

K. OF C. PATROL PICKS UP MAN LOST AT SEA

After Months of Unsuccessful Search Nova Scotian K. of C. at Last Finds Body of New Yorker.

New York, June 14.—(Special)—Armitage day was one of jubilation for millions of New Yorkers, but on that day the family of Thomas J. Enright of New York were informed by telegraph that Enright, who was a member of the crew of a U. S. submarine chaser stationed at Sydney, N. S., had been reported missing after a risky ride in the waters of the north Atlantic. Enright was a member of Marquette Council of the Knights of Columbus. His cap was the only object picked out of the water by those who tried to rescue him.

Enright's mother was anxious to hear more of him; to secure her boy's body, if at all possible, so that it might be buried at home, in his native soil. Joseph J. Sheehan, grand knight of Marquette Council sent word from New York to W. R. Hearn, grand knight of the K. of C. council at Sydney, Nova Scotia, to this effect. A meeting of the Sydney Council was held, and the members volunteered to keep a watch, night and day, patrolling the shore and the sea in three-hour shifts, to find the body, if it could be found.

Body Is Found.

Through the early winter into the deep winter of the north Canada coast, when the water is icy cold and it is dangerous for men to be on it in open boats, the Sydney Knights combed the sea and searched every inch of the rocky coast line. Day after day and week after week the search went on, one set of members relieving another, so that the entire council took part in the search. Spring came and still no sign had been found of the lost sailor. April went into May, and May ran on, an unusually stormy May, when, just as the Sydney knights were giving up all hope of being able to console, in some way, the mother heart of the woman they had never seen, the body was found, strangely preserved by the utter cold of the water in which it had remained for many weeks, and easily recognizable.

Instantly, word was sent to New York. W. R. Hearn of Sydney and another member of the K. of C. council there, Daniel McCarthy, announced the fact to the people anxiously awaiting the news in New York. They had known the young sailor as a visitor to the club maintained for American and Canadian service men in Sydney.

Carrying their interest in the case of the New York mother even further, they secured the services of the best undertaker in Sydney and Mr. Hearn and McCarthy accompanied the body to New York. Mrs. McCarthy also making the trip and bringing with her the wreaths from the women of Sydney to Mrs. Enright, the mother of the dead sailor, as an expression of gratitude from the Canadian seaport for her sacrifice for the common cause.

Young Enright was buried with full honors at Calvary cemetery, a funeral of 22 sailors attending the funeral. The Canadian knights refused to accept any refund for the expense they had undergone. William J. Mulligan, chairman of the Knights of Columbus committee on war activities, commenting on the case, declared it to be an instance of what the knights had always aimed to achieve in their work—sacrifice for service men wherever sacrifice would bring help to them and consolation to their families.

K. of C. Plans to Erect Two Buildings at Panama

Arlington, Mass. June 14.—James M. Mead, state treasurer of the Knights of Columbus, has left for Panama to superintend the construction, for the national Knights of Columbus of two buildings, at either end of the Canal zone, which are to be used as welfare centers for United States soldiers and sailors.

These buildings are to be erected at once, one at Cristobal, on the Atlantic side, and the other at Balboa, on the Pacific. They are to be of concrete and will cost in the vicinity of $40,000 each. They are to be so appointed and equipped as to meet the recreational, amusement and educational needs of the 25,000 men of the service who are practically isolated in the Canal zone, and, it is expected, will prove an agency of great moral betterment.

Aviator Falls 1,000 Feet From Airplane; Uninjured

Rockford, Ill. June 14.—To fall 1,000 feet in an airplane and come out uninjured is the miraculous experience of Sergeant Francis Carrack and C. D. Cannon. They were on their first lap of a flight from Fort Snelling, Minn., to Rockford in a machine they had purchased at auction from the government. Two miles out the airplane collapsed and landed in a swamp. Word of the accident was received here, where Carmack resides. Both were recently discharged from the aviation section of the army. They expect to attempt the flight again as soon as their plane is repaired.

Curiosity Proves Fatal

Carlinville, Ill. June 14.—Curiosity spelled death for James Slabi. He and other companions were playing near an old abandoned coal mine shaft here. Slabi espied a copper boiler at the bottom of the shaft. He wanted it. Securing a rope he tied it about his waist and with the aid of the boys was lowered into the shaft. A few minutes afterward he began to cry for help. When his companions pulled the rope up he had unlabeled it. The cries continued. Then one of the boys volunteered to go to Slabi's rescue. The rope was tied about his body and he entered the opening. Shortly afterward he, too, began to call for aid. On being brought to the surface, the rescuer was revived from a poisonous gas fumes with difficulty. When Slabi's body was finally recovered he was dead.
