LONDOS LOSES BUT GIVES BIG LEWIS A TUSSLE

Greek Champion Springs Surprise on Strangler and Fans, Using Wrist and Head Locks.

In one of the best wrestling matches ever seen in Qmaha. Ed New York Strangler Lewis defeated Jim Londos of Canton, O., in two straight falls, winning the first with a headlock, with which he throw Londos to the floor so heavily that he was practically knocked out and rolled on his back, whereupon Referee Ernie Holmes patted Lewis on the back in token of victory; after one hour, 34 minutes and 45 seconds. Upon returning to the ring Lonjured his neck in the first fall but would do the best he could and take the Strangler on for the second fall. He carried the match to his opponent for a time and succeeded n getting Lewis in two dangerous positions, once with a wrist-lock and again with a head-lock. The Sandow entry finally clamped another head-lock on the Greek and though he was not pinned, he con-ceded the fall in 27 minutes and 30

Though out-weighed by at least pounds, Londos gave Lewis the eatest surprise of his life, breading and getting away from the deadly headlock at least four times during the match, though he finally succumbed to the grip in both falls.

The Greek clamped the same hold on the Strangler several times and the work associated by the same hold on the Strangler several times and the same hold on the Strangler several times and the same hold on the Strangler several times and the way with considerable difficulty. it was with consierable difficulty that he finally broke the clamp. The Greek made a specialty of a louble-wrist lock, with which he had his man almost pinned two or three times. He escaped in such apparently easy fashion from most of Lewis holds that the Strangler was exasperated. His vicious attacks were easily warded off, however, by the speedy Greek, who in turn rushed Lewis around trying for the headlock and wrist-lock.

It was certainly a fine match, though attended by only about 2,500 fans. It was expected that Londos would prove an easy victor to the would prove an easy victim to the mighty Lewis, but he surprised everyone, including the famous head-lock exponent. It was the consensus of opinion among those near the ring, that had Lewis been nearer Londos' weight, the result might have been different. At any rate, Lewis' bulk saved him on various occasions, especially when the smaller man had his wrist-lock hold.

nad the Strangler in such close positions, it was seen by close observers that Holmes' judgment was correct. The preliminary was a quick-finshafair, being billed for a finish tatch to one fall between Joe tangl and Jess Queen. Joe threw veen in three minutes flat with a filer on and Jess Queen. Charley Peters to Tackle Jack Gana in Main Event; - Miller Meets Jack Solomon.

One week from tonight Charley Peters, the Sarpy county sheriff, will meet Jack Gana, the Firth, Neb., heavyweight on the mat in the Council Bluffs auditorium under the direction of Al Fiori. They against a youngster, Everett Miller

The opening bout will be between two Council Bluffs lightweight amateur wrestlers. This match will be brimful of pepper, for the simonpures always "shoot" for blood. This is a card that should make a fine attraction, for each bout billed appears as good as either of the other two. Fiori will try the big men in the Bluffs for a time and see if the fans want the heavies rather than the little men.
