E. E. Peake, Kansas City Realtor, exexplained very clearly how the value of Real Estate must increase. He said the rule applies to all kinds of Real Estate, from the lowest to the highest priced. He said: .

"There never will be any more Real Estate, but the number of people to use it is increasing all the time.

"Nobody can manufacture any more Real Estate to supply the growing demand.

"The Real Estate you buy will not have to compete with any new Real Estate. There won't be any new Real Estate. Because of the limited supply and increasing demand, it can truthfully be said that the amount of Real Estate is growing scarcer each year in proportion to demand.
