Just a Kiddy

While Elsie Ferguson was in Miami, where the cast journeyed in order to take some beautiful scenes for "Eyes of the Soul," she discovered a cute little boy playing in the park. He was dressed in soldier costume and immediately removed his little cap from his curly blonde head when she approached him. He was really just the type that Director Emile Chautard had been hoping to find for the picture.

Knowing this Miss Ferguson asked the boy how he would like to work in the picture. He was delighted at the prospect and, after receiving permission from his parents, he appeared at the location ready for work. Wyndham Standing, who plays the role of a blind soldier in the picture, keenly interested the youngster, who thought Mr. Standing was really blind. After the day's work was over, Mr. Chautard said to him, "Well, my little man, what do we owe you?" "It has been a pleasure to help a blind soldier," said the youngster, standing at salute. "Give my pay to him." The director did not disillusion the lad, but thanked him and told him he was a very patriotic little American. Before the company left Miami, however, Mr. Chautard sent the youngster his compliments and a handsome gift.

Demurely printed organdies are being made up into charming little dresses, the lines of which conform to the fabric motifs, and this develops models of exquisite qualities. Plain colored organdies are also used, many trimmed with lace.

Miss Lea Lipsey Again in the Limelight

Miss Lea Lipsey

The university commencement festivities came to a close Monday evening with a performance of "Martha of the Lowlands" by the university players. Aside from the meager stage facilities, the performance marks one of the highest points of accomplishment in university dramatics.

Miss Lea Lipsey, who had been seen in Ibsen's "Nora" and the "Sibyl of the Paganet," added another triumph to her year's work. Endowed with a rich voice and subtle emotion, she carried her audience from point to point without apparent effort.

May-time Lunch Notes

Saturday, at 9 a. m. on the fifth floor of Orchard & Wilhelm's store, there will be an auction sale of the equipment used at the May-time lunch room, which closed Thursday. Included in the articles for sale, which were all new at the time of the opening of the lunch room and are still in excellent condition are: Refrigerators, gas stoves, kitchen tables, kitchen cabinets, kitchen utensils, 15 dozen cups and saucers, 15 dozen plates in three sizes, 15 dozen glasses, service trays, glass water pitchers, cream and milk coolers.

The Maytime lunch room at Orchard & Wilhelm's closed Thursday after having been in operation 21 days for the benefit of the Associated Charities. It was estimated by the promoters of the project that the undertaking would net $3,000, but the lunch room grew in popularity to such an extent that the seating capacity was increased from 25 tables on the first day to 72 on the closing day. The dining room was enlarged four times in the 21 days.

Thursday was the biggest day. Five hundred and sixty five were served. Receipts for the day were $773. Luncheon tips were $128.66. Among the largest contributions on Thursday was a $25 check from E. L. Burke received by Helen Rogers. Mrs. E. John Brandeis received $69 at the table which she served. Mr. Brandeis giving his wife a $50 tip. Luther Drake contributed $50 which he gave to his wife, treasurer of the lunch room.

Wednesday, F. H. Davis made the Associated Charities richer by $70, of which $50 was received by Mrs. C. C. Redick and $20 went as a hat tip.

The Concord club, headed by C. E. Cory, president, had luncheon on Thursday and gave a program of music. Every one in the dining room joined in the singing of "America." One number of the concert was given in honor of Mrs. Doane and Mrs. Baldrige, promoters of the lunch room.

Mrs. James Doane and Baldrige, as well as the three hostesses, Mesdames J. E. Davidson, Edwin Swobe and Francis Brogan, were the recipients of many compliments for the success of the project.

What should I tell him, as his constant pleading is unbearable. I like a rose crepe de chine dress that I got some water on and it left a big spot. Would you please tell me what I could do with it? I remain, A FRIEND.

Tell him what you have told me and live up to it. I suspect that in time his pleadings will grow fainter and you will gather strength to bear up under the strain. Send your dress to a reliable cleaner and ask his opinion.

Dear Miss Fairfax, Omaha Bee: I am coming to you with an unsolved problem that I hope to find solved in The Bee. I am a girl, 16 1/2 years old, and there is a boy of 21 constantly tagging after me. He wants me to go with him steady, and that I do not want. He is a real nice young man, but the reason why I won't go with him is that I am too young to have a steady fellow.

Too Young.

Advice to the Lovelorn Love Comes Unbidden and, "To Love or Not We Are No More Free Than the Ripple to Rise and Leave the Sea." By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax: We are two sisters, 16 and 17, and are going steady with two boys, 17 and 18. Is that wrong? They take us to dances and every place like that. They kiss us good-night. Is that wrong? We are very rich and also consider ourselves beautiful. We are very popular. Our parents do not object to our going with boys. How should we comb our hair? We use rouge and powder. Is it wrong? We have a very good school teacher and are learning fast, so we call ourselves smart. One of us has brown hair, brown eyes, and the other blue eyes and brown hair.
