NEW TRACTOR LAW CALLS FOR $30,000 OUTLAY

Handling of Inspections to Cost About Three Times First Estimate; Will Be a Serious Proposition.

Lincoln, June 19.—Handling of tractor inspections under the new law passed by the legislature is going to be a serious proposition and will call for a greater outlay of funds than at first contemplated.

The law places the inspections under the jurisdiction of the State university and requires that all tests be reported to the State Railway commission. The law also requires that the State Railway commission shall deny any liquid fuel tractor company the right to do business in the state, without complaint of two or more bona fide customers residing within the state is found to have failed to maintain an adequate service station with full supply of replacement parts and within reasonable shipping distance of said customers.

Must Have Permit.

The law also provides as follows: After July 15, 1919, any gas, gasoline, kerosene, distillate or other liquid fuel tractor or tractor company selling or offering for sale the same, or any other company or individual operating in the name of such tractor company, or on their behalf, shall have a permit.

Do you remember those first warm days of spring when the call of the old swimming hole was a darn sight more than the old gang of fellers, including Skinny and Yaller and Fat and Red and Chawklit was able to withstand. Take your memory back to the good old days by seeing a kid swimming party as shown in the current number of the Omaha Bee's Screen Magazine in the Brandaids.

Other subjects containing both a humorous and educational element are promised, among which are the possibilities for the spendthrift in New York who has only a penny, also the varied uses to which a gas mask may be put, to say nothing of what a Brooklyn man will try to do to speeders by means of his invention.

An interesting subject shows the way in which New York has solved the problem of transporting her millions to work from their work each day. The ever-timely quips of Abe Martin and the animated cartoon also contribute to the general humorous nature of the film.

John Schalk Cleared of Charge of Selling Liquor to Indians

Government prosecution lost its first case for this session of the federal court yesterday, when Wesley Schack, charged with selling liquor to Indians and introducing liquor into the Winnebago reservation last December, was found not guilty after the jury had been out only a few minutes.

The trial was featured by the testimony of several Indians, accompanied by an interpreter and by former government and Sioux City police agents.

Schack maintained that there was a conspiracy between the booze hounds to "frame up" on him in order to get the proceeds from the sale of his car after his arrest on the reservation. The former agents testified that Schack had over $1,000 in bills on his person at the time of the arrest. The defendant acknowledged serving time in the Woodbury, Ia., jail for transporting three cartloads of liquor from Minnesota to Sioux City, but maintained that he had "gone straight" since then.

At the Empress.

One of the features in the musical revue at the Empress "The Hodge Podge Sextette," is a picturesque setting of a cafe in Venice showing the famous streets of water with gondolas. The second scene is an artistic conception called "Peacock Paradise" that serves to introduce Benny Barton, a youngster still in his teens. The final scene shows an alley in the famous East Side section of New York City with the entire company appearing as juveniles.

Youthful in Body and Mind

Never mind your age—as measured by years. How do you feel? That's the thing that counts!

See this sprightly old gentleman coming toward you down the street. His birth record would show you that he is past seventy. But judging from the easy grace with which he swings along, his erect carriage, his ruddy complexion, the keen glance of his eye, his whole appearance the very picture of health, you would say that he is not a day past fifty. He is young in spite of his three score years and ten.

More frequently you see the opposite of his type. Men scarcely in their thirties—haggard, listless, weak, nervous—men who take no interest in life, just dragging out a weary existence, all in, tired and worn out. Though young in years, they are, nevertheless, old men. Their vital forces are on the wane. They've lost their "punch" and "pep." They feel old—and they look it!

Stay young by keeping your body fit. Keep stomach, bowels, liver, kidneys and bladder healthy and active. Build up your strength and health. Nothing will accomplish these results better than
