Chief of Detectives Dunn and Detectives Whalen and Haze made up the squad of officers who swooped down on the party.

John Smith was charged with keeping a gambling house, and Jack Mayer, Twenty-second and Sprague streets; Abe Falisky, 2506 Decatur street; Tom Kelly, 1606 Laird street; Henry Meyer, Carlton hotel, Frank Jones, 1424 South Eighteenth street, were charged with being inmates of a gambling house.

A sum of money aggregating more than $500 was found in the pockets of the prisoners when they were searched at the police station. Two round tables, a cigar box full of chips and several dozen decks of cards were seized as evidence.

All of the prisoners were released on bonds at 2 o'clock.
