Today's game was hard fought throughout, sensational fielding being staged by both teams. All four of the errors made, however were of very rankest variety, three of them aiding in the run getting.

Omaha bunched four of its five hits in the third inning with a couple of the county of the coun in the third inning with a couple bobbles by Slattery, scoring all of its runs thereby.

Kopp opened the session with a single into right, the first hit made Sparks, Gislason followed him with single to left. Jackson hit into what appeared to be a cinch double play, but Slattery threw the ball into left and Kopp scored. Gissdouble play, but Stattery tines the ball into left and Kopp scored. Gisslason tried to make third on the play and did so, but he overslid the base and was tagged cut. Two were out when Kirby flied to Davis. Donica started things again, however, by singling to right, scoring Jackson. Slattery then booted Hazen's grounder Donica scored. Hazen's grounder Donica scored. Hazen went to second on the error and registered on Hale's single to left.

LEWIS DOES NOT FEAR STECHER'S SCISSORS HOLD

Wisconsin Hen Lays Nine Strangler Was Afraid of Dodge Wrestler's Highly Touted Grip in First Match; Says "No," Now.

On his recent visit to Omaha, Strangler Lewis got to talking about his early Stecher matches. He said:

Later Benson appeared in the countries of the countries "Everybody makes a mistake at ty judge's office here and swore to some time or another. I made the an affidavit that Rhodes' hen laid biggest mistake in my Evansville Rhodes called up and announced and in my Omaha match with Stecher. I admit I had great respect at that time over Joe's much her-alden scissor hold. I felt that once in the throes of the hold it would spell my finish. Therefore I set out to tire him out and with confidence in my greater endurance I stalled and played away from him. I know that it does not look good to follow such tactics and my only defense is that all is fair in love and wrestling. Stecher's friends were around betting that I would not last half an hour and some of the more enthusiastic wagered that I would be thrown two falls in that time. made up my mind to stick and I did. However, you must remember that all that time I was inside the ropes and it was up to the great Joe Stecher to come and get me. In this he failed utterly." "Today I have no fear for Stecher's scissor hold, nor anything else he's got. I have worked out a good defense for his much-touted hold and I have perfected my own head lock, and then some more holds. I am willing to stake all my future in wrestling by making this prom-ise: I will go after Stecher the moment we are called to the center of the mat and I will keep after him until his shoulders are on the mat. I do not fear him and I showed that plainly in Chicago. This time I will go out after him and I will see ust how fast I can pin him into the has-been class." Big talk this is. But anyone that knows Ed Lewis knows that he is not much given to braggadocio talking and that with him his word is his bond. Lewis would never make such a statement unless he felt absolutely sure that he will carry it out to the letter.
