

CROSS COUNTRY FLIGHT SOON TO BE UNDERTAKEN

Four Army Airplanes Will Fly From Long Island to Seattle to Chart Route.

Washington, June 17.—The army air service announced yesterday that four planes of the Curtiss J. N-4 type soon would start on a transcontinental flight from Hazelhurst field, Mineola, L. I., to Seattle, Washington. The flight will be for the purposes of mapping out an aerial route between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

The personnel of the squadron, which will be accompanied by an observation balloon and motor trucks, will consist of 16 officers and 36 enlisted men. Stops will be made at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Indianapolis, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Fargo, Bismark and several other cities.

is a story of how a little girl of an orphanage asylum is given a chance to become an educated young lady in a boarding school. Her benefactor she pictures as a venerable old gentleman, and she terms him "Daddy Longlegs" because the only glimpse of him that she has ever had is the flash of a long pair of legs by the garden gate. How they meet—and how he wins her love is a charming love story.

It's Miss Pickford's first picture made at the head of her own company and was directed by Marshall Neilan.

And Here's a Treat for the Kiddies. We want every child in Omaha to see this picture, therefore: Saturday Morning at 9:15 we will present a Special Children's Matinee at Reduced Prices—10c (Admission 5c, War Tax 1c)

What Madge Feared When Dicky "Spoke His Mind" to Rita Brown.

Rita Brown's cocktail was only the first of a series of alcoholic concoctions which she insisted upon ordering and drinking during our evening at "The Sand Pile."

The only appreciable effect upon her at first was to give her facile, brilliant wit a keener edge, he eyes a more alluring sparkle, her cheeks, pallid from her illness, a becoming rose flush. She kept us all amused and interested, a distinct triumph as far as the women of the party were concerned, for I knew the little Mrs. Durkee and Leila Fairfax shared my feelings of distrust and disapproval of the girl.

trace of embarrassment, simply glanced at me coolly with a rather a preoccupied air, and followed Miss Brown's glance toward the dancers, who despite their garish make-up, irresistibly suggested to me Dicky's caustic description of "oldest female inhabitants of New York."

A Cheap Display.
The scene framing them had been widely heralded, but to my mind it seemed not only vulgar, but cheaply crude in its illusions and appointments. A back drop represented ocean waves and a sandy beach. Against this were several bathhouses, and in the foreground large piles of sand and a floor thickly strewn with sand save for a small space at one side for solo or trick dancing.

The dancers, issuing from the bathhouses, in costumes which evidently were intended to escape police censorship by only the slightest margin, gave what was put upon the program as "Dancing by the glad sea waves," and finished with a Bacchanalian romp in which a number of men attired as beach guards piled sand upon them as they stretched out upon the supposed beach.

I covertly watched Dicky's face through the thing. My Puritan training still clings to me, although I have learned to accept Dicky's leader, easier standard in many ways. But the entertainment offered us seemed to me so much worse than the ordinary that I wondered if it would meet with no objection upon his part.

What Dicky Said.
I could tell nothing from Dicky's face. He looked supremely indolent as he lounged in his seat watching the dancers through half-closed eyes, a trick of his when he's bored. But when the dancers had withdrawn again to their bathhouses he opened his eyes and looked at Rita Brown.

"Pleasant little place you've picked, dearie," he said, and I wondered if the girl's naturally keen mentality would recognize the contempt in his tone. He looked calm, appraisingly at her for a minute, then turned to Alfred Durkee.

"Lucky for those dames out there we're living in 1919," he said lazily.

"Ten years ago that performance and those costumes would have had to be staged in a bomb-proof, secret cellar."

Rita Brown bent toward him, her face flushed now to an unbecoming red. The intoxicants she had taken were evidently beginning to have their effect upon her temper, and Dicky's sterner had applied the match. I held my breath for fear of what she might do or say.

Police Fail to Heed Call; Priest Watches Lumber During Night

Because police failed to respond to his urgent call for assistance, Father Leo Patrick was forced to spend several hours Monday night watching lumber to be used in the construction of the St. Cecilia cathedral, Fortieth and Burt streets, from thieves.

Father Patrick was returning to the cathedral parish with a friend shortly after 12 o'clock Monday night. As he approached the vicinity of Fortieth and Webster he saw a truck drive up and stop. As he approached he saw two men run away from a large pile of lumber at Thirty-ninth and Webster and hide in some bushes. This lumber was taken from the cathedral.

Father Patrick called the police at exactly 12:40 o'clock he says, and waited on the lumber pile till 2 o'clock in the morning. No police arrived.

He then went to his room, where he watched the lumber from his window till daylight, but no police came, he says.

Yank Killed, 100 Injured When K. of C. Hut Collapses

Brest, June 17.—One American soldier was killed, two are dying and over 100 others were injured, as the result of the collapse of a Knights of Columbus hut in Pontanezen last night, while a boxing match was in progress.

WILSON TO SAIL FOR U. S. AT ONCE IF GERMAN SIGN

Will Address Congress Immediately On Arrival and Then Start Tour On Behalf of League.

Washington, June 17.—President Wilson hopes to leave Paris for Washington on June 24 or 25 if the Germans sign the peace treaty.

Immediately after his arrival in Washington the president will address congress. After clearing up pressing official business he will start on his "swing around the circle" early in July.

It was said at the White House today that the president expected to spend three weeks on his speaking tour, explaining the peace treaty and the league of nations covenant.

Refuses Treaty to Senate.
The president's decision to stump the country in behalf of the league of nations covenant was revealed coincident with receipt of a message in which he declined to give the official text of the peace treaty, requested in a resolution adopted over vigorous opposition of the league supporters.

A tentative itinerary for the speaking trip has been completed by Secretary Tamm, but it will not be made public until Mr. Wilson finally has approved it. It is expected, however, that the tour will carry him into the far west and will occupy many days.

Will Visit Far West.
It was said he probably will devote most attention to western states, where league opposition has gained the greatest headway.

It is regarded as certain that opposition speakers will follow the president's special train through the doubtful states.

Opposition senators generally, however, declined from making any comment on the executive's plan of campaign. The message declining to send the treaty text also was received in silence when it was read to the senate, but Senator Johnson, republican, of California, who introduced the resolution making the request, is expected to make the president's action the subject of a senate speech within the next few days.

Omaha Police Officers Don't Need Warrants, Ak-Sar-Ben Actors Say

The performers of "The Wandering Jew," the musical show at the Ak-Sar-Ben "den," Monday night took advantage of the local police situation by introducing a bit of what is known as "ad lib stuff."

A squad of officers rush in and seize liquors. They are asked to show their warrants, whereupon the sergeant exclaims: "We belong to the Omaha police department; we don't need any warrants."

The audience responded with an uproar of laughter.

Night Riders in Omaha

Night Riders are cowards working as a mob, who use the cloak of darkness to cover unlawful deeds. They are messengers of terror, voicing threats, and committing acts of violence.

They are at work in Omaha.

What Do They Want?

Ask the Alamito Dairy Company. This company delivers milk, a highly perishable product, to many thousands of Omaha homes. It serves the children, the feeble and the sick. It is busy when most people sleep, in order to serve the convenience of its patrons. Its employes are loyal, satisfied men and women. There is no grievance between the salesmen, who deliver for this company, and the management. None of its employes are on strike.

Yet, during the progress of the present so-called strike of the Omaha Union Team and Truck Drivers, the Alamito Dairy Company has been the victim of Night Rider attacks—persistent, systematic, as cowardly as they have been ineffective.

A Midnight Demonstration

Tuesday morning, shortly after midnight, automobiles carrying more than 50 men stopped near the Alamito building at 26th and Leavenworth.

Wagons were on the street about the plant and drivers were preparing their loads for early morning deliveries.

With obvious attempts at intimidation, Night Rider Visitors formed in column and marched up and down in front of the Alamito plant, demonstrating to each driver the risk he incurred by opposing the autocratic command of the Teamsters' Union to "Get a Union Button or Get Off of Omaha Streets."

Two Hours Later

Not more than two hours later one of these Alamito wagons was overturned and smashed and the milk it carried was poured into the gutter.

Five Night Riders, sneaking out of the darkness, pounced on this rig, driven by a soldier recently home from his country's defense and engaged peacefully in the lawful work of serving Omaha citizens, overturned and destroyed the wagon and contents and fled into the night.

What do you think of this scheme to force men into a Union, to force Closed Shop among Omaha drivers?

Another Wagon Smashed

Last Saturday morning, between 3:30 and 4:00 o'clock, another Alamito salesman, a regular employe peacefully and lawfully pursuing his regular work of delivering milk and dairy products, was stopped by masked Night Riders, violently jerked from his wagon, abused in filthy terms, and his wagon was overturned and the contents destroyed.

Other drivers for the same company have been cursed, abused and threatened, bricks have been thrown at company officials and illegal picketing of the company buildings has been constant since the so-called strike was called a week ago.

Why is Alamito Attacked?

Alamito employes are not on strike. They have no grievances. They are citizens of Omaha engaged lawfully in earning a living by serving the public.

But

They are not members of the Teamsters' Union. They do not wish to join the Teamsters' Union. They do wish to maintain their present friendly relations with their employer.

This is their "crime."
This is why Alamito salesmen are picked for persecution.
This is why they are hounded by cowardly "Night Riders" night after night.
This is why Alamito has been delayed to some extent in serving its Omaha patrons.

Will the people of Omaha stand by Alamito and its loyal employes?
