He will receive $3,000 for his services. He will also accompany the board on its tour of inspection of other state capitols.

The board agreed upon holding regular meetings in the future, and the first and third Wednesday of each month will be the days, unless important business should require a special meeting, which will be called by the chairman.

TAFT SPEAKS ON LEAGUE BEFORE LINCOLN CLUB

Denies That He Was the Originator and Says Idea Is Many Centuries Old.

Lincoln, June 24.—Looking as if he weighed 100 pounds less than when he was here as a candidate for the presidency in 1904, and admitting that he had lost five pounds more since morning because of the extreme heat, former President William Howard Taft spoke Tuesday evening before the Knife and Fork club of Lincoln to about 300 banqueters, his subject being the league of nations.

He was introduced by Governor McKelvie, who said that in one thing he and Taft were alike; both had their hobbies. His was the code law, while Taft's was the league of nations. Mr. Taft corrected a remark made by the governor to the effect that he was the originator of the league of nations. "That is a mistake," said the former president, "for the idea is centuries old."

His address was along about the same lines as the one made in Omaha a few weeks ago and other addresses made throughout the country, but expressing much satisfaction that the peace treaty was now an assured fact. Before the speaking began a message was read from General Pershing, sent from France.

PICK JURY TO TRY HEAD OF NONPARTISANS

Twelve Farmers Obtained in Jackson County, Minn., District Court; Townley Is Charged With Conspiracy.

Jackson, Minn., June 24.—A jury of 12 farmers was obtained in Jackson county district court to try President A. C. Townley of the Nonpartisan league and Joseph Gilbert, a former organizer for the league, on the charge of conspiracy to teach disloyalty.

Selection of the jury began Tuesday morning and only a few men on the panel were challenged or dismissed for cause.

None of the jurors live in the city of Jackson. Attorneys for the prosecution, as well as the defense, asked the jury-men as to whether any friends or acquaintances had "sounded them out" regarding their views prior to or since the case was called for trial.

Talked in Barber Shop. Louis Bachman, a prospective juror, declared shortly after the afternoon session opened he told a barber at noon he thought it would be difficult to get a jury, because "they all are prejudiced against the Nonpartisan league." He was excused.

Bachman made this statement after Attorney Hoke, chief counsel for Townley, asked Bachman, who was on the stand, whether he had discussed the case while in a barber shop here at noon. Hoke told Judge C. E. Dean, after Bachman was excused, that the information came to him by accident. "It looked as if somebody was trying to draw out the juryman," said the judge to Bachman, after calling his attention to the fact that just before the noon recess he had urged the jurors and the prospective jurors not to discuss the case with any one.

SENATE FIRST TO HEAR WILSON UPON ARRIVAL

Abandons Plan to Address Joint Congressional Session; to Start Tour Immediately After Speech.

By JAY JEROME WILLIAMS. (Staff Correspondent Universal Service.)

Washington, June 24.—President Wilson will make his first address in this country, upon his return, to the senate, and not to both houses of congress, as was originally planned, it was learned today. In arriving at this decision to restrict his remarks to the senators the president was influenced, it is understood, by the wishes of the members of his own party and an interesting bit of psychology is thereby revealed.

By addressing the members of the senate, to the exclusion of the members of the house, the president will deftly acquaint his audience with the fact that he considers it the body which will have the power to consider and either ratify or reject the treaty. He is desirous, it is believed, of allowing the senators to know in this fashion the responsibility that is theirs in their consideration of the treaty.

Defers to Republican Senators. Should the president have followed his original desire to address both houses of congress some members of the republican majority in the senate, it has been suggested, might not accept his speech in the same spirit they would were it delivered to the senate alone.

Within a day or two after he arrives in Washington the president will start on his speaking tour of the country on behalf of the league of nations. Contrary to some reports nothing has occurred which might make the president give up his idea of a swing around the circle to report to the people in person. His decision to canvass the country was made at least four months ago in Paris when the first rumblings were heard of opposition to the league of nations.

Itinerary to Be Announced Soon. Details of the president's itinerary may be made public at the White House today. The White House is momentarily expecting a cable telling the date of the president's departure from Paris and it is thought he will sail from Brest either Wednesday or Thursday at the latest. This will bring him back to the capital on July 5.

There was general relief in administration circles today because of the fall in the senate's fight against the league of nations and the belief was expressed that possibly the opponents of the league had exhausted most of their "thunder." In this case, however, the wish was doubtless father of the thought for it is generally conceded that the president when he returns, will find the opposition renewed in full force.

The president may be brought to Hampton Roads by the George Washington, but wherever he debarks a special train will be waiting to speed him direct to Washington. He has asked that no demonstrations or reception be held in his honor at the port of debarkation or at the capital.

If the president returns in the first week of July he will have been in Europe, with the exception of his brief visit to the United States last March, practically seven months. He landed at Brest, France, December 13, on his first voyage across to the peace conference. The peace conference did not open until January 18, but in the meantime the president was feted in England and Italy, where he was the guest of the sovereigns of those nations.

Wealthy Farmer Is Defendant in Two $10,000 Damage Suits. Beatrice, Neb., June 24.—(Special.)—William Palmer of Liberty, wealthy landowner and Angus cattle breeder, was made defendant in two damage suits filed in the district court, aggregating $20,000.

Lloyd Palmer, nephew of the defendant in the first action, charges that the elder Palmer was instrumental in bringing him before Justice Huntington on May 24, last, on a false criminal charge involving Miss Marie Johnson, who is employed in the farm home. It is stated at the time that Mrs. Lloyd Palmer was in Colorado. Young Palmer avers that he appeared in court May 26, and as the complaining witness was not present the case in this action was dropped.

In the second suit Miss Johnson also asks $10,000 damages. William Palmer is said to be worth upward of $150,000. He owns 300 acres of land in Gage county and 400 acres in Washington county, Kan.
