

POLICE BENDING EVERY ENERGY TO FIND TERRORISTS

Each of Eight Cities Visited by Destructive Bomb Agents Combed for Suspects by Government Men.

Every energy tonight toward the capture of the anarchist or anarchists responsible for the bomb explosion early this morning at the home of Judge Charles C. Nott, jr., of the court of general sessions. Discovery during the day of incendiary pamphlets near the scene of the crime, similar to those found in Washington and other cities removed all possibility for doubt that the New York explosion, which resulted in the death of a night watchman, was a part of the organized plot to spread terrorism throughout the nation.

It was intimated that as was the case in the attempt in Washington to blow up Attorney General Palmer, the trail of the outlaws led to Philadelphia. There was no general roundup of known anarchist radicals today, but a number were under surveillance and known haunts were being carefully watched.

Find Circulars in Patterson. Paterson, N. J., June 3.—Copies of the circular signed by the "anarchist fighters" found in various other cities where bomb explosions occurred last night were discovered today here, where explosions wrecked two buildings.

Evidence indicating the bomb may have been intended for John J. Fitzgerald, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, led the police to believe the bomb may have been planted by some of the radical element involved in the recent silk strike here, who were said to have been dissatisfied with the attitude of the chamber.

Police Fail to Find Clue. Philadelphia, June 3.—A 24-hour investigation by agents of the Department of Justice and the police failed to develop a clue to the identity of the perpetrators of the bomb outrages here last night when the rectory of a Catholic church and the house of a private citizen were badly damaged. Neither was there advanced any tangible reason why these places were selected for destruction. Several men were arrested on suspicion, but all were released.

Most of those working on the case seemed to agree that one gang was responsible for the outrages in Philadelphia and seven other cities, the bomb explosions here last December and the mailing of infernal machines in New York in April. It also has been established with a fair degree of definiteness, according to the police, that Philadelphia is the headquarters of the violent radicals of the east and that their missionary who blew himself to atoms in front of Attorney General Palmer's home in Washington was sent from this city.

Although every effort was made to establish this man's identity nothing definite was learned. The proprietors of a hat store located in the Italian quarter of the city whose tag the bomb-thrower's hat bore, said they had sold a large number of hats answering the description and that they could not remember the sale of such a hat to any particular person.

Every meeting place of radical societies of all nationalities is under close surveillance and particular attention is being paid to those in the Italian section. There was a gathering here last Sunday of a score of radical agitators from other cities, according to Superintendent of Police Robinson, but none of them could be found today. One theory is that final plans for the widespread bomb explosions were made at this meeting.

The police department today issued orders for the arrest of persons posting red letters, notices of a general strike, throughout the city. The call is for a "general strike to free all political prisoners" and it is the opinion of the police that the agitators aim to inaugurate here a strike similar to the one that is sweeping Canada. Offers Reward of $1,000. Boston, June 3.—A reward of $1,000 was offered today by District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts of Middlesex county for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person responsible for the bomb explosion at the home of State Representative Edward A. Newton last night. The police of Boston and Newton made an active search today for clues to the perpetrators of this explosion and of that at the home of Police Judge Albert F. Hayden, in the Roxbury district.

Registration of Women For Road Bond Election in Douglas County Light

Commissioner Moorhead Estimates Total Number at 1,500; Few Hesitate to Tell Ages, But Question of Weight Causes Hesitation; Noticeable Chatter Accompanies Ceremonies in Nearly Every Instance.

Less than 1,500 women registered in Douglas county yesterday, according to an estimate made by Election Commissioner Moorhead last night after returns had been received from 10 out of 57 registration places.

It was the first opportunity women have had in the county's history to register for an election, namely the special election to be held June 24, to vote on the proposal to issue $3,000,000 bonds to pay for paving 115 miles of Douglas county roads.

Only 286 women registered at 10 places, including the court house, where an extraordinarily big registration was expected. "Evidently, judging by these returns, the women don't care much about the franchise," said Mr. Moorhead. "The registration is a great disappointment. Of course, the weather had something to do with the result, but it doesn't explain an apparent registration of 1,500, where we had expected from 5,000 to 10,000."

Registrations At 10 Places. The registrations at the 10 places from which returns were received last night, were as follows: Court house, 95; Columbian school, Thirty-eighth and Jones streets, 89; Corvian school, 20; First street school, 10; Second street school, 10; Third street school, 10; Fourth street school, 10; Fifth street school, 10; Sixth street school, 10; Seventh street school, 10; Eighth street school, 10.

Man registers usually in silence. Not so his helpmate. There was a noticeable chatter wherever a registration was going on. A man inspector was at each voting place but he was thrown "into shade" by the two more lively women who did the actual work at each place. The first woman to register at Election Commissioner Moorhead's office in the court house was Mrs. Jessie DeForrest Woodruff Hubbard, wife of Charles J. Hubbard. She registered precisely at 9 o'clock. She is a well-known welfare worker and was a leader in the women's section of the Liberty bond drives.

The registration blanks require also a physical description, including "apparent weight." This question was the source of more trouble than that of "age." A large woman at one of the school houses hesitated at the question. "Well, put it down at 170," she said finally, with a frown. "I don't see why on earth they want to ask all these silly questions. Whose business is it what I weigh? I guess I could vote just as intelligently if I weighed 300 as I can, being a woman of medium weight, like 170."

Questions "Heavy Weight." "My dear! I'd never dream you weighed that much. I should say about 145 or 150 at the most." Mme. Avoir du Pois smiled sweetly. "Most people think I don't weigh more than about 150," she cooed. "And I can easily reduce. In fact, in the winter I always weigh a little more. If you'd see me a month from now you'd hardly know me. Thank you, so much, dear. Good-by." "Hundred and seventy! Huh!" breathed the registrar after she had gone. "If she weighed an ounce under 210, I guess never to vote."

And so politeness and diplomacy pervaded the registering places. Sheriff Cole said that before Mrs. Owens came to Hastings she wrote to him making inquiries as to the whereabouts of the man. After arriving in town she went to the sheriff and made inquiries in person. On May 26, Mrs. Owens made inquiries of Chief St. John, concerning the same man, who was employed on a farm near Prosser. In an interview with St. John, she said that she had talked with the man she claims to be the father of the child. Inquiries made by the officers led them to believe that the man has applied for enlistment in the army. Mrs. Owens claims he left for Omaha, Sunday night.

She rented a squalid cottage in the city and did odd jobs. Her condition became such that in desperation she attempted to kill her child, whom she considered an incubance, by drowning it on Sunday morning. Her attempt was frustrated by a man who happened along, and although he reported the matter to the police, nothing was done. The woman, who is about 40 years of age, discusses her first attempt at murdering the child without apparent feeling. She says that the babe previous to the murderous impulse had infanticide, was in possession of all of its faculties and there was nothing apparently wrong with its sight, yet, after it had been rescued from a watery grave by a casual passerby, it had completely lost its sight.

When the babe was restored to her arms she took it to her squalid home where on Monday morning she slashed its throat and wrists with a butcher knife. She refuses to tell where her native home is or to give any information regarding her husband. Civil and Spanish War Veterans Want Farms. Washington, June 3.—Veterans of the civil and Spanish-American wars asked today that they be included in Secretary Lane's project for farms for soldiers and sailors. When the subject was broached informally last week Secretary Lane told the house public lands committee, comprising the speaker, that he would like to see a law that would give to veterans of other wars would invite opposition.

There was no estimate of the number of civil war veterans who might seek farms, but Daniel B. Chisholm, representing the Spanish war veterans, estimated that about 20 per cent of the 300,000 members might apply for homestead privileges. Members of the committee, however, said this was too high, their estimates running around 1 and 2 per cent. Twelve Prominent Men Die Following Banquet. Dawson, Y. T., June 3.—Of the 36 prominent men of the north who sat down to dinner at the Yukon Gold company's plant of Hunker Creek May 22 in what proved to be a veritable lottery of death, 12 have died from ptomaine poisoning and four are still ill. Among those who died were William Cyrus Lawson, 39, Fort Scott, Kan., of the Yukon Gold company, and John Grant, 53, twenty years prominent in silver mining. He lives in Ashen, Colo. Police Find Door Broken in; Hold Two on Investigation. Fred Sledge, 3202 1/2, South Twenty-fourth street, and Tony Pasha, 1426 South Eleventh street, were arrested at midnight, last night, by Officer Brigham, at Thirteenth and Jackson streets and are held for investigation.

According to the officer, a passerby told him they were acting suspiciously in front of the Italian Mercantile Company, Thirteenth and Jackson streets, and when arrested they were just leaving the building. The door had been kicked in. Gen. George H. Harries in Consultation at Paris. Gen. George H. Harries, the chief of the American military advisers, regarding German affairs, arrived in Paris today from Berlin. It is believed that his visit is for consultation regarding the military measures to be taken in the event of a German refusal to sign the peace treaty.

CHARGE MOTHER WITH MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Complaint Filed Against the Woman Who Killed Babe With Butcher Knife; May Be Insane.

Hastings, Neb., June 3. (Special). Complaint charging first degree murder today was filed by the county attorney against Minnie Owens, said to be a former resident of Douglas, Wyo., who yesterday killed her two-month-old baby by slashing its throat with a butcher knife. The woman is being held pending an investigation as to her sanity. She came to Hastings last April.

Sitting stolidly in her cell in the Adams county jail, Mrs. Owens refuses to give any information regarding herself other than that she formerly kept a rooming house at Douglas, Wyo. Her husband has been dead for several years and she asserts that the father of the child was one of the roomers at her home in Douglas. She says that she does not even know the name of the man and the only thing that she knew about him was that he had formerly been employed as a farm hand in Adams county.

Searched for Man. Before her child came she went to Denver in hope of finding the man who she says is the parent of the babe that she killed. She searched every part of the city in an effort to meet him face to face and after several weeks of haunting the postoffice and all of the public downtown places she finally spent all of the money she had, with the exception of 45 cents, and came to Hastings, thinking the man whose name she did not know, and who she could only identify by his features, had returned to the place where he formerly lived.

Sheriff Cole said that before Mrs. Owens came to Hastings she wrote to him making inquiries as to the whereabouts of the man. After arriving in town she went to the sheriff and made inquiries in person. On May 26, Mrs. Owens made inquiries of Chief St. John, concerning the same man, who was employed on a farm near Prosser. peared, looked over the stern of the bark where Hansen was clinging to a logline, and then turned to the helmsman, demanding to know who ordered him to swing the ship around. "There is a man overboard and the second mate told me to swing the wheel about," Campbell said. Jack Joe, answered. "To hell with the man overboard," Campbell declared the skipper yelled.

Saw Seaman Struggling. "Then," the witness continued, "he ordered Jack Joe to turn the boat back into its course and picking up a tiller pin, ordered both Riley and myself to go below. As I started forward I looked back at the sea and saw Hansen struggling at the end of the logline and I heard him shriek for help three times. The vessel continued on its course and Hansen was left to perish in the sea."

The Paako left Campbell at Cape Town while he was ill in a hospital, he explained and he went to the American consul and made a statement similar in detail to his testimony today. During the trip to Cape Town, he declared, every man on board with the exception of himself and the ships carpenter, were taken below and after being placed in irons, were beaten until their bodies were covered with welts. A heavy piece of wire and a razor strop, he testified, were employed by the skipper and his son to administer the punishment. They also kicked the prisoners with their heavy boots, he declared.

Advocates No Fleets for Great Powers as Preventive of War. Tokio, June 3.—That it was problematical how far the stipulation of the league of nations would be effective in maintaining the peace of the world and that, therefore, Japan would be on the safe side in keeping her military strength in a state of preparedness, was the opinion expressed recently at a meeting of military and naval men, by Marquis Shigenobu Okuma, statesman and former prime minister. The marquis said that the best and only means for the assurance of a lasting world peace was the complete destruction of the fleets of the great powers.
