SOLDIER MATES INDOOR SPORTS Copyright, 1918, Internation's News Service Drawn for The Bee by Tad Double-headers on Tap at OF MAT CHAMPION ALL FOR CADDOCK

Service Pals Say Earl Will Visit Home and Then Dump Plestina, Zbyszko and Stecher, Et Al.

New York, June 7 .- Stories of the intended retirement of Earl Cadlock, recognized wrestling champion at catch-as-catch-can style, circulated last winter by questionable promoters, were branded as false in their every detail by pals of the mat champion who returned from France last week. Not only has Caddock no intention of quitting the sport, but on the contrary he says he will be ready shortly to dispose of Zbyszho, Lewis, Stecher, Plestina and any others who have spent the last two years claiming a crown belonging to a man stationed along the French

Contenders Not Popular.

From the conversation of these soldiers the wrestlers who remained at home are none too popular with Caddock. It is said that the leader of the grapplers will be a hard man to deal with when it comes to mak-ing matches. Caddock, his friends say, is not under contract to any manager and does not intend to tie up with any one, at least until he finds out the situation here. He has been out of touch with the wrestlers and only recently heard that Jack Curley was billing Zbyszko as the Curley was billing Zbyszko as the champion until Stecher, Lewis and Olin threw the Pole into the discard in successive bouts.

Caddock expects to go to his home immediately after he is discharged from the army and will spend a few weeks getting acquainted with his family and "just resting," as his friends asserted. He may not indulge in any big matches until next fall, but by that time he will be ready to talk terms with Curley or even Plestina. As to Plestina, the sponsors for Caddock were certain that the champion had no idea of barring any one, much less an op-ponent who exhibited any promise of an interesting session.

rance. About the only matches in buch he was a performer were those among the soldiers. Most of the allied soldiers who took the mat sport were better posted in Graeco-Roman grappling than in the brand of sport which Caddock has learned.

'Jack Curley may be a 'wrestling ast,'" the soldiers say, "but Caddock is the champion, and we would like to see any other self-styled leader make a yell about it. We intend to see that Caddock receives his just dues and that he is setback in the wrestling sport," was the parting threat.
