

SENATORS HOPE TO WIN FIGHT ON HYDRO POWER

Western and Southern Representatives Pressing for Legislation to Unlock the Resources of Their States.

Washington, June 30.—Western and southern senators and representatives pressing for water power legislation to unlock the resources of their states, now expect to win their fight in congress during the next few weeks after years of effort.

Senator Jones of Washington, chairman of the commerce committee, author of one of the pending water power bills in the senate and who will take charge of legislation on the floor, announced before leaving for Washington, that "after a long delay congress is about to act."

The house is half way through a bill by Representative Esch of Wisconsin, chairman of the house commerce committee, and will resume consideration Monday. It is identical in terms with the measure which passed both house and senate during the last congress, and has reached the stage of a conference report, which also was accepted by the house, but which failed in the senate on account of a filibuster.

Same Measures in Senate.
Measures practically the same have been introduced in the senate by Senators Bankhead of Alabama and Walsh of Montana. Senator Shields has introduced another bill, the same as twice was passed by the senate in previous congresses, and Senator Jones also has introduced a bill much the same as the one now under consideration in the house. Still another bill embodying the ideas of Gifford Pinchot has been introduced by Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin. The support of the western members seem to be centering around the Esch and Jones bills, with the exception that they will be consolidated. The Jones bill has been referred to the public lands commission of which Senator Smoot of Utah is chairman, and he has appointed a sub-committee of five of that committee to work with a sub-committee of the commerce committee having in hand the Jones bill.

Out of the combination, the supporters of waterpower legislation expect to get a measure, which being the same as was approved by congress at the last session, will still be endorsed by Secretaries Lane, Houston and Baker, who compose the inter-departmental water power committee.

The situation on water power legislation at this stage reflects the long contest between those waiting to develop water powers on the one hand to get a law, under which they believe they can secure investment of capital, and conservatism advocates on the other, who are contending for restrictions to preserve the interests of the government. The bill, which failed at the last congress, seemed to be satisfactory to both elements.

"The Esch bill is now before the house," said Senator Jones, "and will be passed within a day or so. The subcommittee, which has been appointed by the commerce and public land committees of the senate to deal with the water power questions, are about to take up their work and will energetically push it through."

"When permitted to utilize the giant forces now wasting in the falling waters of the Rocky, Sierra Nevada, Cascade, Bitter Root and other mountain ranges, within their borders, the eleven far western states, of which my own state of Washington is one, will show marvelous growth in wealth and population. But water power development is a question of national, not sectional importance. Great water powers located in 22 states in the east and south as well as the far west have been held back from development awaiting further federal legislation. But now, after long delay, congress is about to act."

YANK FORCES GET READY TO LEAVE FOR U. S. SHORES

Coblenz, June 30.—(By the Associated Press.)—Home-going activities began in earnest among the troops in the area occupied by American forces as soon as the news that the treaty of peace had been signed was received.

In Luxemburg the fifth division was prepared to entrain as soon as final orders came and in the Bridgehead area where the first and second divisions and part of the third have been concentrated since last week, when it appeared the Germans might balk at the treaty, preparations began immediately for moving back to quarters in villages and barracks.

This movement will require only two or three days then the first, second and third divisions will make themselves comfortable while awaiting orders which eventually take them home. According to present plans the fifth division will begin moving toward Brest, Tuesday and the fourth division or Sunday.

The date for the departure of the third division is expected to follow the fourth.

It is understood that both the first and second divisions will be out of Germany before August 1, but much will depend on transportation facilities of the railways. It is reported here if the American flag is to remain on the Rhine with a regiment of possibly a smaller unit, as part of the permanent army of occupation, this unit will consist of volunteers who were recruited in America and who recently arrived in France.

Details of the ceremony attending the signing of the treaty were received at third army headquarters by special signal corps men and then relayed throughout the area, where the troops were eagerly awaiting the news.

Captain Ruckteschel did not divulge the destination of the craft upon leaving Kiel. When the boat reached the open sea he told the crew he would not return as the honor and fortune of Germany had been lost in the peace treaty.

Envoys Leave France Punctiliously Polite

Paris, June 30.—The departure of Dr. Hermann Mueller and Dr. Bell and about 50 other members of the German delegation from Versailles Saturday night was virtually unnoticed.

The Germans were sent in 15 automobiles by a roundabout route to Noisy-Le-Roi, where they boarded their train at 9 o'clock.

The Germans were accompanied as far as Cologne by French and Italian officers. The Germans took their leave of the French officers at Versailles with punctilious politeness.

Herr Haniel von Haimhausen, Herr Leinert and Herr Dunker are among the 58 Germans who will remain at Versailles for a short time.
