious danger, but, as I said, it was a rather difficult hour before they succeeded in reaching the airman."

"All the airman wanted to do was to sleep. They told us that from the very start they realized everything was not quite in order, but that they had comforted themselves with the hope that later they would get the fight effects from their motor. To defect, however, became more and more apparent and the speed of the motor steadily lessened. They were very pleasant fellows and we were the best of friends with them. When they had had their sleep out and got a good meal with a glass of 'schnapps' they were all right."

DR. CLARK
The Painless Dentist
BENCRE

Infected roots, so-called blind abscesses, and pyorrhea, some of the causes of reported cases of excessive headache and neuralgia, were probably preventable. If a competent dentist could obtain full history of these cases, it would be found that the lack of proper care of the teeth were the real cause of these diseases. Deaths indirectly due to dental diseases are an important factor in the mortality of the nation, and it behooves the individual to take care of the teeth and mouth, so that there will be no chance of becoming a victim of the mouth and teeth infection.

Our Nation Bows in Reverence

MEMORIAL DAY! Day of sacred recollection! Today made more solemn by recent sacrifice.

Today we consecrate the graves of not alone the heroes of an older day, but of much of the flower of our youth of the present generation.

In other days we mourned for those who battled that a free nation might be preserved; today we lament for those who gave their all that the whole world might be liberated.

As we kept our faith with the elders, so shall we keep faith with the young. We shall shape the destiny of this nation so the fruit of their great sacrifice shall ripen—for us, and for the generations that come after.

A tear for those who nobly died that we might live in peace—sleeping today on native soil, or beyond the seas. A nation bows in reverence.
